INTRODUCTION

These reports are intended for a general, nonspecialist audience. They run the gamut of the arts and sciences, historical and current events, and should provide the reader with useful introductions to given topics. May they encourage a few happy hours of suggestive thought!

VEGETARIANS CAUSE MASS FAMINE

Survival was a moral as well as a physical struggle. A woman doctor wrote to a friend in June 1933 that she had not yet become a cannibal, but was 'not sure that I shall not be one by the time my letter reaches you.' The good people died first. Those who refused to steal died. Those who gave food to others died. Those who refused to eat corpses died. Those who refused to kill their fellow man died. Parents who resisted cannibalism died before their children did. (Bloodlands: Europe Between Hitler And Stalin by Timothy Snyder). Famine. An immense skull in the sky stared down on communist lands, blocked out the sun, and brought down unremitting horror. The regime of collectivization, confiscation of grain and abolition of private property established in the former Communist Bloc resulted in the greatest acts of mass murder in the history of mankind. They resulted in the deaths of 100 million people through planned starvation in the Soviet Famine of 1930-1933, the Holodomor in Ukraine of 1932-1933, and the Great Chinese Famine of 1959-1961, and they placed death on the throne of power for seven decades. Genocide through mass starvation was among the leading notes in the dark symphony of communist crimes, and twenty five years after the fall of the Communist Bloc, planned starvation is returning to the world through courses of food promoted in the West by the far left. These diets reject the consumption of meat in the name of animal rights and fighting climate change, and they are placing millions of people under the shadow of starvation. As Marxism wields its terrifying influence across the free world, this greatest mass religion after Christianity and Islam is writing menus designed to starve people and express its hatred of human existence. Vegetarian diets fall into two main categories, those allowing the consumption of dairy and eggs, and those forbidding it, called vegan, and these radical diets are causing widespread malnutrition. Diets of Death. Vegan diets cause calcium and vitamin D deficiencies, lowering bone mineral density. They cause skyrocketing bone fracture rates. Low levels of Omega 3, iodine and vitamin B12, the latter deficiency causing exhaustion and weakness, preventing proper digestion, inflicting nerve and brain damage, increasing the risk of heart disease, and stunting growth in children. Vegan deficiencies in essential vitamins and minerals are sweeping the West, bringing waves of hunger, malnutrition and starvation caused by the far left enemies of mankind: "Hidden hunger affects over two billion people, globally. The cause is a chronic lack of essential micronutrients in the diet, such as vitamins and minerals. The effects of these nutritional deficiencies may not be seen immediately, but the consequences can be severe. They include lower resistance to disease, mental impairment and even death. While many of the cases of hidden hunger are found in developing countries, this phenomenon is also a growing public health concern in developed countries. For example, iodine deficiency is the most common cause of preventable mental impairment and the UK ranks seventh among the ten most iodine deficient nations. And data from the US shows that more than one in four children lacks calcium, magnesium or vitamin A, and more than one in two children are deficient in vitamin D and E. There are several causes of hidden hunger in developed countries. The consumption of cheap, energy dense, nutritionally poor and heavily processed foods, particularly by poorer members of society, is a major factor. Even when fresh produce is consumed, there appears to be fewer micronutrients available than was once the case. This is due to issues such as soil health, caused by poor agricultural management. The rapidly growing trend of veganism is likely to become another major contributor to hidden hunger in the developed world. According to the Vegan Society, the number of people switching to a vegan diet in the UK has risen more than fourfold in the last decade. A study commissioned by the Vegetarian Resource Group revealed that nearly 5% of the US population are vegetarian and about half of these are vegan. Eating a plant based diet may lower the risk of chronic disease and is good for the environment, but poorly planned vegan diets that do not replace the critical nutrients found in meat, can lead to serious micronutrient deficiencies. Bone health is a concern for long term vegans. Vegans are consistently reported to have lower intakes of calcium and vitamin D, with resultant lower blood levels of vitamin D and lower bone mineral density reported worldwide. Fracture rates are also nearly a third higher among vegans compared with the general population. Omega 3 and iodine levels are also lower compared with meat eaters, as are vitamin B12 levels. Vitamin B12 is most often obtained from animal foods, and higher rates of deficiency have been found in vegans compared with other vegetarian and meat eaters. The symptoms can be serious and include extreme tiredness and weakness, poor digestion and developmental delays in young children. Untreated, vitamin B12 deficiency can cause irreversible nerve damage. While getting less than the optimal amount of B12 is quite common in pregnant women and in less developed countries, the reported frequencies of deficiencies among vegetarians and vegans in developed countries vary greatly in severity between age groups. Even low levels of vitamin B12, but not enough to be classed as deficient, may be bad for your health and increase your risk of heart disease. Vegans can prevent micronutrient deficiency by consuming fortified foods (food with added vitamins and minerals) and taking supplements. But supplement use is often resisted by those on a plant based diet and they have been reported to interfere with the absorption of other important nutrients. Also, plant derived vegan supplements tend to have low biological activity in humans. For example, studies show that vegan friendly vitamin D2 supplements are less effective in raising blood vitamin D levels than the more widely used vitamin D3 supplements. Other supplements, such as vitamin B12, may be largely inactive in the body. Hidden hunger is widely recognized and is being addressed in many parts of the developing world by well organized and large scale biofortification programs. Perhaps something similar needs to be done to address hidden hunger in the West." (Vegan Diets Are Adding To Malnutrition In Wealthy Countries by Chris Elliott, Chen Situ and Claire McEvoy). Diets of Death. Vegan diets have sealed their practitioners inside a coffin. This coffin is marked anemia, osteoporosis, coronary heart disease, lack of energy, inability to absorb iron, vitamin D deficiency, calcium deficiency, protein deficiency, impaired muscle function and impaired production of hormones. Strict, fanatical and devoid of scientific basis, vegetarian diets have reduced their practitioners to the living dead, dying on pseudomeals prepared in kitchens of human shadows: "Vegetarians who do not consume eggs and dairy products are much more susceptible to vitamin deficiencies and malnutrition. Vitamin B12 is found primarily in meat. According to several studies, 92% of vegans experience vitamin B12 deficiencies, resulting in anemia, exhaustion and a greater likelihood of coronary artery disease. Iron can be found in leafy vegetables as well as in meat; however, the absorption of the iron found in leafy vegetables is less effective and different in form. Iron is very important and is responsible for producing red blood cells. Women of reproductive age are most susceptible to iron deficiencies. Vitamin D can be found in sunlight, and such foodstuffs as milk, eggs and fish. Vegans, who do not consume milk and eggs, are likely to experience vitamin D deficiencies. In addition, the consumption of vitamin supplements can be counterproductive. An inappropriate volume of vitamin supplement consumption cannot solve vitamin D deficiencies. Proteins are an essential element in our body. Usually, we need 30 to 60 grams of protein a day, depending on our weight, our age, and the activities we perform. Amino acids derived from proteins are essential for proper muscle function and the production of hormones. It is recommended that vegetarians consume protein from other sources such as soybeans, tofu, egg whites, mushrooms, textured vegetable proteins (soy derivatives), quinoa and beans. Calcium helps to prevent osteoporosis. Vegans, who do not consume milk and dairy products, are likely to suffer from calcium deficiencies, resulting in osteoporosis. To counter this type of deficiency, it is advisable to consume green leafy vegetables, soy milk, black sesame and seaweed. Omega 3 Fatty Acids are found in fish and some types of grains such as flaxseed or linseed. Linseeds look like sesame seeds but they are larger in size. They can be ground and roasted and used in making many type of foods. Linseed can be mixed with soybeans or cereals. Omega 3 Fatty Acids are essential for our bodies; a shortage of Omega 3s can cause an imbalance in our body that makes us susceptible to many diseases. Those who are vegetarians or vegans for a very long time and who are not certain whether they are at risk of malnutrition can take a Lifestyle Medicine checkup. The test is designed to ensure the wellbeing of your body by looking for signs of vitamin and mineral deficiencies caused by strict diets." (Malnutrition In Vegetarians And Vegans, Samitivej Hospital, website). Diets of Death. Vegetarian menus have written fearsome pages of malnutrition. Devoid of proper levels of iron, zinc, calcium, vitamin D, vitamin B12, Omega 3, protein and iodine, they are killing a generation. Under headings marked lacto-ovo, allowing the consumption of eggs and dairy, and vegan, prohibiting the consumption of all animal products, they are producing parents, children and grandchildren who are short, weak, structurally damaged, cognitively damaged, and susceptible to all manner of diseases. They have filled an underworld presided over by the devil of ideological insanity.

CHINA DEVIL

The future of the Chinese is a fearful problem. Look at the frightful sights one sees in the streets of Peking. See the filthy, tattered rags they wrap around themselves. Smell them as they pass. Hear of their nameless immorality. Witness their shameless indecency, and picture them among your own people—it makes you shudder! (The Boxer Rebellion by Diana Preston, quoting an Australian observer). A dark cloud of smoke is rising from China and threatening to reduce the West to an evening land. This is a degenerate West in the twenty first century, a West weakened by subversive forces within its gates, by its Marxists, Islamists, Christian Rightists, and relativists of all stripes and varieties, and is ripe for takeover at the hands of Asiatic millions and Mongol hordes, wielding the murderous swords of the Yellow Peril. Devoid of the Faustian traits which have made the West unique among the cultures of the world, the traits of determination, initiative, enterprise, productivity, invention and organizational talent, the Chinese are on the march in the twenty first century, seeking to overrun the West with their black traits whirling in the Devil's void, with their brazen technological stealing and their terrifying waves of reeking filth and pandemic disease. The culture of Eastern occultism, mysterious religions, political collectivism, the Attila and Genghis terrors from the steppes, indolence and vice in the miasma of the opium den, the gatling guns of gangsters and gambling, the meaningless alternations of yin and yang, and the endless, aimless, wandering river, looms across the West in the twenty first century, a West hollowed out and rendered defenseless by its enemies within, and is achieving victory. Look at the West today and see the claw marks of a Chinese monster, a monster mauling apart civilization, aided and abetted by Marxist and multiculturalist knives stabbing the West in the back. Technological Stealing. Look at China today and see it steal classified files from Western corporations. See it steal multimillion dollar corporate secrets on the design and manufacture of gas and steam turbines. See its government, companies and universities thrive on scientific and technological information stolen from the West. See its seasoned agents steal secrets from Western aviation and aeropace companies. See it steal technological expertise from the West and power its economy with the fuel of Western practical knowledge. See it steal commercial secrets from the West because it lacks the talent and ability to advance technology on its own. See its intellect able to steal the marvels improving the life of mankind and inherently unable to create them. See China steal the fruits of Western cleverness, originality and inventiveness and become a global technological leader. See it steal Western engineering know how and increase its power and efficiency. See it save time and money in industrial development by plundering Western intellectual property. See it optimize its economy, industry, science and technology on the backs of Western progress and innovation. See it ascend the ladder of industrial and technological domination on the wings of an unholy aircraft carrying the cargo of aviation, pharmaceutical and artificial intelligence secrets stolen from the West: "It was an innocuous looking photograph that turned out to be the downfall of Zheng Xiaoqing, a former employee with energy conglomerate General Electric Power. According to a Department of Justice (DOJ) indictment, the US citizen hid confidential files stolen from his employers in the binary code of a digital photograph of a sunset, which Mr Zheng then mailed to himself. It was a technique called steganography, a means of hiding a data file within the code of another data file. Mr Zheng utilized it on multiple occasions to take sensitive files from GE. GE is a multinational conglomerate known for its work in the healthcare, energy and aerospace sectors, making everything from refrigerators to aircraft engines. The information Zheng stole was related to the design and manufacture of gas and steam turbines, including turbine blades and turbine seals. Considered to be worth millions, it was sent to his accomplice in China. It would ultimately benefit the Chinese government, as well as China based companies and universities. Zheng was sentenced to two years in prison earlier this month. It is the latest in a series of similar cases prosecuted by US authorities. In November Chinese national Xu Yanjun, said to be a career spy, was sentenced to 20 years in prison for plotting to steal trade secrets from several US aviation and aerospace companies --including GE. It is part of a broader struggle as China strives to gain technological know how to power its economy and its challenge to the geopolitical order, while the US does its best to prevent a serious competitor to American power from emerging. The theft of trade secrets is attractive because it allows countries to 'leapfrog up global value chains relatively quickly--and without the costs, both in terms of time and money, of relying completely on indigenous capabilities', Nick Marro of the Economist Intelligence Unit told the BBC. Last July FBI director Christopher Wray told a gathering of business leaders and academics in London that China aimed to 'ransack' the intellectual property of Western companies so it can speed up its own industrial development and eventually dominate key industries. He warned that it was snooping on companies everywhere 'from big cities to small towns--from Fortune 100s to start ups, folks that focus on everything from aviation, to AI, to pharma'. In the DOJ statement on Zheng, the FBI's Alan Kohler Jr said China was targeting 'American ingenuity' and seeking to topple our status' as global leader. Zheng was an engineer specializing in turbine sealing technology and worked on various leakage containment technologies in steam turbine engineering. Such seals optimize turbine performance 'whether by increasing power or efficiency or extending the usable life of the engine', the DOJ said. Gas turbines that power aircraft are central to the development of China's aviation industry. Aerospace and aviation equipment are among 10 sectors that the Chinese authorities are targeting for rapid development to reduce the country's dependence on foreign technology and eventually surpass it." (Industrial Espionage: How China Sneaks Out America's Technology Secrets by Nicholas Yong).

Global Pandemic. Look at China today and see open air markets peddling meat, fish, produce, filth and disease. See its wet markets serve as virus factories infecting animals, customers and the world. See its open tubs splash covid water all over the planet. See the blood, bones and guts of animals revolt the mind and senses. See crabs, lobsters, shrimps and turtles crushed in airless, lightless stalls of death. See butchered fish scales block out the sun of store hygiene. See slaughtered animals fashioned into ticking time bombs of disease from which customers run for their lives. See captive animals with weakened immune systems become vectors of deadly, rampaging viruses. See diseases jump from animals to humans and transmit to them vapors, droplets, air molecules and gene codes of death. See wild animals, wild people, wild diseases and a wild culture explode across the West and shatter the lights of civilization: "A wet market in Wuhan, China, is catching the blame as the probable source of the current coronavirus outbreak that's sweeping the globe. Patients who came down with disease at the end of December all had connections to the Huanan Seafood Market in Wuhan China. The complex of stalls selling live fish, meat and wild animals is known in the region as a 'wet market.' Researchers believe the new virus probably mutated from a coronavirus common in animals and jumped over to humans in the Wuhan bazaar. I visited the Tai Po wet market in Hong Kong, and it's quite obvious why the term wet is used. Live fish in open tubs splash water all over the floor. The countertops of the stalls are red with blood as fish are gutted and filleted right in front of the customers' eyes. Live turtles and crustaceans climb over each other in boxes. Melting ice adds to the slush on the floor. There's lots of water, blood, fish scales and chicken guts. Things are wet. At the Tai Po market, a woman who runs a shellfish stall—she only wants to give her name as Mrs. Wong—says people blame wet markets for spreading disease. But she says that's not fair. Like just about everyone else in the market. Wong is wearing a surgical face mask because of the coronavirus outbreak. She's heard about the links between the wet market in Wuhan, China, and the coronavirus but doesn't think something like that would happen in Hong Kong. 'It's much cleaner in the Hong Kong markets. It's so different from what's happening in mainland China', she says. 'When I go to mainland China and I'm trying to eat something, I'm concerned about what's in the food.' Meanwhile, this kind of market is not just an Asian phenomenon. There are similar markets all over the world—places where fish, poultry and other animals are slaughtered and butchered right on the premises. But researchers of zoonotic diseases—diseases that jump from animals to humans–pinpoint the wet markets in mainland China as particularly problematic for several reasons. First, these markets often have many different kinds of animals – some wild, some domesticated but not necessarily native to that part of Asia. The stress of captivity in these chaotic markets weakens the animals' immune systems and creates an environment where viruses from different species can mingle, swap bits of their genetic code and spread from one species to another, according to biologist Kevin Olival, vice president for research at the EcoHealth Alliance. When that happens, occasionally a new strain of an animal virus gets a foothold in humans and an outbreak like this current coronavirus erupts." (Why They're Called 'Wet Markets'—And What Health Risks They Might Pose by Jason Beaubien). China Today. An ostensive definition is a way of defining words by means of pointing to an actual example, and is contrasted with a denotative definition, which defines by means of words entered in a dictionary. Trade secret theft, cyberespionage, and wet markets mass producing diseases invading mankind. China in the twenty first century serves to define these terrifying words by its brazen, shameless existence.

AMERICA SINCE 1900: ALLY OF STATISM AT HOME AND ABROAD

The turn of the twentieth century was a bellwether year in America, signalling the rise of mass politics and the beginning of the end of constitutional government. This was America's late Roman age moment, when the forces of religion and barbarism, in Rome parts played by Christians and Germanic hordes, were represented by statist intellectuals and the statist neighbors next door, commenced an upward trajectory of power and influence, a trajectory which one century later would achieve final victory. The past one hundred and twenty five years have been the late Roman age of America, and have seen history repeat itself 1500 years after the fall of Rome and 7000 kilometers away from the "eternal city", and push America, obeying the demands of its late Roman masses, into the statist graveyard of history. America since the dawn of the twentieth century has seen an acceleration of statism at home and expressions of support for statist regimes abroad. The Promotion of Statism at Home. Called "the father of the modern welfare state", Lester Frank Ward set into motion the movement of statism which rolled through the administration of Theodore Rooosevelt, the movement's political architect, and paraded the abrogation of the Constitution in the name of progressivism. Listen to Ward proclaim that the classes of employers and employees are incapable of talking care of themselves and must be granted the paternalistic protection of the state. The masses are incompetent children and must be guided and directed by the all knowing, omnicompetent hands of the government. The enslavement of the individual to the state represents the highest form of human dignity: "The charge of paternalism is chiefly made by the class that enjoys the largest share of government protection. Those who denounce it are those who most frequently and successfully invoke it. Nothing is more obvious today than the single inability of capital and private enterprise to take care of themselves unaided by the state; and while they are incessantly denouncing paternalism, by which they mean the claim of the defenseless laborer and artisan to a share in this lavish state protection, they are all the while besieging legislatures for relief from their own incompetency, and 'pleading the baby act' through a trained body of lawyers and lobbyists. The dispensing of national pap to this class should rather be called maternalism, to which a square, open and dignified paternalism would be infinitely preferable." (Forum XX, 1895). The train of statism now began rolling to the wild cheers of the masses, and over the decades would gain accelerating speed. Its first conductor was Theodore Roosevelt. Listen to Roosevelt promote statism in the name populism. In the name of the people, the omnipotent masters and not the patriotic obeyers of the Constitution. In the name of addressing the nation's social problems. Listen to him condemn the American system of constitutional freedom as reactionary. Listen to him seek to gather together the nation's communist journalists and lead a revolution to overthrow the Enlightenment legacy of liberal democracy: "Throughout his career, Roosevelt had struggled to reconcile party allegiance with the drive to address social problems, a balancing act that became more difficult as the troubling aspects of industrialization intensified. While he considered himself conservative in relation to the populists, he believed that his party was in thrall to reactionaries who so 'dreaded radicalism' that they 'distrusted anything that was progressive.' Precisely such men dominated both chambers of Congress, Roosevelt lamented. He would work to 'push' them forward but recognized that genuine progress would require a direct appeal to the people, 'the masters of both of us.' To reach the general public, he would enlist the new breed of independent journalists, without whose 'active support', he later acknowledged, he 'would have been powerless.' (The Bully Pulpit: Theodore Roosevelt, William Howard Taft And The Golden Age Of Journalism by Doris Goodwin). The train of statism continued its terrifying journey, stoked by the fires of mass politics, blazing hotter and hotter. Theodore Roosevelt's promotion of statism in the name of a New Nationalism was followed by Woodrow Wilson's promotion of statism in the name of the New Freedom. Inspired by G. W. F. Hegel, Wilson viewed the state as a mystical organic entity possessing a will and purpose greater than the individuals comprising it, and being the master of individuals and not the protector of their rights. The great leap forward of American statism occurred under the administration of Franklin Roosevelt. Listen to Roosevelt issue a call to arms to the masses to rise up and seize private property, private wealth and private businesses in the name of fairness, equity, helping the poor and getting a new deal for the American people: "For years Washington has alternated between putting its head in the sand and saying there is no large number of destitute people who need food and clothing and then saying the States should take care of them if there are. Throughout the nation men and women, forgotten in the political philosophy of the Government, look to us here for guidance and for more equitable opportunity to share in the distribution of national wealth. I pledge myself to a new deal for the American people. This is more than a political campaign. It is a call to arms." (The Roosevelt Week, Time magazine, July 11, 1932). The history of American politics after Roosevelt is an asterisk on the regime he created. See John Kennedy promote statism in the name of a New Frontier. See Lyndon Johnson promote statism in the name of a Great Society and a War on Poverty. See Richard Nixon promote statism in the name of Centrism. See George H. Bush promote statism in the name of a Kinder, Gentler Nation. See George W. Bush promote statism in the name of Compassionate Conservatism. See Barack Obama promote statism in the name of the Affordable Care Act. See Joe Biden promote statism in the name of Build Back Better. Listen to Obama proclaim that morality must be defined in terms of social responsibility and self sacrifice. The individual has no right to live and work for himself, no right to exist for his own sake, but is chained to a duty to serve the state, the community, the nation and the world: "What is required of us now is a new era of responsibility--a recognition on the part of every American that we have duties to ourselves, our nation and the world; duties that we do not grudgingly accept, but rather seize gladly, firm in the knowledge that there is nothing so satisfying to the spirit, so defining of our character than giving our all to a difficult task." (President Barack Obama's Inaugural Address, January 21, 2009). Listen to Obama proclaim that individual existence is an illusion. Reality is mystical and collective in character, and is grasped in the feeling that there is something bigger and greater than ourselves to which we must sacrifice: "I know now that something inside me was stirring at that time, something important. And that was the belief that I could be part of something bigger than myself; that my own salvation was bound up with those of others." (Remarks By President Obama At The University of Cape Town, June 30, 2013). Support for Statism Abroad. The natural corollary of statism at home is support for statism abroad. Nations which have established statist policies and programs are naturally sympathetic to statist regimes wherever they are. The acceptance of statism in America in the twentieth century brought with it a sympathetic stance toward communist nations. America recognized Soviet Russia in 1933, ending sixteen years of nonrecognition following the 1917 Communist Revolution. During World War II, America agreed to include Soviet Russia, the most murderous nation in history, in the Allied Powers. At the 1945 Yalta Conference, America recognized Red Army control over Eastern Europe, and allowed a Soviet sphere of influence in exchange for Joseph Stalin's promise to hold free, democratic elections in the region, stated in A Declaration On Liberated Europe, a promise which Stalin immediately violated and which America knew he would immediately violate. In 1945, America agreed to make Soviet Russia a charter member of the United Nations and to give it a permanent seat on the Security Council. In 1971, America agreed to make communist China a permanent member of the Security Council in place of Taiwan. In 1979, America recognized communist China and withdrew recognition from Taiwan. Since he was inaugurated president in 2025, Donald Trump has been making threats to annex Greenland. In the name of national expansion, national greatness, national security and national destiny, Trump has threatened the sovereignty of a free, democratic, self governing territory. He has followed in the footsteps of Hitler's Germany, which invaded free, democratic Poland in 1939, and Putin's Russia, which invaded free, democratic Ukraine in 2022, both of which justifed their invasions on the same grounds as Trump. Defying the will of Greenlanders, who have proclaimed in overwhelming numbers that Greenland is not for sale and that they do not wish to become part of America, Trump has damaged relations with Denmark, NATO and the free world. The threats were without precedent in America's recent history. They were the first time in the past one hundred and twenty five years that America had threatened to violate the right of national determination of a free, democratic society, a society which, in contrast to regimes like Iran, Cuba and Venezuela, does not violate the rights of its people. Donald Trump, seeking to roll back the cancer of statism in America, and reducing the size of a multigorgon Marxist monster of gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics, has betrayed his domestic antistatism by promoting a foreign policy underpinned by fascist ideology. Threatening the use of force and not threatening the use of force, threatening the use of coercive tariffs and not threatening the use of coercive tariffs, Trump is steadfast in his aim to annex Greenland and defy the will of its people: "Donald Trump has stepped up his demand to annex Greenland but said the US would not use force to seize it during a speech at Davos where he again lashed out at Europe’s political leaders. Trump gave his speech as they sought to avert a full scale crisis over Greenland– an effort that appeared successful later as the US president suddenly announced he would delay imposing tariffs on eight European countries from 1 February as negotiations continue. The address to thousands of business and political leaders at the World Economic Forum in the Swiss ski resort indicated that while Trump was renouncing the use of military force–for now at least–to wrest control of Greenland, he still intended to wield US economic and diplomatic power to bend European allies to his will." (Trump Steps Up Greenland Annexation Demand And Attacks European Leaders At Davos by Heather Stewart and Andrew Roth). America Today. A sea monster roams the waters of the twenty first century. It is a leviathan blazing with statist flames, the flames of communist domestic policies, Christian Right domestic policies and fascist foreign policies. Its citizens inhabit a contracting sphere of freedom at home while it seeks to contract the sphere of freedom of free, democratic societies like Greenland abroad. It is a child of the Enlightenment and once was the world's tallest lighthouse amidst raging storms of tyranny. Its iconic Statue of Liberty carried the torch of the West for over a century. In the twenty first century, its mass politics is spraying communist, fascist and Christian Right grafitti across the statue and the pages of the Constitution. This mass politics fueled tragedy is the United States of America.

BLACK SUPREMACY AT BLOOMINGTON

He gave the impression of clinging to his own theories in a fanatical and unyielding fashion and to have been little influenced by the unfolding during the trial of the cruelty and crimes of the party. (The Myth Of The Master Race: Alfred Rosenberg And Nazi Ideology by Robert Cecil, quoting Lieutenant Colonel William Harold Dunn). Cruel, fanatical, unyielding and blinded by hate. This was the monstrous face of the Third Reich as it carried out its plans to wage total war on civilization. National socialist theologian, high priest and convicted war criminal, Alfred Rosenberg was among the preeminent voices of the totalitarian evil which was Hitler's Germany, and in his positions as head of the Office of Foreign Affairs and head of the Reich Ministry for the Occupied Eastern Territories, he was among the architects of the Holocaust. Eighty years after Rosenberg was hanged at Nuremberg, he has returned to haunt a place 7000 kilometers away from Germany and spread his black gospel. The names and faces have changed but the source and theme have remained the same. The source is a racial development of Marxism in which the hate objects changed from class to race, and the theme is the extermination of an enemy race. This racial development was founded by Adolf Hitler, who replaced Marx's doctrine of class politics and international socialism with a doctrine of race politics, national socialism and Aryan supremacy. In the 1960s, Hitler's race Marxism appeared in another version, which promoted black supremacy and the extermination of whites in place of Hitler's Aryan supremacy and the extermination of Jews. In the twenty first century, at the Bloomington campus of Indiana University, in the School of Education, Alfred Rosenberg has been resurrected in the person of one Professor Marcus Croom, and has resumed his plan of racial extermination. The new Alfred Rosenberg promotes the 1960s black supremacist version of Marxism, and is spreading hate and violence across the campus. Founded in 1820 with the motto Light and Truth, Indiana University at Bloomington, the flagship campus of Indiana University, has become the college system's flagship of darkness and deceit, as its Professor Croom peddles hatred of whites in his classroom and sends the chill of fear coursing through students. Indiana University. Listen to Professor Croom proclaim that a progressive university enforces overt discrimination against white students. Its professors are race critical researchers who are critical of the Enlightenment, capitalism and white people. It is a community of interacting Marxist activists and ideologues. It violates the civil rights of white students. It condemns capitalism as a regime of discrimination against blacks. It creates a violent, hostile environment for white students. It condemns all whites as white supremacists. It condemns all whites as privileged whiphands. It seeks to make white students feel evil and guilty for being white. It defines students in terms of their race and singles out white students for tarring and feathering. It implements an unapologetic antiwhite agenda. It condemns all whites as intrinsically, directly and indirectly racist. It negatively evaluates white students and excludes them from participation in classes. It subjects white students to endless rounds of disparagement and disrespect. It places white academics on permanent lists of those deemed unaccepable and untrustworthy. It disciplines white professors peddling hate against blacks but grants a seal of approval to black professors peddling hate against whites. It seeks to establish a postwhite, antiwhite, neoThird Reich exterminationist society. It peddles discrimination against whites under the flags of diversity, equity and inclusion. It rejects liberal political theory in favor of race theory and black dictatorship. It teaches students the primacy of race, racism and race politics over Enlightenment traditions and institutions. It teaches students how to read and write with the alphabet of black racism. Deranged, delusional and diseased, it has plastered hate posters across the campus and ignited furnaces for the onset of a neoHitler holocaust against whites: "When a black professor at a mainstream university is sanctioned for discrimination against his white students, you know that his conduct had to be egregious. The case of Indiana University Professor Marcus Croom presents exactly that scenario. Marcus Croom is a self described 'race critical researcher' and an Assistant Professor at the School of Education at Indiana University-Bloomington. In the far left ecosystem of the modern university, schools of education—responsible for training America's future teachers—are known for being particularly radical in their outlook, and IU-Bloomington is no exception. But even in that rarefied woke environment, Professor Croom took his antiwhite agenda too far. In the summer of 2024, IU-Bloomington student Michael Claycamp filed a formal complaint with the university's Office of Civil Rights Compliance charging that Professor Croom exhibited unambiguous racial discrimination in conducting his class, creating a hostile environment for caucasian students. According to Claycamp, Croom made near constant statements denigrating caucasians in class, including comments that 'white teachers are white supremacists' (a particularly pointed statement given that the students he was instructing were training to be future teachers) and that he would 'rather not associate with white people over the course of the class.' Croom's racism was so egregious that the investigative committee was forced to recognize its severity. 'Many of the witnesses stated [Croom] tried to make them feel bad about being white and additionally made assumptions about them as white students which were often times not true', states the investigative committee's report, which added that Croom 'continually defined' students 'in terms of their race' including using such terms as 'nice white women', 'privileged white girls', and 'white saviors.' Apparently subscribing to the White Fragility theory of racism, Croom told white students in his class that they were all 'intrinsically' and 'indirectly' racist since 'nice white women can be racist.' The investigative report notes the 'consistency' of witness statements corroborating these comments, concluding that 'it is more than likely' Croom made 'these or similar statements' to white students in his class and that 'a preponderance of the evidence' suggests that he 'placed the students' race as central to their participation and evaluation in the course.' Consider for a moment what would happen if a white professor—or a professor of any race—treated black students in this manner. If he made disparaging comments about 'privileged black girls' or insulted black teachers as a group? If he declared he would 'rather not associate with black people over the course of the class'? Does any sane person believe that he would be permitted to spend even five more minutes in that classroom? That he would not have been summarily fired and permanently blacklisted in academia? Well, that's not what happened to Professor Croom. Even after substantiating the professor's egregious racism and discriminatory conduct in the classroom, IU-Bloomington's Office of Civil Rights Compliance enacted only a 'level one' sanction against the professor. According to the Tennessee Star this means that 'Croom's job or salary will not be affected by the punishment, but he will be required to attend trainings on 'inclusive teaching practices' and 'respectful engagement with students of all backgrounds.' Surely a few training sessions are all that is needed to cure this professor of his Caucasian Derangement Syndrome. One also must question why Indiana University did not see this scandal coming. Croom was hardly secretive about his antiwhite proclivities. His own university bio is rife with red flags and DEI inspired verbiage. 'Typically, I generate knowledge through case study and qualitative methods using post white vindicationist philosophy, practice of race theory (PRT), and race critical practice analysis', he explains. Croom's book, Real Talk: How To Discuss Race, Racism and Politics In Twenty First Century American Schools, is dedicated to 'Racial literacies and post white futures for us all.' The university at best overlooked—and at worst endorsed—Croom's racist tendencies. Unsatisfied with the extremely mild sanctions given for the professor's overt racism, Claycamp, the student who filed the initial complaint, appealed the decision to request great disciplinary sanctions, but Provost Rahul Shrivastav refused to reconsider the punishment. 'In supporting this decision, I trust these measures will provide adequate motivation and oversight for Professor Croom in addressing the issues that emerged in this case,' Shrivastav wrote in a letter denying the appeal. The rest of us must be forgiven if we are not so optimistic." (Indiana U. Professor Disciplined for Anti White Discrimination by Sara Dogan). Indiana University. Listen to Professor Croom proclaim that a progressive university hires professors peddling critical race theory critical of the Enlightenment notions of universal truth, freedom and color blindness. It hires professors experienced in the art and science of peddling hatred of whites. It teaches black students that racial identification is superior to universal humanity. It teaches that white teachers cannot teach black students because their thought processes are white and not black. It teaches that the best reasoning is black reasoning, the best pedagogy is black pedagogy, the best scholarship is black scholarship, the best teaching is black teaching, and the best type of reading and writing is that which is performed by blacks: "As a race critical researcher and experienced educator, my mission is to cultivate more human fulfilment and mitigate human suffering. I launched my research career through the Literacy, Language and Culture program, Department of Curriculum and Instruction, in the College of Education at the University of Illinois at Chicago. My dissertation study investigated teachers' conceptualization(s) of race in literacy instruction with black children. This work makes a theoretical and empirical contribution to the fields of Education and Literacy. Within my broader inquiries of race and literacies, I continue to document teachers' understandings of race and examine the influence these understandings may have on teacher efficacy, student identification, pedagogical reasoning, and teaching practices in literacy." (Marcus Croom, Indiana University at Bloomington, School of Education, website). Indiana University. Some six million Jews still live in the East, and this question can only be solved by a biological extermination of the whole of Jewry in Europe. The Jewish Question will only be solved for Germany when the last Jew has left German territory, and it will only be solved for Europe when not a single Jew stands on the European continent as far as the Urals. And to this end, it is necessary to force them beyond the Urals or otherwise bring about their eradication. (Alfred Rosenberg, November 18, 1941 press conference, in Holocaust: The Nazi Persecution And Murder Of The Jews by Peter Longerich). In the twenty first century at Indiana University at Bloomington, he is alive. He walks among the students and teaches in their classrooms. Proclaiming that "I would rather not associate with white people over the course of the class", the Reich Minister for the Occupied Eastern Territories has donned the guise of Professor Marcus Croom. His latest mission is the extermination of whites.

The notion of genes is a bourgeois invention. There exists no "unchanging substance of heredity" or "clearly defined species", and everything becomes and nothing is as it is, in the whirling flux called reality. In place of the empirically established science of genetics, there must be established a special "Marxist genetics" which obeys the religion of dialectical materialism and allows the unity of contradictions, the unity of A and non A, the unlimited transformation of everything into everything else, and the creation from the flux of a New Soviet Man. Thus spoke Lysenkoism, the religion founded by Soviet biologist Trofim Lysenko in the early twentieth century, opposing science based genetics and agriculture, and enforced as the holy gospel throughout the Communist Bloc. Opposition to science is the hallmark of cultures in a state of decline, in the state when the masses require the crutch of religion and are no longer able to walk through life, unaided, as adults, and while ancient Rome and its pagan reason were swept away before the triumph of religion and barbarism in the fourth century, the decline of the West commenced in the twentieth century, and has seen the onset of a new Dark Ages. Over the past one hundred and twenty five years, the West has come full circle and rejected the noonday values of the Enlightenment, and descended back into the first age from whence it arose. Since the dawn of the twentieth century, the Western masses have been walking with canes stamped belief in the absence of evidence, and been protesting against science in louder and louder and more earsplitting tones. The masses's war on science has come from two main directions, which between them have blocked out air and light in the culture. These two mass movements represent two sides of a psychotic coin and represent the self destruction of the human mind. One religion proclaims that everything is matter and muscles and higher thought processes do not exist, while the other religion proclaims that matter is an inferior reality and the highest reality resides in the realm of pure supernatural mind and spirit ruled by God. One religion proclaims that man is a headless body, consisting of muscles without a mind, while the other religion proclaims that man is bodiless mind, not in need of the senses to grasp the highest reality. The first religion of reductive materialism is represented by the Marxist Left, while the second religion of pure spiritualism is represented by the Christian Right, and in the twenty first century, they have composed the final chapter of the story of the West, marked Dark Ages Suicide. Marxist Left. What began as a religion of a single tribe called the proletariat, which would enforce a religion called Lysenkoism and destroy the science of genetics and agriculture in the Communist Bloc, mutated into a multigorgon, multitribe monster called gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics in the mid twentieth century, and captured the academic establishment. The new mutated Marxists proclaim that science is relative to gender and an expression of gender interests and the will to power. Science must be antiracist and promote black supremacy. Science must reject the existence of genes as the determinants of human gender and proclaim that gender is changeable by the human will, that males can become females and females can become males, and that transgender females are just as real as real females, and transgender males are just as real as real males. Science must be decolonized and purged of the Western Enlightenment notions of empiricism and universal, obective truth. Science must be biased and promote far left ideologies. Climate science must be replaced by climate alarmism, dictating that global warming due to manmade greenhouse gas emissions is incinerating the planet and must be stopped by the immediate dismantling of scientific and technological civilization. Environmentalism must be leftist and doomsday in character and not empirical. Science must reject empiricism in favor of advancing Marxist policy goals and must be a voice of mystical social responsibility. Science must only allow the submission, peer review and publication of Marxist politicized articles, and must demand that articles which employ empirical standards and rigor and do not promote the rights of gender, race, class, culture, ethnic and sexual orientation groups be retracted and removed: "Climate science has been hijacked by alarmism, psychology research is controlled by gender, antiracism, and decolonization ideologies, and unorthodox studies are shunned and blackballed. So say Breakthrough Institute senior fellow Patrick Brown, Benjamin Lovett from Teachers College, Columbia University, and Andrea Clements, the assistant chair of East Tennessee State University's Department of Psychology, in interviews with The College Fix and panels they have taken part in over the last year. Ideological, political interests now influence research and its outcomes, say the trio of scientists representing the fields of psychology and climate science. Nonscientific goals can bias what research is selected for or denied publication by academic journals, and these biases in publishing ultimately influence what research is or is not performed, they say. Climate scientists are 'rewarded for basically signaling membership to the good team', Brown said last summer while partaking in a panel at the Heterodox Academy's summer conference. The 'good team' in climate science, he said, embraces tenets of left leaning environmental philosophy based on pantheistic principles, global governance, and redistribution. This has resulted in decades of 'policy based science' over 'science based policy' and has led to climate scientists reorienting how they ask research questions. 'Rather than ask What is the magnitude of the influence of climate change on the phenomena I'm studying relative to other relevant influences', Brown said, 'researchers are incentivized to ask How does climate change negatively impact the phenomena I'm studying?' Additionally, Brown noted, findings challenging the impact of climate change on extreme weather events at the local level, discussions of 'adaptation solutions', and 'concerns about the negative effect of overly restrictive energy policies' are all sidelined. According to Lovett, who also spoke on a Heterodox Academy panel last summer, something similar is going on in psychology, as psychologists increasingly are expected to act as policy advocates to further certain initiatives pertaining to gender, antiracism, and decolonization among other ideologies. For those doing research, he said, this may translate to a sense that they have a 'social responsibility to do research that would show certain things' or 'find scientific research' to promote particular policy goals. Some peer reviewed journals in his and related fields, Lovett said, can actually be quite explicit about having criteria for submission and publication unrelated to scientific rigor. One example he gave was the much publicized editorial from the journal Nature Human Behavior that he said 'kind of warned potential contributors that their work might not get published or might be retracted or removed after being published if there was content that could reasonably be perceived to undermine the rights or dignities of an individual or group.' " (Experts Say Academic Journals Reward Ideological Alignment Over Scientific Rigor by Daniel Nucco). Christian Right. Four hundred years after Galileo was tried by the Catholic Inquisition, found guilty of heresy over his denial of the Biblical doctrine that the earth is the fixed center of the universe, and placed under house arrest for the rest of his life, the jackboots of Christianity are back in business banning heresies. Comprised of evangelical Protestants, conservative Catholics and Mormons, the Christian Right seeks to ban abortions, vaccines, stem cell research, the scientific account of the origin of the earth, and the scientific doctrine that human life was created by matter and not by God. The voices of the new Dark Ages proclaim that a one cell human zygote appearing at the moment of conception is an actual human person by virtue of the reception of a supernatural human soul, and that abortion is therefore murder. Stem cell research, using cells from human embryos, involves murder. Vaccines are opposed to faith healing and the body as a sacred temple. Man possesses as supernatural soul and was created outside of nature. The earth is thousands of years old and was created by God in six days. Schools must teach the tenets of Christian faith in place of reading, writing and mathematics. Schools must be sanctuaries for religion and not knowledge. Schools must belong to Christ and not to this world. The Bible is infallible and the sole source of truth. Nations must be Christian nations and not Enlightenment nations, and be founded on the Bible and must reject the scientific method and all forms of critical analysis: "When I got the chance to attend a conservative, evangelical high school in rural Iowa, I was ecstatic. My early education had been in a similar school–where creationism was the one true science, and evolution was satanic propaganda–and I'd spent the interim as a frightened pilgrim in the unholy land of public school. I was a teenage zealot and longed to be among my people. Throughout those years, my church leaders urged me to proselytize to the public school students, to debate teachers about the age of Earth or the founding of our Christian nation, to be a spiritual exhibitionist, praying loudly at my locker or the flagpole. The apocalypse was at hand, so who had time for algebra? I viewed my enrolment at Forest City Christian school in my junior year as being honorably discharged from my duty of 'reclaiming our schools for Christ'. But what I envisioned as a sanctuary of faith, community and 'true' education not only left me more disillusioned and bullied but also robbed me of a high school diploma and set me on a path of crushing financial insecurity that would haunt me for years. In time, I developed my own education at libraries and bookstores. But first, I had to, in the words of Yoda, 'unlearn what you have learned'. In fundamentalist education, all knowledge and thought must bend itself to unarguable truth that the Bible is 100% factual in all matters. The itchy curiosity of philosophy, the relentless questions of the scientific method, the skeptic probing of journalism, have no place in that world." (Evangelical Education Nearly Ruined Me. Now The Christian Right Is Coming For Public Schools byJosiah Hesse). The World Today. In the twenty first century, the West is haunted by the specters of religion and is descending into the fever swamps of blind faith. The widespread, institutionalized insanity of transgenderism, and the 2022 United States Supreme Court ruling, Dobbs versus Jackson Women's Health Organization, proclaiming that abortion is not a constitutional right because the word abortion is not mentioned in the Constitution, are among the terrifying victory trophies of the new Dark Ages movement. The trophies are multiplying and burying civilization.

MARX AND HIS MONSTERS

After the Christian Bible, it is the world's most influential published work. Pitching its appeal to the same moral sewers as its Christian predecessor, it has galvanized the masses in campaigns to storm the ramparts of civilization. In place of the Christian God, it worships a god called the Collective, and proclaims that human moral perfection resides in immolating oneself on its altars. It proclaims that human morality is social in character and demands the duty to serve and sacrifice oneself for the sake of the aggregate, the totality and the neighbors next door. Replacing Christian otherwordly mysticism with this worldly brute materialism, replacing the Christian view of man as a bodiless, supernatural mind and spirit which can grasp the highest reality without the senses, with the view of man as pure animal matter devoid of all mind and thought, it proclaims the following tenets of its animal philosophy. It proclaims that economic interests are the only legitimate human interests, that the history of mankind is a history of the struggle between economic classes, that machines or the means of production control all human thought and action, that human wealth is produced by man's muscles and not his mind, that the good class of muscle laborers, called the proletariat, is oppressed and exploited by the evil class of mental laborers, called the bourgeois, who do no work at all because mind does not exist, and that the iron laws of matter have decreed that the proletariat will rise up and overthrow the bourgeois system of freedom and capitalism, exterminate the bourgeois, and establish a dictatorship of the proletariat over the individual. Published in German in 1848, and translated into over 200 languages with total sales of over 200 million copies, the Communist Manifesto by Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels founded the Communist Bloc in the twentieth century and begot a series of monsters. Accepting Marx's method of viewing man through the lens of tribes, and his rejction of individual existence as the primary reality, these movements created an everexpanding universe of tribes and sought to decompose civilization into the rule of warring factions. Inspired by Marx's religion of class supremacy, they promoted Aryan supremacy, black supremacy, female supremacy, ethnic supremacy, culture supremacy and sexual orientation supremacy, and from Adolf Hitler's national socialism down to the present day, they have been terrorizing free societies and writing the final lines of the story of the West. The twenty first century has seen the coffin of civilization hermetically sealed by a thousand nails hammered by the tribalist progency of Marx, and the cancer of tribalism spread into every sector of society. The World Today. Look at the world today and see the daggers of Marxism spill rivers of blood in the streets. See corporations serve as hothouses for the uncontrolled growth of transgender activism and a red-green alliance of Marxism and Islam united against liberal democracy. See people thrown into jail for condemning the murder of children by illegal migrants. See Christian priests dragged from their pulpits and replaced by Marxist priests. See conservative critics of Marxism deplatformed. See conservative philosophers critical of Marxism assassinated. See antiMarxist and antiMuslim political figures assassinated by Muslims. See antiMarxists subjected to arson attacks. See journalists deplatformed who expose the Muslim demographic invasion of the West. See antiMarxist bakers, florists and photographers subjected to endless harassment. See critics of transgenderism subjected to endless violence on the grounds of spreading hate speech. See truth and knowledge sacrificed on the altar of Marxist populism. See Marxist social media algorithms command adherence to the party line on pain of expulsion from sites. See a Marxist regime of total control reach through the eyes and ears of every smartphone in the land. See Marxist experts, managers and academics crush unfettered inquiry beneath the iron heel of political correctness. See universities transformed into inquisitions and indoctrinaton camps expelling antiMarxist students on the grounds of committing microaggressions. See publishers reject antiMarxist manuscripts. See antiMarxist journalists blocked from social media sites without their knowledge. See antiMarxist freethinkers burned at the stake. See people forced to recite Marxist scriptures chapter and verse. See Marxist cardinals replace Christian cardinals as defenders of the people's faith. See Marxist saints replace Christian saints as objects of veneration. See Marxist philosophers reject human liberty in favor of obedience to social commands. See freedom suffocated with the garotte of Marxist bureaucracy. See Marxist blueprints for tyranny implemented by caesars and their mobs. See natural, liberal human order swept away by the storms of Marxist majoritarian order. See Marxist theologians construct a temple of totalitarian tyranny. See voices of freedom forced to hide underground in homeschools, cryptocurrencies and private publications. See fighters for liberal democracy handcuffed, exiled and reduced to tragic martyrs. See antiMarxists laughed at, reviled, blacklisted and imprisoned. See the legalization of barbarism through the raised fists of the majority. See a shining Enlightenment based civilization reduced to a cold, dark, eternal night. See corporate human resources departments dismiss antiMarxist employees. See antiMarxists deprived of their careers and livelihoods on the basis of clicks, searches and social media like ratings posted on the internet. See free societies transformed into Marxist churches, courtrooms and political prison camps, and liberal civilization placed under arrest, placed in the prisoner's dock, sentenced to in killing fields, and hurled into a memory hole: "The knife descends in the dark—not the theatrical blade of some cinematic villain but the cold, ideological steel wielded by the new totalitarians: leftist zealots, Islamo-fascists, trans activists, and the corporate state hydra that shields them. In England, writing a furious tweet after little girls were murdered earns a woman a prison sentence. In Canada, a pastor is dragged from his pulpit for reading Leviticus aloud. In France, a conservative philosopher is deplatformed before he can utter a syllable; in Poland, a journalist is fired for citing demographic data. The pattern is global, relentless and accelerating. Let us speak plainly. Despite what we're told by our betters, political violence is not the monopoly of the Right. In fact, the opposite is true. The assassination of Charlie Kirk in the United States, the Islamist murder of Conservative MP David Amess in Britain, the innumerable arsons against right wing figures in Germany, the orchestrated harassment of Christian bakers, florists, and photographers—these are not anomalies. They are the enforcement arm of an ideology and creed that tolerates no dissent. When a trans activist in Scotland tweets that TERFs should be 'punched in the face', and the police investigate the victims (not the trans activists) for 'hate speech', we have crossed into a realm where the state itself has become the aggressor and our enemy. Albert Jay Nock, call your office. Yet the violence is only the visible edge. Beneath it lies a subtler, more pervasive suppression. Universities, once citadels of open inquiry, now resemble reeducation camps where 'microaggressions' are catalogued and problem students expelled. Publishers reject manuscripts not for lack of merit but for fear of the Twitter mob. And the young, brave souls who have written for publications like ours —sharp, principled, unafraid—find themselves shadow banned by the very corporations that preach diversity. A single byline in our pages becomes a scarlet letter, whispered about in the useless HR departments that decide whether a 23 year old may feed his family. This is not paranoia. This is one aspect of the lived reality of surveillance capitalism, as Shoshana Zuboff has warned. Every click, every search, every hesitant 'like' on a dissident post is harvested, weighted, and weaponized. The algorithms do not merely predict behavior; they shape it, nudging the nonconformist toward silence, conformity, or (eventually) despair. Big Brother does not need a telescreen when he has your smartphone. The expert, managerial, metropolitan classes—the credentialed functionaries of the Cathedral—have become some of our greatest enemies (alongside the Islamists and the Chinese Communist Party). Jacob Hale Russell and Dennis Patterson nailed it: the elites' monopoly on 'truth' fuels the very populism they claim to abhor. Look at the cover of this, our Winter issue: a freethinker behind bars; his crime? Refusal to recite the catechism of the age. This is not hyperbole. In Finland, Paivi Rasanen faces prison for quoting Scripture. In Spain, a cardinal is fined for defending the family. In Australia, a rugby player is sacked for paraphrasing St Paul. The late Dalmacio Negro Pavon, that Spanish philosopher who embodied ordered liberty in every line he penned (and to whom we pay tribute in this issue), saw this all coming: the slow strangulation of the soul by bureaucratic tyranny. For him and his students, the gulag was not a distant memory; it was a blueprint being dusted off. We have been told repeatedly to be reasonable, to compromise. But the new totalitarians do not seek dialogue with us; they seek submission. Every concession—every retracted tweet, every groveling apology, every updated syllabus—only emboldens them. What can we do? First, refuse to self censor. Write under your own name, even when the algorithms punish you. Publish the unpublishable. And speak the unspeakable. Second, build parallel institutions. Journals like ours, samizdat networks, homeschooling co ops, crypto funded media—these are truly the catacombs of the 21st century." (The Gulag Beckons by A. M. Fantini). The World Today.

Stories of women pregnant with a devil abound in the world's folklore, horror literature and studies of the occult. Listen to the high priest of Soviet Russia describe the devil he worshipped: "With the clarity and brilliance of genius, this work [Communist Manifesto] outlines a new world conception: consistent materialism. It embraces social life; dialectics [antilogic of contradiction] as the most profound doctrine of development; and the theory of class struggle and the revolutionary role of the proletariat." (Marx/Engels Collected Works, Volume 6). In the mid twentieth century, Lenin's god, the devil Karl Marx, gave birth to monstrous progeny. They formed a multigorgon horror called gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics. In the twenty first century, this has filled the world with violence and bloodshed.

A FREE SOCIETY: THE RIGHT TO DEFAME AND THE RIGHT TO DISCRIMINATE

It all began with Georg Wilhelm Friedrich Hegel. In his Phenomenology of the Spirit, this preeminent voice of the shaman and witch doctor proclaimed that through the method of a special dialectical logic of contradiction, opposition, and A and non A, through a method operating independently of man's senses, we can deduce the nature of reality. We can deduce the existence of the state as the primary substance in society, a substance possessing greater reality than any individual, a divine substance which the individual must serve and live for. Thus was born on the pages of Hegel's masterwork the totalitarian state, a state which controls the public and private spheres of society, which controls the thoughts and actions of the individual, and allows no trace of freedom to exist anywhere. The totalitarian state envisioned by Hegel would acquire different names in the ensuing decades, different names referring to the same terrifying, bloodthirsty reality. Karl Marx called it the dictatorship of the proletariat over the individual. Adolf Hitler called it the dictatorship of the Aryan race over the individual. Benito Mussolini proclaimed the creed of the new Hegelian regime of total enslavement: "Everything in the state, nothing outside the state, nothing against the state." The totalitarian state's abolition of the Enlightenment system of free minds and free markets would unleash torrents of violence in the twentieth century, and claim the lives of hundreds of millions of people in holocaust after holocaust. Seeking to abolish both freedom of speech and private property, the totalitarian state has been rearing its monstrous visage in a big way in the twenty first century. It has been exhibiting its unlimited power in two particular areas and sending the chill of fear coursing through civilized people. Its reach into these two areas, its efforts to control two forms of human activity, exemplify its unchecked invasion into personal life and have convinced civilized people of the fast approaching end of civilization. The Right to Defame. Defamation is any communication, written or verbal, which injures an individual's reputation, making false assertions besmirching his honor and dignity. The right to defame is an implication of the right to free speech, and all efforts by the totalitarian state to violate it run up against the foremost iron law of reality, the law of identity that A is A. They run up against the iron fact that there is either free speech or there is no free speech, and that free speech means free speech. The right to free speech means the right to make statements destroying a person's integrity or livelihood. It means the right to spread misinformation. It means the right to make statements causing financial lose, emotional distress or social damage. It means the right to make statements causing unjust harm. It means the right to damage an individual's reputation in any medium whatever, online or offline: "The right to free speech is a cornerstone of democratic processes, empowering individuals to express opinions, criticize authority, and share ideas without government interference. This fundamental right fosters open debate and the exchange of diverse perspectives, allowing society to progress while holding those in power accountable. However, free speech isn't without limits. When statements cross the line into defamation—false assertions that harm another person’s or business’s reputation—legal consequences may arise. Defamation laws are designed to protect individuals from the damaging effects of misinformation, protecting the right to express oneself without coming at the expense of another’s integrity or livelihood. Distinguishing between protected speech and defamatory statements is essential The First Amendment safeguards opinions and criticisms, even when they're harsh or unpopular. However, defamation involves more than just negative commentary—it requires the spread of falsehoods that are presented as fact, leading to financial loss, emotional distress, or social damage for the affected party. The legal challenge lies in maintaining a fair balance: protecting the right to free expression while holding individuals accountable when their words cause unjust harm. With the rise of social media and digital communication, this distinction has become even more significant. False information can spread rapidly, damaging reputations before the truth has a chance to surface. As public discourse increasingly shifts online, understanding the boundaries between free speech and defamation is crucial to maintaining both personal expression and legal responsibility in today's interconnected societies." (Free Speech vs Defamation, Chris Sanders Law PLLC). The right of free speech means the right to make wild, bizarre, irrational and unsupported assertions. It means the right to peddle false conspiracy theories and fabricate sequences of events: "Congress shall make no law abridging freedom of speech—First Amendment to the Constitution The iconic language of the First Amendment can be recited by schoolchildren, yet it is ignored by judges in Connecticut when the speech has been uttered by Alex Jones. After the Sandy Hook massacre, Jones opined that it did not happen as the press and the government related it; that it was a set up by antigun activists using actors and props. He persisted in this and offered snippets of odd behavior by the participants in order to cast doubt on the official version of events. The government lies all the time, he argued. For those who value freedom, this is a time to recall Voltaire: 'I disagree with what you say, but will defend to the death your right to say it.' Alex Jones has the largest viewership in the podcast world--larger than the television networks. Now we know what government does to silence its most effective critic." (Alex Jones And The Freedom of Speech by Andrew Napolitano). The Right to Discriminate. Discrimination is the act of making unjust distinctions between people based on the groups to which they belong. The right to discriminate on private property is an implication of the right to private property, and all efforts by the totalitarian state to violate it run up against the foremost iron law of reality, the law of identity that A is A. They run up against the iron fact that there is either private property or there is no private property, and that the right to private property means the right to private property. The totalitarian state defines A as non A, defining private accommodations as public accommodations, and proclaiming that there is no difference between a public library and a private library, between a public retail store and a private retail store, between a public restaurant and a private restaurant, and between a public hotel and a private hotel. The totalitarian state proclaims that there are no such things as truly private businesses, and all socalled private businesses are in fact owned and operated by the state, and are subject to state antidiscrimination laws. The right to private property means the right of an owner of a private business to discriminate in any manner he chooses. It means the right to discriminate on the basis of disability. It means the right to discriminate on the basis of race, sex, religion, national origin or sexual orientation. It means that the owner of a private business is allowed to post a sign on his private window indicating that his private business is not open to the public but only to members of groups of his own choosing: "Federal and state laws prohibit discrimination against certain protected groups in businesses and places that are considered public accommodations. The definition of a public accommodation may vary depending upon the law at issue (ie federal or state), and the type of discrimination involved (ie race discrimination or disability discrimination). Generally speaking, it may help to think of public accommodations as most (but not all) businesses or buildings that are open to (or offer services to) the general public. More specifically, the definition of a public accommodation can be broken down into two types of businesses/facilities: 1. Government owned/operated facilities, services, and buildings. 2. Privately owned/operated businesses, services, and buildings. Privately owned businesses and facilities that offer certain goods or services to the public--including food, lodging, gasoline, and entertainment--are considered public accommodations for purposes of federal and state antidiscrimination laws. For purposes of disability discrimination, the definition of a public accommodation is even more broad, encompassing most businesses that are open to the public (regardless of type). Federal law prohibits public accommodations from discriminating on the basis of race, color, religion, or national origin. If you think that you have been discriminated against in using such a facility, you may file a complaint with the Civil Rights Division of the Department of Justice, or with the United States attorney in your area. You may also file suit in the US district court. There are also state laws that broadly prohibit discrimination on the bases of race, color, religion, and national origin in places of public accommodation. To determine whether your state has such a law, you should contact your state or local human rights agency, or your state attorney general's office. At the federal level, the American with Disabilities Act prohibits discrimination on the basis of disability in a wide range of places of public accommodation, including facilities that offer lodging, food, entertainment, sales or rental services, health care and other professional services, or recreation. State and local governments must eliminate any eligibility criteria for participation in programs, activities, and services that screen out or tend to screen out persons with disabilities, unless the government can establish that the requirements are necessary for the provision of the service, program or activity." (Discrimination In Public Accommodations, Findlaw). Totalitarian State. The world's first totalitarian state was founded by in Russia in 1922 by Vladimir Lenin and lasted until 1991. Lenin's Soviet Union was a template for terror which would make multiple copies across the Communist Bloc. In the twenty first century, the template is alive and well, copying for totalitarian censors marked defamation and totalitarian jackboots marked antidiscrimination during the final minutes of the West.

FREEDOM VERSUS CONSERVATISM

Conservatism is a political philosophy promoting traditional institutions. Whatever the character of these institutions may be, conservatives promote them because they are old and traditional and not on any rational or moral grounds. Conservatives promote individual rights, not on the grounds that they enable the individual to rationally flourish and perfect himself, but because they are long established. On the same grounds, conservatives promote the nuclear family and organized religion, and thus promote tribalism and faith in place of the Enlightenment. Promoting Judeo-Christian values and tribal family values, conservatives are opposed to reason, science and individualism, promote social morality, and give the moral high ground to socialists and collectivists. Conservativsm. Called the philosophic founder of conservatism, Edmund Burke proclaims that capitalism must be subordinated to religious social morality, that the business class must be subordinated to the church and aristocracy, that the only basis for a free society resides in custom and tradition, and that community and social harmony take precedence over the rights of the individual. Conservativsm. Leader of the conservative Counter Enlightenment, Joseph de Maistre proclaims that the Reign of Terror during the French Revolution was an inevitable consequence of the Enlightenment, and showed that the rule of tyranny is inevitably established by the rule of reason. Constitutions must not be the product of reason but of revelation from God. Any attempt to justify freedom on rational grounds will lead to violence and chaos, and freedom must instead be justified as a command of religious authority embodied in the Catholic Church. Conservativsm. Conservative philosopher Russell Kirk proclaims that freedom can only be justified on the basis of custom, tradition, social prescription, divine revelation and the mystery of human existence. The orders, classes and hierarchies in society take precedence over individual rights. The Enlightenment was a false movement because it promoted liberal, secular government and was based on reason, science, the rejection of a mystical transcendent order, the rejection of original sin and man's innate depravity, and because it believed in the possibility of achieving human perfection. Conservativsm. Listen to conservative philosopher Michael Oakeshott exalt socialism as representing moral human perfection, happiness and utopia, as a system which is good but only unachievable: "To be conservative is to prefer the familiar to the unknown, to prefer the tried to the untried, fact to mystery, the actual to the possible, the limited to the unbounded, the near to the distant, the sufficient to the superabundant, the convenient to the perfect, present laughter to utopian bliss." (Political Theory: An Introduction by Andrew Heywood, quoting Michael Oakeshott). Conservativsm. According to One Nation British conservatism, individual rights are grounded in established institutions and traditional principles and not in reason, and must be regulated by socialist programs: "One Nation advocates the preservation of established institutions and traditional principles within a political democracy, in combination with social and economic programs designed to benefit the ordinary person." (Tory Democracy, Merriam-Webster Dictionary). British One Nation conservatives supported the postwar consensus establishing the National Health Service, the welfare state, and Keynesian intervention in the economy, stimulating demand through low interest rates and the printing of money. Listen to One Nationist Boris Johnson proclaim that the right to property is not absolute and inalienable, and the producers of wealth have a duty to support the poor: "I'm a one nation Tory. There is a duty on the part of the rich to the poor and to the needy, but you are not going to help people express that duty and satisfy it if you punish them fiscally so viciously that they leave this city and this country. I want London to be a competitive, dynamic place to come to work." (Boris Johnson Interview by Benedict Brogan, The Daily Telegraph, April 29, 2010). Listen to One Nation Conservatives promote human enslavement to social responsibility in the name of foreign aid, the social contract, the mixed economy, global leadership, the global citizen, public services, the welfare system, regulation of business, managed competition, breaking up successful businesses, and the well being of the nation: "Active global leadership: we believe the UK must be a leader on the world stage through our aid, trade and security commitments to tackle global challenges as a global citizen, through a strong defence and soft power commitment. Social Responsibility: we believe in a strong society, and a social contract between all of us as fellow citizens, supported in our tax and welfare system. Public Services: we believe in our public services, properly funded by a growing economy, as fundamental to the wellbeing of our nation, in a mixed economy of public, private and third sector providers. Markets and values: we believe in free enterprise, business and the market economy with a framework of good regulation to enhance competition, support innovation, break monopolies, empower citizens and reflect our shared values." (Declaration Of Values, May 2019). Conservativsm. Listen to conservatives proclaim that the abolition of private property is a noble idea and is simply unworkable. Marxism is good in theory and only evil in practice. The notion that the collective good takes precdence over the individual good is a shining ideal which suffers only in its implementation. The abolition of private homeownership is not in principle immoral. The socialist regime of total enslavement is a product of humanitarian impulses. The socialist regime of totalitarian tyanny is a product of benevolence. The socialist regime of redistribution and regimentation is a product of good intentions. The socialist regime of robbing Peter to subsidize Paul and spreading the wealth around is fair and equitable. The socialist regime of zero rights, zero freedoms and zero dignity of the individual is a shining utopian tower and Jerusalem on the hill. The socialist regime of state confiscation and crushing of the individual is theoretically unassailable, and is only criminal and cruel when put into practice. Advocates of mass murder such as Karl Marx and Jean-Jacques Rousseau were noble, upstanding idealists. The socialist regime of government welfare provided from cradle to grave is impractical and not immoral. There is no moral case for capitalism but only a practical case, while there is no practical case for socialism but only a moral case. The socialist regime of mass equality scales the noblest heights of the soul and is only problematic on the ground. Proletarian revolution is good in theory but not in practice. The socialist enemies of freedom are defensible in the abstract but not in practice. The socialist regime of censorship and the enforcement of political correctness is morally correct. Diversity policies discriminating on the basis of race and sex are well intentioned and correct in principle. The multitribe, multigorgon, Marxist monster of gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics is kind and just in theory and only harsh and unjust in practice, and Marxists are the moral and spiritual friends of mankind: "At his inauguration on January 1 as New York's first Muslim and first self declared socialist mayor, the young, rich, Ugandan born Zohran Mamdani crowed that 'We will replace the frigidity of rugged individualism with the warmth of collectivism.' Was that a threat or a promise? Some commentators, recoiling from the totalitarian aroma of that sentence, said that Mamdani needed new speechwriters. We disagree. The shocking candor of that sentence won for it instant notoriety. It was quoted everywhere. What do you suppose it means? The essence of socialism, as Karl Marx noted, can be summed up in a single phrase: the abolition of private property. That's the hard reality. If you soak it in a linguistic bath marked 'democratic', however, you promise to relieve or at least distract from the harshness. Cea Weaver, Mamdani's new tenant advocate, has been getting a lot of ink. She deserves it. Whether or not she has actually read Marx, the Bryn Mawr graduate has absorbed the core of his teaching. In 2019 she declared that 'Private property, including, and kind of especially, homeownership, is a weapon of white supremacy.' Perhaps that was just youthful fatuousness, now outgrown? We don't think so. Years later, Weaver explained her plan to 'transition' to 'treating [property] as a collective good.' In The Proud Tower, Barbara Tuchman observed that 'Humanitarian instincts grow fiercer in proportion to the distance by which their causes are removed and it is always easier to build Jerusalem in Africa than at home.' People like Mamdani and Weaver are drowning in humanitarian instincts. But the sad truth is that theoretical benevolence is compatible with any amount of practical indifference or even cruelty. You feel kindly towards others. That is what matters: your feelings. The effects of your benevolent feelings in the real world are secondary. Jean-Jacques Rousseau was a philosopher of benevolence. So was his disciple Karl Marx. Yet everywhere that Marx's ideas have been put into practice, the result has been universal immiseration. His intention was the benevolent one of forging a more equitable society by abolishing private property and, to adapt Barack Obama's famous phrase, by 'spreading the wealth around.' Every Marxist society has spread it wide and spread it thin. Hence the pertinence of Ronald Reagan's observation that the nine most terrifying words in the English language are 'I'm from the government, and I'm here to help.' For centuries, political philosophers have understood that the lust for equality is the enemy of freedom. That species of benevolence underwrote the tragedy of communist tyranny. The rise of political correctness has redistributed that lust over a new roster of issues: not the proletariat, but the environment; not the struggling masses, but gay rights, the Third World, diversity training, and an end to racism, xenophobia and 'white supremacy.' The attitude of abstract benevolence is all but ubiquitous in modern democratic societies. Although of relatively recent vintage, it has insinuated itself deeply into the tissues of the body politic. Without it, politicians like Zohran Mamdani, Tim Walz, and Gavin Newsom would be impossible." (Cold Collectivism, The New Criterion, February 2026).

Conservatism. Conservatism is a Judeo-Christian, antiEnlightenment movement which rejects the primacy of reason and science. It proclaims that socialism has reason and science on its side and that freedom can only be defended in terms of faith and tradition. Proclaiming that freedom must be defended, not on the grounds that it is morally good, right or defensible, but on the grounds that it is old, ancestral and commanded by church authority, conservatism is as hostile to human freedom as it is morally and intellectually bankrupt.

GEORGE ORWELL, ANTISOCIALIST

When I see a bird that walks like a duck and swims like a duck and quacks like a duck, I call that bird a duck. (Poet James Whitcomb Riley, 1849–1916). The Duck Test, an example of a form of reasoning which draws conclusions from a set of observations. It is used to counter an argument that something may not be what it in fact appears to be. In the literary world, the Duck Test has been applied to an English author who professed to be something, and was proclaimed by the cultural establishment to be something, which he in fact was not. His name was George Orwell, and though he called himself a socialist, and was described by the cultural establishment as a socialist, he was not in fact a socialist but a voice of liberty. Author of the dystopian novel 1984, Orwell was indeed among the greatest voices of liberty in modern times, composing in his masterwork a dissection of the horrors of socialism which would educate and alert millions of people throughout the world. In his essay Why I Write, Orwell writes four words which refute his own profession of socialism: "Every line of serious work that I have written since 1936 has been written, directly or indirectly, against totalitarianism and for democratic socialism, as I understand it." As I understand it. A qualification which refutes his own profession, for the manner in which Orwell understood socialism had no relation to the reality of socialism and was in fact a definiton of liberal democracy. Orwell defined socialism as a system of justice, fairness and liberty. This is the antithesis of the system which in theory and in principle is a system of selflessness, service and sacrifice for the sake of others, a system which denies the right of the individual to exist and work for his own sake. The system which invades and enchains the individual to a god called the Collective, and teaches him that his thoughts and actions, one and all, belong to the Collective, and that he has a duty to surrender his property to the Collective and to regiment his thoughts in accordance with the dogmas laid down by the Collective, which teaches him that he has no right to private property and no right to free speech, is the negation of justice, fairness and liberty, and the negation of all human existence. Orwell's professed understanding of socialism is the first refutation of the view, his own and others', that he was a socialist; the second refutation appears on the pages of 1984. Orwell's qualification of the socialism he professed to uphold, his distinction between democratic socialism and totalitarianism, is refuted in 1984, where he shows that socialism is in fact totalitarianism and that the notion of democratic socialism, which Orwell officially understands as liberal democratic socialism, is a contradiction in terms, being both a system of freedom and slavery at one and the same time. 1984. In 1984, Orwell portrays socialism as a system of class hate and collective surveillance, the latter encapsulated in the slogan Big Brother Is Watching You: "The hallway smelt of boiled cabbage and old rag mats. At one end of it a colored poster, too large for indoor display, had been tacked to the wall. It depicted simply an enormous face, more than a meter wide: the face of a man of about forty five, with a heavy black moustache and ruggedly handsome features. Winston made for the stairs. It was no use trying the lift. Even at the best of times it was seldom working, and at present the electric current was cut off during daylight hours. It was part of the economy drive in preparation for Hate Week. The flat was seven flights up, and Winston, who was thirty nine and had a varicose ulcer above his right ankle, went slowly, resting several times on the way. On each landing, opposite the lift shaft, the poster with the enormous face gazed from the wall. It was one of those pictures which are so contrived that the eyes follow you about when you move. BIG BROTHER IS WATCHING YOU, the caption beneath it ran." 1984. In 1984, Orwell portrays socialism as a system of omnipresent telescreens and total control. A system in which the face of socialist leader Joseph Stalin is the face of Big Brother watching people around the clock. A system of helicopter patrols, thought police, and proletarian overalls ensuring mental lockstep and conformity to the party line: "Inside the flat a fruity voice was reading out a list of figures which had something to do with the production of pig iron. The voice came from an oblong metal plaque like a dulled mirror which formed part of the surface of the right hand wall. Winston turned a switch and the voice sank somewhat, though the words were still distinguishable. The instrument (the telescreen, it was called) could be dimmed, but there was no way of shutting it off completely. He moved over to the window: a smallish, frail figure, the meagreness of his body merely emphasized by the blue overalls which were the uniform of the party. His hair was very fair, his face naturally sanguine, his skin roughened by coarse soap and blunt razor blades and the cold of the winter that had just ended. Outside, even through the shut window pane, the world looked cold. Down in the street little eddies of wind were whirling dust and torn paper into spirals, and though the sun was shining and the sky a harsh blue, there seemed to be no color in anything, except the posters that were plastered everywhere. The black moustachioed face gazed down from every commanding corner. There was one on the house front immediately opposite. BIG BROTHER IS WATCHING

YOU, the caption said, while the dark eyes looked deep into Winston's own. Down at street level another poster, torn at one corner, flapped fitfully in the wind, alternately covering and uncovering the single word INGSOC. In the far distance a helicopter skimmed down between the roofs, hovered for an instant like a bluebottle, and darted away again with a curving flight. It was the police patrol, snooping into people's windows. The patrols did not matter, however. Only the Thought Police mattered." 1984. In 1984, Orwell portrays socialism as a system of state economic ownership commanding rightless citizens in three year and five year plans. A system of state watching, listening, checking and examining at every moment of the day, and for the duration of one's life: "Behind Winston's back the voice from the telescreen was still babbling away about pig-iron and the overfulfilment of the Ninth Three Year Plan. The telescreen received and transmitted simultaneously. Any sound that Winston made, above the level of a very low whisper, would be picked up by it, moreover, so long as he remained within the fi eld of vision which the metal plaque commanded, he could be seen as well as heard. There was of course no way of knowing whether you were being watched at any given moment. How often, or on what system, the Thought Police plugged in on any individual wire was guesswork. It was even conceivable that they watched everybody all the time. But at any rate they could plug in your wire whenever they wanted to. You had to live—did live, from habit that became instinct—in the assumption that every sound you made was overheard, and, except in darkness, every movement scrutinized." 1984. In 1984, Orwell portrays socialism as a system enforcing the Marxist antilogic of dialectical materialism, which purports to prove that contradiction is the basic law of reality. It purports to prove that A is non A, and that class war is peace, individual freedom is slavery, the rejection of reason and truth in favor of blind Marxist faith is strength, and state totalitarian tyranny is law and order. A world of state control over the channels of communication in news, entertainment, education and the fine arts: "The Ministry of Truth—Minitrue, in Newspeak—was startlingly different from any other object in sight. It was an enormous pyramidal structure of glittering white concrete, soaring up, terrace after terrace, 300 meters into the air. From where Winston stood it was just possible to read, picked out on its white face in elegant lettering, the three slogans of the Party: WAR IS PEACE. FREEDOM IS SLAVERY. IGNORANCE IS STRENGTH. The Ministry of Truth contained, it was said, three thousand rooms above ground level, and corresponding ramifications below. Scattered about London there were just three other buildings of similar appearance and size. So completely did they dwarf the surrounding architecture that from the roof of Victory Mansions you could see all four of them simultaneously. They were the homes of the four Ministries between which the entire apparatus of government was divided. The Ministry of Truth, which concerned itself with news, entertainment, education, and the fine arts. The Ministry of Peace, which concerned itself with war. The Ministry of Love, which maintained law and order. And the Ministry of Plenty, which was responsible for economic affairs. Their names, in Newspeak: Minitrue, Minipax, Miniluv, and Miniplenty." 1984. In 1984, Orwell portrays socialism as a system which condemns the voices of freedom as heretics, deviationists, traitors, saboteurs, agents of counterrevolution and enemies of the people, and condemns them to unending hate and unending death: "The next moment a hideous, grinding speech, as of some monstrous machine running without oil, burst from the big telescreen at the end of the room. It was a noise that set one's teeth on edge and bristled the hair at the back of one's neck. The Hate had started. As usual, the face of Emmanuel Goldstein, the Enemy of the People, had flashed on to the screen. There were hisses here and there among the audience. The little sandy haired woman gave a squeak of mingled fear and disgust. Goldstein was the renegade and backslider who once, long ago (how long ago, nobody quite remembered), had been one of the leading figures of the Party, almost on a level with Big Brother himself, and then had engaged in counter revolutionary activities, had been condemned to death, and had mysteriously escaped and disappeared. The programs of the Two Minutes Hate varied from day to day, but there was none in which Goldstein was not the principal figure. He was the primal traitor, the earliest defi ler of the Party's purity. All subsequent crimes against the Party, all treacheries, acts of sabotage, heresies, deviations, sprang directly out of his teaching. Somewhere or other he was still alive and hatching his conspiracies: perhaps somewhere beyond the sea, under the protection of his foreign paymasters, perhaps even—so it was occasionally rumored—in some hiding place in Oceania itself." 1984. In Greek mythology, the goddess Ate was the personification of delusion who led people into error and ruination. The figure describes the state of willful ignorance, the deliberate avoidance of facts which are uncomfortable and disturbing, afflicting people blinded by prejudice. Orwell's superstate of Oceania, established after an anticapitalist revolution, enforces the ideologies of English Socialism, NeoBolshevism and the Obliteration of the Self. Its citizens sing the national anthem to collectivism: It is for Thee. The socialist state of Oceania has abolished private property, freedom from state surveillance, freedom of expression and freedom of thought, and established the category of thoughtcrime, the crime of thinking in ways not approved by the ruling English Socialist Party. The willful blindness of both the author of 1984 and the Western cultural establishment continues to propagate the fiction that this dystopian masterwork is not a condemnation of socialism.

REDS KIDNAP HELEN OF TROY

She was called the most beautiful woman in the world. In his tragedy Doctor Faustus, Christopher Marlowe asks of her: "Was this the face that launched a thousand ships/And burned the soaring towers of Ilium?" Daughter of Zeus and Leda, Queen of Sparta, fair haired, fair skinned and blue eyed Helen of Troy was kidnapped by the Trojan prince Paris and taken to Troy with him, where she lived for ten years. The kidnapping of Helen was the cause of the Trojan War between Sparta and Troy, fought by the Spartans, led by Helen's husband King Menelaus and his brother Agamemnon, to free Helen and return her to her native land. Three thousand years after Helen was kidnapped by a prince entranced by her beauty, she has been kidnapped again. This time around, the kidnappers are an invincible force which will successfully block all efforts to free her. For they are part of the spirit of the times, part of the zeitgeist of the late modern age, and among the controlling forces bringing the West down into the graveyard of failed civilizations. In the twenty first century, Helen of Troy has been kidnapped by the jackboots of Marxist political correctness and taken to a cave where she languishes in the darkness of censorship. Three thousand years after Helen of Troy was taken from her husband and daughter in Sparta, she has been taken away again and hurled into cultural oblivion by a multitribe, multigorgon Marxist monster of gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics, a monster demanding the right to ideologically erase Classical literature. Helen of Troy. Listen to the twenty first century kidnappers of Helen of Troy and hear a manifesto of Marxist thought control waging war against reason, sanity and the values of the Enlightenment. The new kidnappers proclaim that Helen of Troy must be cast in a film as a black woman because the real Helen of Troy described in Greek mythology represents Donald Trump and his MAGA movement. Helen of Troy must be cast as a black woman because a progressive society is one which discriminates against whites in the name of achieving diversity, inclusion and true fairness. Because the fact that the ancient Greeks were white and not black Africans is politically incorrect and must be erased. Because casting a white actress for a white role is racist and those who support this are the voices of white power. Because the Classic depiction of beauty involving blond hair, blue eyes and fair skin is racist and politically incorrect. Because accuracy in the depiction of literary figures must be sacrificed on the altar of political correctness. Because artistic integrity must be sacrificed on the altar of racist identity politics. Because artistic representations must possess the correct race, sex and sexual orientation. Because artistic representations must advance Marxist plans and propaganda. Because the portrayal of an African Helen of Troy is politically necessary. Because ancient original material and mythical figures must be screened for political correctness. Because the depiction of Helen of Troy as what she is, as a white woman, is an expression of white supremacist culture. Because depictions of figures in ancient Muslim literature must be black or brown, as do depictions of Rosa Parks, Frederick Douglass and Sammy Davis Jr, in accordance with the principle of artistic versimilitude, while depictions of white figures in ancient Classical and Germanic literature must be black or brown, in accordance with the principle of political correctness. Because social justice demands that white figures in ancient literature be depicted as black. Because the fact that whites are inherently evil and blacks are inherently good demands that white figures in ancient literature be depicted as black. Because white figures in ancient literature must be blackwashed in the name of politically correct messaging and affirmative action: "Hollywood simply cannot help itself. For years, these privileged elites have spewed angry, hateful, profanity riddled, self righteous rants against President Trump and the MAGA movement, driving American audiences away from theaters into the arms of streaming alternatives like Angel Studios which don't insult their values or sucker punch them politically. Thanks to industry enforced DEI requirements, blatantly woke casting has added another layer of offensiveness to viewers. A disappointing but entirely predictable example of this is the revelation that filmmaker Christopher Nolan (Inception, The Dark Knight Rises, Oppenheimer) has cast black actress Lupita Nyongo as legendary Greek beauty Helen of Troy in his highly anticipated, $250 million IMAX adaptation of Homer's Odyssey, set to open July 17, 2026. Nyongo is an Oscar winning actress, some point out, so why is this a problem? Her acting talent is not the issue. The problem is the painfully obvious DEI casting of a black woman as an iconic queen of ancient Greece. Lupita Nyongo was actually confirmed as a cast member a year ago, but it was uncertain whether she was playing King Agamemnon's wife Clytemnestra, the goddess Athena, or some other character. Now it has been confirmed she will portray 'the face that launched a thousand ships', as Shakespeare's contemporary Christopher Marlowe put it, and sparked the Trojan War. She is right for none of those roles, for the simple reason that the ancient Greeks were not black Africans; nor were their gods and goddesses. The social media backlash to this news was swift and withering, but some of Nyongo's and Nolan's defenders noted that she is an exceptional actress and beautiful, so the only reason to object to her casting must be racism. But the undeniable fact is that ancient sources such as Homer's other classic, The Iliad, the Greek poet Sappho, and playwright Euripides describe Helen of Troy repeatedly as 'white armed', 'fair haired' or 'golden haired' and 'fair faced', referring to the classical female ideal of pale skin and blonde hair. In addition, Helen's beauty is described as supernaturally devastating. She is not merely the most gorgeous woman in the world– as a daughter of Zeus, her radiance is literally semidivine. Another common defense of Nolan's casting goes like this: Helen of Troy was a mythical figure, not a real person, so there is nothing historically inaccurate about depicting her however Nolan chooses. But there is such a thing as respecting the integrity of the original story. Filmmakers working with an existing intellectual property, whether it is the James Bond franchise or Homer's Odyssey, have a choice: they can commit either to the racist identity politics of DEI or to the creative integrity of the original story. Both James Bond and The Odyssey are fictional creations, but the race, sex and sexual orientation of their principal characters cannot be altered without tearing asunder the fabric of the original artist's creative tapestry. Violating story integrity is also a guaranteed way to alienate the built in audience which is the very reason Hollywood executives prefer adapting existing intellectual properties rather than taking a chance on original material. Rumors that Nolan's Odyssey would feature warriors in historically inaccurate armor were enough to send prospective fans into a tailspin; the casting of Nyongo as Helen will only turn off even more potential viewers. This is not an instance in which controversy will be good for business. Storytelling suffers when what poet Samuel Taylor Coleridge called 'the willing suspension of disbelief' is shattered by a jarring casting choice like an African Helen of Troy, and when characters are reduced to cardboard vehicles for the promotion of a political agenda. No one in the audience is well served when filmmakers revise the past, even the mythical past, to spread the lies of today. But the self righteous virtue signalers in Hollywood can't help themselves. In recent years they have thumbed their collective nose like this at audiences numerous times. A black actress was cast as Henry VIII discard Anne Boleyn, who was undeniably white; but if you pointed out that casting a black actress would make the project distractingly contrary to historical fact, then you were smeared as upholding white supremacist culture. A black actress was cast as the titular lead in an historical Netflix drama Queen Cleopatra. The scholarly consensus, however, is that the Queen of Egypt from 51 to 30 BC was of Macedonian descent, with the prominent aquiline nose common among the Romans and Greeks. No serious scholar argues that she was a subSaharan African. I'm a big fan of black actor Idris Elba, but his casting as the Norse god Heimdall, guardian of Asgard, in the Marvel Thor franchise was simply laughable. The Norse gods were even less black than the Greek gods. Bisexual black actress Cynthia Erivo (Wicked) was cast as Jesus in Hollywood Bowl performances of Jesus Christ Superstar. Does anyone believe the producers would have cast her as the Muslim prophet in a production of Muhammad Superstar? And on and on. We all know what the left's reaction would be to the casting of white South African Charlize Theron in a biopic of Rosa Parks, or Aussie star Hugh Jackman as black abolitionist Frederick Douglass, or inexplicable heartthrob Timothee Chalomet as Sammy Davis, Jr. There is no point in making this obvious counterargument, because leftists are impervious to accusations of hypocrisy; they simply don't care. They would simply counter that early Hollywood spent decades 'whitewashing' minorities by casting white actors to play, for example, Chinese detective Charlie Chan, so now social justice demands that we reverse discriminate against whites. The left is also impervious to complaints that discrimination against whites is still discrimination. They know that, and they are fine with it because the left equates whiteness with evil. By casting Lupita Nyongo as Helen, Nolan and Universal Studios are signaling that their political messaging and affirmative action preference takes priority over the original material and over the moviegoers themselves, who deserve a film that doesn't insult their intelligence and shove wokeness in their collective face. As Elon Musk put it, 'Chris Nolan has lost his integrity.' " (Woke Casting Ruins Nolan's Odyssey by Mark Tapson). Helen of Troy. In the 1924 silent film Helena, Helen of Troy is depicted as white by Edy Darclea, and in the 1956 film Helen of Troy, she is depicted as white by Rossana Podesta. In the 2026 film The Odyssey, Helen is depicted as black by Lupita Nyongo. Director Christopher Nolan's film is not the story of the Greek hero Odysseus. It is the story of a Kenyan Mexican actress kidnapping the literary Helen of Troy, taking her place and celebrating the triumph of Marxist identity politics over a free society.

NATIVE TRIBES OVERRUN AMERICA

Rome, August 24, 410 AD. The attacks commence. Under the leadership of Alaric, Visigoths sack the "eternal city" and for the first time in 800 years, it falls to foreign military powers. The collapse of Rome symbolized the physical collapse of the Roman Empire, but the spiritual collapse had occurred a decade before in 313 AD, when Emperor Constantine legalized Christianity and launched a state war against pagan reason. The sack of 410 was followed by the sack of 455 by Vandals under the leadership of Genseric, and in 476, the German King Odoacer deposed the last Roman Emperor, Romulus Augustulus, marking the final triumph of religion and barbarism. The Classical world had fallen before an onslaught of two alien powers, one from the East, Christianity, and one from the North, Germanic hordes, both of which were allowed through the gates of civilization by the Roman masses afflicted with cultural degeneration. In the fifth century AD, the Classical world, whose preeminent god was Apollo, god of reason, truth, healing, human perfection and the Sun, was reduced to smoking ruins, its preeminent god lying shattered across streets and squares, shattered by the sledgehammers of Christianity and Germanism. Fifteen hundred years after the fall of the Apollonian culture of the Greeks and Romans, and 6000 kilometers away from Europe, history has repeated itself and enacted another civilizational collapse. The tragedy is occurring in the arsenal of the free world, and illustrates the terrifying law that the mightiest tree in the forest will collapse if sufficiently rotted and decayed. The new players on the scene are Marxists and Native Americans, the former agitating for the surrender of the land to the latter, the ransacking of scientific and technological civilization, and its dissolution into primordial savagery. The land is the United States of America and in the twenty first century, it is under attack by two alien powers, under attack by a Marxist monster called G*ender, Race, Class, Culture, Ethnicity and Sexual Orientation Politics*, and under attack by hordes of human bacteria worshiping at the altars of ignorance, superstition, looting, enslaving and human degradation, hordes described by Thomas Jefferson in the Declaration of Independence as "merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions." In the twenty first century, America's Marxists have enabled and encouraged America's Native Indians to conduct a campaign of national destruction. They have given them the guns and ammunition and cowritten their manifesto of war against America. America Today. The Marxist-Native American manifesto proclaims that a progressive society demands that museums return Native American artefacts to their proper tribes. It is a Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act which mandates the emptying of the nation's museums. It demands that public institutions return Native American human remains to their descendants and that Native Americans become owners of the nation. It demands that Native American cultural items be returned to their descendants along with all American land. It demands that university museums be robbed of their collections in the name of Native American rights. It demands that American liberal democracy and modern civilization be sactrificed on the altars of the Indigenous Americas. It demands that Native American ground stones, ceramic shards, faunal bones, leather materials, and glass, metal and ceramics materials be returned to their descendants and that American culture be swept away by the currents of Native American tyranny and stagnation. It demands that museum items identified as culturally affiliated with the Serrano and Taatavim peoples in consultation with the Yuhaaviatam of San Manuel Nation be returned to these peoples, and that the Serrano and Taatavim peoples in consultation with the Yuhaaviatam of San Manuel Nation be allowed to smash, seize and carry away America. It demands that photographic negatives of petroglyphs in Black Canyon, San Bernardino County be given to the Yuhaaviatam of San Manuel Nation, and that photographic positives, together with American cameras, computers and channels of mass communication, be given to the tribe as well. It demands that books on prehistoric rock art be destroyed and along with them all books on Native Americans all across the nation. It demands that all books on Native American arts and culture be burned. It demands that America's land possesses deep cultural significance to Native Americans and must be given to them. It demands that America's land must be given to Native Americans on the grounds of political correctness and innate white depravity. It demands that images of Native Americans be banned on the grounds that they are sacrilegious. It demands that Native Americans be given control of the American state and economy, that tribal mysticism replace American science and technology, and that American museum collections and research laboratories be raided, ransacked and razed to the ground: "One of UCLA’s museums is returning hundreds of items from its collection of Native American artifacts, including photo negatives, to a California tribe this winter–an effort that has one scholar concerned. The public university’s Fowler Museum is repatriating items with Native American cultural affiliation in accordance with the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act, according to a notice from the National Park Service on January 7. The federal law, first enacted in 1990, initially required public institutions to return Native American human remains to their descendants. However, some scholars say recent regulatory expansions that now include a broad range of 'cultural items' are wiping out university collections and making the study of these cultures increasingly difficult. In the case of UCLA, the Yuhaaviatam of San Manuel Nation, a Native American tribe in San Bernardino County, requested a total of '766 lots of cultural items' for repatriation from the university’s Fowler Museum, according to the notice. The mission of the Fowler Museum is to '[explore] global arts and cultures with an emphasis on Africa, Asia, the Pacific and the Indigenous Americas—past and present', according to its website. The cultural items slated for return to the tribe include 'ground stone', 'ceramic shards', 'faunal bone', and 'historic materials' such as 'glass, metal, ceramics', and 'leather.' The museum also is giving 'photographic negatives of petroglyphs' in Black Canyon, San Bernardino County, to the tribe. The notice indicated that all of the items had been 'identified as culturally affiliated' with the Serrano and Taatavim peoples in consultation with the Yuhaaviatam of San Manuel Nation, and that the repatriation will occur 'on or after February 6.' A representative from the Yuhaaviatam of San Manuel Nation declined to comment when The College Fix asked over email why items such as photo negatives were requested for repatriation. The spokesperson said 'it was decided not to participate in this story.' Meanwhile, a professor emeritus of anthropology at San Jose State University said that the federal repatriation law 'was never meant for the repatriation of data, such as photos or negatives.' 'It won't be long until books containing images of petroglyphs are burned. To save archaeology and the knowledge of our past, NAGPRA needs to be repealed!' Professor Elizabeth Weiss posted on X in response to the UCLA notice. Weiss told The College Fix in a recent email that the photo negatives likely will 'be destroyed.' 'If the negatives, which contain images of petroglyphs from the Black Canyon site in San Bernardino County, are repatriated, they will be destroyed—most likely burned', she said. Weiss posed the hypothetical question of whether tribes would continue to request repatriations for other photographs, saying, 'Will the tribe next seek out copies of the 1973 book Prehistoric Rock Art Of California that contains images of these petroglyphs, and destroy those too?' 'The repatriation of these negatives may seem trivial, but it opens the door to similar repatriations–and, ultimately, to book burning', Weiss told The Fix. When asked about the tribes' motivations for repatriating items like photographs, Weiss said she believes 'it's part power trip and part grift.' 'The tribal leaders are claiming everything back because they can. Because of their white guilt and political correctness, the NAGPRA committee doesn't have the backbone to challenge anything the Native American 'knowledge keepers' and elders say', she said. She added that 'the tribe gets funding for consultation, ceremonial activities, and repatriations--these costs come at taxpayers' expense.' The UCLA's media team, the Fowler Museum media team, and the Fowler Museum NAGPRA repatriation coordinator did not respond to The Fix's emails over the past two weeks asking for comment on the repatriation list. This is not the first time the UCLA museum has removed items from its collection. In 2025, it also gave 10 glass spearheads and a kangaroo tooth headband from its collection to an Australian tribe. According to a news release, the objects were 'of deep cultural significance' to the tribe. In recent years, Weiss and other scholars have raised concerns about growing restrictions hindering the study of Native American cultures. In the Los Rios Community College District, for example, professors even are banned from using 'images' of Native American cultural items in their classes. Meanwhile, The Fix recently uncovered an interview with the Indiana University NAGPRA office director where she said she did not always tell airlines that she was carrying human remains onto flights due to tribes' concerns. In 2025, an Indiana University training program advised public employees that 'tribes are in control' and 'tribal knowledge is sufficient' when they are working to return Native American artifacts in their research labs and museum collections, according to records obtained by The Fix." (UCLA Museum Removes Hundreds Of Native American Artifacts, Photos At Tribe's Request by James Drexel). America Today. A fire is blazing across America. It is a fire called decolonization, cultural politics and land claims and it was ignited by Marxist incendiaries. Blazing on behalf of Native Americans, it has incinerated museums and universities, and burned the words resentment, revenge, repatriation and revolution on the ruins. America in the twenty first century, in the late modern age, in the age of the fall of Rome, has seen the triumph of religion and barbarism.

RED GREEN CELLS IN THE HOST OF CIVILIZATION

They were known as the Axis Powers and they started World War II. Formed in 1936 and comprised of National Socialist Germany, the Kingdom of Italy and the Empire of Japan, they ruled over vast parts of Europe, North Africa and East Asia, and through their annexations and puppet states, they spread a virus of race hate which infected the continent which had brought freedom into the world.

Twenty years after the World War II Axis Powers crashed into the rubble of surrender and defeat, a new Axis arose and continued where its predecessor had left off, fighting a war by totalitarian armies to overthrow liberal democracy. The players changed but the theme remained the same, the destruction of civilization, as did the methods and tactics, spanning the devil's gamut from agitation to propaganda to violence and terror. The new players were Marxists and Muslims, and they constructed an Axis of antiEnlightenment which would soon span the world. Their relative positions changed from East to West; in the East, the Islamists were the domestic power while the Marxists came from without, while in the West, the Marxists were the domestic power and the Islamists came from without; but this Axis was a terrifying symptom of the new age of religiousness into which the West was descending. This new Marxist-Muslim Axis was formed in the 1960s. In the twenty first century, it has expanded in power and influence and formed a global empire, reaching into every sector of society, from classrooms to courtrooms to kitchen tables to government cabinets to corporate suites to the channels of mass communication, and along with Christian Rightists and fascists/nationalists, is pushing the West into a new Dark Ages. The New Axis. The new Axis proclaims that capitalism is a regime of killer cops and Immigration and Customs Enforcement agents persecuting enemy aliens. Law enforcement is a weapon of capitalist oppression which must be smashed by Marxist-Muslim community action. A progressive society is a Marxist-Muslim activist network. A progressive society is a movement of Palestinian youth and Shias for Justice. A progressive society issues emergency calls to action to Marxists and Muslims to agitate for the assassination of the police, the expulsion of ICE agents and the legalization of enemy aliens. A progressive society is a far left street mobilization campaign seeking to jail and kill police and border enforcement agents. Capitalism is a regime of racist political repression. Capitalism is a regime in which the courts, the police and the prisons are weapons of persecution of Marxist and Muslim terrorists. A progressive society is a system of Marxist and Muslim community control. Capitalist is a regime of law enforcement oppression of women, blacks and Muslim enemy aliens. A progressive society is a communist party, a communist ecosystem and a communist civil rights organization. A progressive society is a network of cities promoting proletarian, Palestinian rights against liberal democracy. A progressive society a Marxist and Muslim tank boulevard called freedom road. A progressive society is a socialist fight back against liberal democracy. A progressive society is a sanctuary nation for Marxist and Muslim criminal gangs. A progressive society is a detention center for the Enlightenment voices of freedom. A progressive society is a conference, with chapters located throughout the world, for an attack on liberal democratic government and law enforcement. A progressive society is a coalition, with chapters located throughout the world, for Marxist and Muslim violence and aggression. A progressive society is an international Marxist and Muslim activist network waging armed struggle against the capitalist system. A progressive society is a campaign to normalize antisemitism and promote violence against Israel and Jews. A progressive society is a structure and organization for the support of Marxist and Muslim acts of pressure, intimidation and attempts to delegitimize the voices of freedom. A progressive society is a campaign of resistance to liberal democratic law and order. A progressive society demands amnesty and citizenship for enemy aliens. A progressive society is a community coalition seeking communist revolution. A progressive society is a violent, subversive street movement seeking to capture Western civilization. A progressive society is an anticapitalist war committee. A progressive society is a vehicle for antiAmerican violence and the dissolution of America's borders. A progressive society is a democratic socialist movement seeking to establish slavery through the ballot box. A progressive society is an efficient, well organized socialist movement. A progressive society is a machine seeking to defund the police and dissolve the institutions of freedom. A progressive society is a high power engine of Marxist and Muslim destruction. Capitalism is an apparatus of oppressive state power. A progressive society empowers enemy aliens in the name of compassion. A progressive society is a party of Marxist and Muslim liberation and theocracy. A progressive society is a strict, uncompromising Marxist, Muslim rifle of violence. A progressive society is a movement for the destabilization of liberal democracy. A progressive society is a Marxist, Muslim revolutionary front seeking the destruction of free societies, public safety and the rule of law under the banners of antiimperialism: "A radical Marxist–Islamic activist coalition is mobilizing at Dallas City Hall on January 29 to pressure local government into driving ICE out of North Texas while demonizing law enforcement as 'killer cops'—a coordinated intimidation campaign disguised as 'community action.' A growing coalition of Islamic linked activist networks, Marxist organizations, and antilaw enforcement pressure groups, including Palestinian Youth Movement (PYM) and Shias For Justice, is preparing to converge on Dallas City Hall on January 29 at 7:00 PM, demanding the removal of ICE from North Texas while openly demonizing law enforcement as 'killers.' According to a flyer circulating online, the event is being promoted as an 'Emergency Call to Action' with demands including ICE OUT OF DALLAS FORTH WORTH, JAIL ALL KILLER COPS, and LEGALIZATION FOR ALL. This is not 'peaceful civic engagement. This is political intimidation, weaponized propaganda, and the normalization of extremist rhetoric inside Texas. Who's Behind It: The Organizations Promoting the Rally. The flyer showcases a coordinated network of radical groups that consistently align with antiborder enforcement activism, antipolice agitation, and dangerous far left street mobilization tactics. NAARPR Dallas (National Alliance Against Racist & Political Repression). NAARPR is one of the primary organizers listed and functions as a political street mobilization apparatus targeting policing, courts, and the incarceration system. Its messaging frames law enforcement as inherently oppressive and promotes 'community control' activism designed to erode institutional authority from within. NAARPR is not a generic civil rights group—it has deep, explicit roots in the communist organizing ecosystem, with an older iteration founded in the 1970s tied to Communist Party USA networks, and a newer iteration described as being built/expanded through Freedom Road Socialist Organization/FightBack! infrastructure. In recent activity, NAARPR has operated as a street mobilization and pressure apparatus focused on antipolice and antiICE campaigns, including coordinated 'ICE out' demands, 'sanctuary city' pushes, and opposition to detention expansion. Your excerpt also describes. NAARPR's organizing model: large multichapter conferences, coalition building with the Legalization For All (L4A) network, and openly confrontational rhetoric around policing and federal enforcement—the same posture reflected in this Dallas City Hall rally. 2) Palestinian Youth Movement (PYM). PYM is a highly organized, international radical activist network with chapters across North America and Europe and a documented pattern of aggressive street mobilization, coalition building with Marxist groups, and escalatory protest tactics. PYM and affiliated speakers have publicly defended 'armed struggle' rhetoric, aligned with groups like PSL, and helped drive a large volume of antiIsrael protest activity nationwide—while promoting 'antinormalization' campaigns that seek to ostracize 'Zionists' from public life and that critics argue regularly bleed into antisemitic framing and imagery. The group has also served as a movement bridge between campus activism and outside political infrastructure, providing legal/logistical support and helping sustain high pressure actions—an organizing model that translates easily into ICE OUT campaigns aimed at intimidating local officials and delegitimizing law enforcement. 3) Shias For Justice. This group is listed on the flyer among the coalition partners. Its inclusion highlights how ideological activism in Texas is increasingly being packaged through 'justice' branding to legitimize aggressive political street campaigns while driving hostility toward US enforcement institutions. 4) Indivisible Dallas. Indivisible Dallas is a local chapter of the national Indivisible network built to drive coordinated protest pressure campaigns against elected officials. Its presence signals this is not organic activism—it's structured political mobilization tied to 'resistance' organizing, including antienforcement agitation and ICE Out style actions in the Dallas area. 5) Team Brown Voices Fund. Team Brown Voices Fund is listed as part of the coalition. These 'fund' style organizations often serve as activist infrastructure, providing financial and logistical support to street campaigns designed to overwhelm local government processes." (Fascist Italy by John Whittam, quoting Benito Mussolini). Condemning capitalism as a regime of plutocracy and reaction, and condemning communism, not on the grounds that it is opposed to individual freedom but on the grounds that it supports class hatred in place of race hatred, the Axis Powers declared war against the West eighty years ago. In the twenty first century, their heirs have followed in their footsteps and condemn capitalism as a regime of plutocracy and reaction. Harassing, doxxing, obstructing, disrupting, escalating, and spreading murder and mayhem in the streets, a new Axis power comprised of materialists denying the existence of mind, and otherworldly mystics exalting supernatural heaven as superior to the existence of matter, is advancing across the West. In the twenty first century, a red-green axis of Marxists and Muslims is helping to write the final lines of civilization.

REDS CANCEL 2026 SUMMER OLYMPICS

Death wore a balaklava and looked down from a balcony, its skull eye sockets sending the chill of fear through the crowd. This was a kidnapper from the Palestinian terror group Black September and the event was the 1972 Summer Olympics in Munich, West Germany. Eight members of the group had infiltrated the Olympic Village, killed two members of the Israeli team, and took nine team members hostage. Their demands were the release of Palestinian terrorists from Israeli jails and the release of Ulrike Meinhof, cofounder the Marxist terror group the Red Army Faction, from jail in Germany. On September 5-6, 1972, the Munich Massacre, claiming the lives of six Israeli coaches, five Israeli athletes and one West German police officer, underscored with a blood stained stylus an axis which had commenced in the mid 1960s and would wreak havoc on the world in the ensuing decades. This was an axis of two totalitarian enemies of Western liberal democracy, representing different world views but united in hate, and determined to destroy every last trace of freedom in the world. This was an axis between Marxists and Muslims, and the players at the 1972 Summer Olympics, the Red Army Faction and Black September, would be replaced over the decades, but the mission would remain the same: the destruction of civilization. A half a century after the hostage taking and mass shooting perpetrated by the Red-Green axis drowned Munich in rivers of blood, history has repeated itself and staged another tragedy at the Olympics. On February 7, 2026 at the 2026 Winter Olympics in Italy, held at sites across Lombardy and the Northeast, Red-Green violence struck again and moved the West closer into the abyss. A half a century after the Munich Massacre, the Red-Green axis has returned to the Olympics and is seeking to massacre civilization again. Look at its actions and see another Red-Green Olympics manifesto of war against the West. Winter Olympics. The returned invaders proclaim that a progressive society is a left wing activist organization. It is a Marxist environmentalist organization. It is a Marxist trade union. It is a Marxist lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender organization. It is a Palestinian terror army. It is peddles the ideology, in defiance of science, that human sex determination has no relation to DNA and can be changed by human will and intervention, and that individuals can be sexually nonbinary and can be two sexes or multiple sexes. It distributes pink balaclavas to protestors demanding that men who claim to be women be included in the Olympics and be allowed to play on women's teams. It proclaims that modern scientific and technological civilization is unsustainable and must be dismantled. It is a Palestinian Association which raises money for Hamas terrorists in Gaza. It agitates for the dissolution of America's borders, the assassination of its Immigrations and Customs enforcement agents, and the mass settlement of enemy aliens. It throws rocks, bottles and bombs at police in protest against the capitalist system. It is the Marxist Antifa mauling apart police officers. It is a gang of hoodlums, militants and delinquents dedicated to making homes, schools, businesses, offices, streets and squares safe for nothing beyond the commission of crimes: "Violence broke out on Saturday as thousands of leftist protesters took to the streets of Milan to demonstrate on the sidelines of the Winter Olympics. With the eyes of the world’s media descending upon the Italian financial hub as it cohosts the XXV Winter Olympic Games, various left wing activist groups organized in Milan to promote their disparate agendas. According to a report from Milan's leading newspaper, Corriere della Sera, around 5,000 people took to the streets on Saturday, including environmental, trade union, proLGBT, and proPalestinian groups. The Milanese daily reported that in response to the exclusion of biologically male transgender athletes from the games, protesters wearing pink balaclavas unfurled a banner reading: 'Binary is for trains. Go trans athletes'. Meanwhile, climate radicals holding mock trees protested against the 'unsustainable' use of wood to construct the bobsleigh track in the Olympic cohosting town of Cortina d'Ampezzo. Not to be ignored, a large cohort of proPalestine protesters also joined the demo over the recent arrest of Mohammad Hannoun, the president of the Palestinian Association in Italy, for allegedly raising money for the Islamist Hamas terrorists in Gaza. Others also protested the alleged presence of American Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) officers at the games, with a banner reading: 'ICE out of Milan'. This comes despite US Olympic & Paralympic Committee Chief Security Officer Nicole Deal 'unequivocally' denying that ICE agents were a part of the American delegation earlier this week, according to USA Today. As the convergent demonstrations drew on into the evening, clashes began to break out with police, with leftists being seen throwing rocks, bottles, and shooting fireworks at officers. In turn, police were forced to push back protesters with water cannons and tear gas. According to Corriere della Sera, at least six people have been arrested as of this reporting. It follows a major scandal in Italy last week, in which far left Antifa militants were filmed brutally beating a police officer at a demonstration in Turin. Deputy Prime Minister Matteo Salvini said: 'Just a few days after the shameful violence in Turin, more clashes, more attacks on the Police Forces. These are not protesters: they are criminals! And they must know that whoever touches a uniform, offends all Italians. Proud to have wanted a new Security package that will allow even more effective interventions against thugs and delinquents.' " (Chaos Erupts In Milan As Radical Leftists Clash With Police Over 'Unsustainable' Olympics by Kurt Zindulka).

2026 Winter Olympics. Returned to the Olympics in 2026, the Red-Green axis proclaims that a progressive society is a far left terror army. It coordinates sabotage attacks on railway lines, cables and cabins. It promotes Marxist totalitarianism under the banners of anarchy. It is a factory for bombs and incendiary devices deployed by the forces of Marxist terror. It is a gang of Marxist arsonists burning down the infrastructures of civilization. It is round the clock demonstrations by radical climate activists condemning Olympic games and modern scientific and industrial civilization as unsustainable: "Far left anarchist terrorists are suspected of a string of apparently coordinated sabotage attacks on Italian railway lines amid the opening of the Milan-Cortina Winter Olympic Games. An investigation was launched by the Bologna prosecutor's office, in conjunction with the DIGOS, Italy's antiterrorism police force, on Sunday morning into apparent infrastructure sabotage attacks that damaged rail lines in Bologna and Pesaro, disrupting trains across Italy. According to a report from Corriere della Sera, investigators are currently considering it likely that anarchists were behind the attacks; however, there have yet to be any arrests or suspects publicly identified. Prosecutors said that they are not ruling out any angle, including the potential of terrorist motivations. Broadcaster RAI reports that a makeshift incendiary device was used to burn cables along the Bologna-Venice line near the Castel Maggiore station. A similar device that failed to trigger was found by forensic police on a line heading towards Ancona. Meanwhile, a cabin used to operate a switch on the Ancona-Rimini line was struck in an apparent arson attack, requiring the local fire brigade to intervene. The apparent coordination of the attacks suggests that a single group was behind the sabotage. Italian Deputy Prime Minister Matteo Salvini said, 'If it is confirmed that the disruption on the high speed line is the result of a premeditated attack, on the first day of the Olympics, let's just say that someone wants to harm Italy.' The Ministry of Infrastructure and Transport said that it plans on seeking financial damages from the perpetrators, saying in a statement: 'Regarding the synchronized sabotages of railway lines that took place yesterday that caused delays and inconvenience to thousands of passengers for whom an investigation for terrorism has been opened, the MIT specifies that, once those responsible have been identified, the ministry will submit a claim for compensation for the millions in damages perpetrated. A decisive action is ready to put an end to such actions of unacceptable gravity that only create inconvenience to millions of Italians.' The attacks are reminiscent of a series of arson attacks on France's high speed railway network just before the 2024 Summer Olympic Games. Then Interior Minister Gerald Darmanin said that the sabotage strikes were like the work of the 'ultra left'; however, authorities have yet to arrest those responsible. The attack on Italy's railways also came as thousands of leftists protested in Milan on Saturday against the Olympics, with some radical climate activists accusing the Games of being 'unsustainable'. " (Anarchist Terrorists Suspected In Sabotage Strikes On Italy's Rail Network Amid Olympics by Kurt Zindulka). 2026 Winter Olympics. Returned to the Olympics in 2026, the Red-Green axis proclaims that a progressive society is comprised of saboteurs and violent criminals, severing the arteries of modern life, and seeking to overthrow liberal democracy. It is comprised of the sworn enemies of civilization, broadcasting their hate charged words and deeds to a horrified world: "Italian Prime Minister Giorgia Meloni has condemned antiOlympics protesters as 'enemies of Italy' after violence and sabotage attacks on the national rail network. The incidents happened on the first full day of competition in the Winter Games that Milan, Italy's financial capital, is hosting with the Alpine town of Cortina d'Ampezzo. Ms Meloni praised the thousands of Italians who she said were working to make the Games run smoothly and present a positive face of Italy. 'Then there are those who are enemies of Italy and Italians, demonstrating 'against the Olympics' and ensuring that these images are broadcast on television screens around the world. After others cut the railway cables to prevent trains from departing', she wrote on Instagram this morning." (Meloni Condemns 'Enemies Of Italy' After Clashes In Olympics Host City Milan, RTE, February 8, 2026). Winter Olympics. On October 13, 1977, the Red-Green axis struck Lufthansa Flight 181 en route from Palma de Mallorca to Frankfurt, West Germany. Four terrorists from the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine demanded the release of eleven Red Army terrorists held in West German prisons and two Palestinian terrorists held in Turkey. Landing in Mogadishu, Somalia, the plane was stormed by West German counterterrorist forces and the kidnappers were all killed, as was the pilot, killed by the kidnappers. On February 6, 2026, revolution rained down on the Winter Olympics. Violent demonstrations. Sabotage attacks. The national rail network set on fire. Bottles and bombs thrown at police. Gangs of criminals running rampant. The Red-Green enemies of the free world hijacked a 3000 year old sports event going back to Olympia in 776 BC and flew it into the fever swamps of ideological insanity. There were no survivors on board.

TWO FACES OF DEATH

Soviet Russia: " 'Heinz and I were prisoners at large, Margarete explained. 'None of us could leave the country unless we were sent abroad by the Comintern [Communist International] on some mission or other.' The International Control Committee, the Comintern's highest body was 'nothing but a subordinate department of the GPU', the Soviet secret police, forerunner of the KGB. The Soviets pressured Heinz to write a book on the Comintern 'showing the correctness of its decisions' and condemning 'his own serious political errors.' Heinz refused and on November 26, 1937 he was tried and executed the same day. Margarete had no clue of his fate, but knew what the deal was." (The Hero Nobody Knows by Lloyd Billingsley). National Socialist Germany: "The concentration camp staffs were 'recruited along national socialist lines, and the guards were all impassioned nazi types.' Two of the worst were SS Gestapo guard Ramdohr and SS Unterscharfuhrer Binder, the 'terror of the workshop.' As in the Soviet gulag, they worked the prisoners like slaves and fed them the bare minimum to keep them going. The camp became 'a never ending torture instead of a merely dull misery.' As Margarete came to believe 'you're never so bad off in a concentration camp that things can't get worse', and they did." (The Hero Nobody Knows by Lloyd Billingsley). In the twentieth century, two political systems emerged from a common source and drowned the world in oceans of blood. The source was the number one mass sewer religion of modern times after Christianity and Islam, and it minted a coin whose two sides stood for two monsters which would go on a rampage for over a century. The common source was Karl Marx's religion of class collectivism, which rejected the reality, rights, freedoms and dignity of the individual, and advocated a dictatorship of the proletariat over the individual. From Marxism, the Communist Bloc emerged in the twentieth century and established a global empire which, at its greatest extent, covered 35 million square kilometers and reached across Eurasia, Cuba and parts of Africa, covered one third of the earth's land surface, held 1.5 billion people captive, or one third of humanity in 1980, formed the greatest slave empire in history, and launched campaigns of class genocide which claimed the lives of 100 million people, creating the greatest bloodbath in history. From the shadow of Marxism, a student emerged in the early twentieth century who substituted race for class and devised a system of race collectivism, national Bolshevism or national socialism. Rejecting the reality, rights, freedoms and dignity of the individual, and advocating a dictatorship of the Aryan race over the individual, Adolf Hitler's Third Reich established an empire which, at its greatest extent, covered over 825,000 square kilometers in Europe, and reached from Norway and Denmark in the north to Greece in the south to France in the west, held half the population of Europe captive, and launched campaigns of race genocide which claimed the lives of six million Jews, or two thirds of Europe's Jewish population. In the twenty first century, these two forms of Marxism, the original communist version and the later Hitler created fascist version, are part of four terrifying figures advancing across civilization. These figures are the four horsemen of the apocalypse, and they are pushing the West into a second age of religion and into a new Dark Ages. The four horsemen are Marxist communism, Marxist fascism, the Christian Right and Islam, and they are final symptoms of the moral rot and decay eating away at the West in the late modern age. Communism. In the mid 1960s, Marxism underwent a second mutation after the first Hitler mutation in the 1920s. Obeying the logic of Marx's tribalist philosophy, the new mutation produced a multitribe, multigorgon monster called gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics, and it went on a rampage which has picked up speed and intensified in the twenty first century. Marxists today proclaim that a progressive society is a democratically established totalitarian tyranny. It is a procrime society which has disarmed and defunded the police, and closed down the jails. It has raised taxes on the rich to one hundred percent. It has ended fossil fuel use in its rejection of the Industrial Revolution. It seeks to stop the Olympics Games on the grounds that they are tools of capitalist, corporate, big businesss exploitation. It has seized golf courses and converted the land into public housing for the scum of the earth. It is a revolutionary society which has politicized every form of human activity. It has given migrant gangs and drug gangs control of the streets. It has set up homeless camps in schools and daycare centers. It has granted criminals, drug dealers and drug addicts the keys to cities. It has flooded public and private spaces with chaos and violence. It promotes the religion of transgenderism which proclaims, in defiance of science, that human sex determination has no relation to DNA, that it is impossible to define a male or female in biological terms, and that sex can be changed by human will and intervention: "Los Angeles’s version of Zohran Mamdani, Democratic Socialist Nithya Raman, entered the mayoral race in the City of Angels at the last minute in a bid for Karen Bass’s spot. If she’s elected, she will finish off the city– it will be an absolute catastrophe as Democratic Socialist of America (DSA) cheers its 'Program for Los Angeles,' outlining a commitment to disarming police, ending fossil fuel use, closing jails, raising taxes. They also want to stop the 2028 Olympics, seize golf courses, and convert land to public housing. Americans used to ignore those wacky communists who joined the ranks of DSA, but it is growing in its strength and influence, infecting every level of power across the United States. The group has now reached the 100,000 membership mark. A seemingly small number, but these are revolutionaries inserting themselves in key positions to take over the country. It should come as no surprise that Raman, 44, an Indian immigrant, is one of three DSA members on the LA City Council currently. She is rabidly antipolice and wants to defund them post haste. In 2022, she voted against a law banning homeless camps 500 ft from schools and daycare centers. In 2023, Raman was one of three council members who voted against a four year contract with the Los Angeles Police Protective League to give new officers a 14% raise. To justify her stance, she contended that the 'enormous fiscal impact' would keep LA from funding alternative responses to homelessness and mental health calls. As she announced her run on Saturday, Raman claimed that Los Angeles was 'no longer a place of opportunity' and 'at a breaking point', according to the New York Post. With her at the helm, that 'breaking point' will almost certainly fracture. The gangs roaming the streets there are no doubt salivating over her election chances, and any sane police officer should be heading towards the nearest exit. The union representing the LAPD bluntly asserted that electing Raman and endorsing her Democratic Socialist agenda was a 'recipe for disaster.' 'Nithya Raman wants to eliminate police officers, depopulate our jails, and allow homeless encampments anywhere the homeless want to set up camps', the union's board of directors said in an interview with the Post. 'It's a recipe for disaster and danger.' Left with pretty much no good choice out there, the union endorsed Bass previously. It snarked that if political backstabbing were a crime, 'Nithya Raman would be a wanted fugitive.' 'Raman talks a good game about accountability, but refuses to hold criminals, drug addicts, and drug dealers accountable. How can anyone trust her?' the union sanely asked. Even Democrats can see the oncoming disaster that is Raman. Susan Collins, another Democrat who ran against her, told the Post that she sold her home after 17 years in October because she had to escape her district, which is now flooded with crime because there are fewer cops on the streets. 'If Raman were to win, more people would flee Los Angeles, and it would no longer be a livable city', she said. Tish Hyman, who is a women's rights activist and is also running for mayor, cornered Raman during her mayoral announcement and asked her to define 'what a woman is.' Crickets." (DSA Stooge Nithya Raman Throws Hat In Ring For LA Mayor, A 'Recipe For Disaster And Danger' by Terresa Monroe-Hamilton). Fascism. The twenty first century has seen fascism on the march again. The brownshirts of yesteryear have returned to the scene peddling race hate, Holocaust denial, Hitler worship and Jewish conspiracies. Rejecting constitutional government, a color blind society, and the rights, freedoms and dignity of the individual, they seek to cancel civilization beneath the jackboot of a revived nationalist, blood and soil socialism: "Just three months after Charlie Kirk's assassination, the organization he cofounded became the venue for an intense debate over a fundamental question: Should conservatism remain a coalition with clear moral boundaries, or should it become a broader movement that tolerates racists, antisemites, and conspiracy theorists in the name of 'free speech' and 'not canceling anyone'? Ben Shapiro and Vivek Ramaswamy argued unapologetically that there is no place in conservatism for figures who traffic in antisemitism, racial hatred or dangerous conspiracies. People like Nick Fuentes, Candace Owens, and Tucker Carlson, or those who excuse and legitimize them. Nick Fuentes is not a misunderstood provocateur. He is an open racist, Holocaust denier, and antisemite who promotes propaganda rooted in hatred and conspiracy. His world view is fundamentally opposed to the principles of America: equality under the law, pluralism, individual liberty, and constitutional democracy. When Tucker Carlson gave Fuentes a platform in October 2025, it triggered a crisis at the Heritage Foundation. Heritage president Kevin Roberts defended Carlson, believing he was standing for free speech and against 'cancel culture.' " (Why Antisemitism Is A Losing Strategy For The Conservative Movement by Adam Millstein). The World Today. Two movements face each other as two sides of the same nightmare coin. The coin is called collectivism. The two movements were once open friends, signing in 1933 the Treaty of Friendship, Nonaggression and Neutrality. They have united and cooperated, or fought each other to the death for total power. They are mirror images of each other, with only the signs changed: "Hitlerism is brown communism, Stalinism is red fascism. The world will now understand that the only real 'ideological' issue is one between democracy, liberty and peace, on the one hand, and despotism, terror and war, on the other." (The Russian Betrayal, editorial, The New York Times, September 1939). The Marxist cancers of communism and fascism are spreading across the West and blackening free societies.

BRITAIN'S KILLING FIELDS

Everybody. Described as "the purest genocide of the Cold War era", it claimed the lives of professionals, intellectuals, farmers, property owners and educated people, one third of the nation, in a holocaust against the "bourgeois enemies of the proletariat" which sprung out of the pages of the Communist Manifesto. Transforming the Cambodian countryside into liquidation centers known as the Killing Fields, the Communist Party of Cambodia, the Khmer Rouge, conducted a class war in 1975-1979 which resulted in the deaths of 2.5 million people out of a population of eight million. The spirit which dug a mass grave and called it Democratic Kampuchea has set up shop in a land 10,000 kilometers away and continued its campaign of terror. It has set up shop in a nation which gave freedom to the modern world and wrote the documents of human betterment, reaching back to the Magna Carta, which shined light into the darkest and most benighted regions on earth. In a terrifying illustration of the eternal law of nations that the mightiest tree in the forest will fall if sufficiently rotted and decayed, the processes of moral and cultural degeneration struck Britain in the twentieth century and placed it onto a downward trajectory. In the twentieth century, the British masses voted to establish Marxism as their official state religion, and in the twenty first century, a multitribe, multigorgon Marxist monster called gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics is on a rampage and has seized control over the British countryside. Diverse, scenic, hallowed and breathtaking, the British countryside is a dream world and a picture postcard. Its tableaux are incarnations of sheer beauty. Rolling pastures, dramatic lakes, soaring mountains, steep valleys, dark forests, moody skies, sandy beaches, rugged cliffs, chalk downs, riotous flora, lush green fields and honey colored stone villages provide nourishment for the soul on its contemplative journeys. In the twenty first century, this place of refuge and sanctuary of freedom from the storms of life is under attack by the Marxist monster and is becoming unrecognizable. In the twenty first century, the British political and cultural establishment has declared war on the countryside and is killing its people. Look at the war and read a report by the establishment on its campaign of national and civilizational destruction. Britain Today. The establishment proclaims that the countryside is too white and too capitalist and is irrelevant to the new reality of Marxist identity politics, and must be occupied by a multicultural, multiracial proletariat. It must be transformed into a venue for rural radicalism declaring war against the values of the Enlightenment. It is a white capitalist environment and must be transformed into a black socialist environment. It is a liberal democratic landscape and must be transformed into a black national socialist landscape. It must be transformed into a center for Islam. It must be patrolled by the dogs of race, cultural and ethnicity politics. It must be occupied by the demographic of blacks, browns, Muslims, migrants and criminal gangs. It must distribute the resources, knowledge and skills to overthrow liberal democracy. It must be eliminated as a place for solitude and contemplation because these are white states and activities, and must be transformed into a round the clock rally of black families, friends and schools agitating for world socialist revolution. It must be transformed into a welcoming center for anticapitalist ethnic minority communities. It must be transformed into a center of inclusion of an underrepresented rainbow of Marxist identity tribes. It must be transformed into a center of diversity of ethnic and socioeconomic tribes and be ruled by a black and brown proletariat. It must be purged of whites and be taken over by black, Asian and minority ethnic groups. It must be transformed from a white space and white culture promoting freedom and independence into a nonwhite, Marxist, Muslim collectivist space promoting human enslavement. It must cease to cater to white English ideas, customs and behavior centered on individual rights, and be transformed into Pakistani, Bangladeshi and Muslim fever swamps peddling the food and beverages of extremism. It must prohibit all forms of engagement with nature and set up Marxist and Muslim political sessions to enforce a code of hate and perfect the arts of subversion: "Government officials are looking to attract ethnic minorities to live in the British countryside after a report found it was 'too white' and 'middle class'. A diversity drive has been initiated by the Department for Environment, Food & Rural Affairs (Defra) in some of the country's best known beauty spots after a review found many of them risked becoming 'irrelevant' in a multicultural society. A series of proposals has been laid out by National Landscapes to change these 'very much white environments' such as the Cotswolds and Chilterns. The Chiltern National Landscape will launch an outreach program in Luton and High Wycombe targeted at Muslims, after the report found ethnic minorities visiting the area were 'anxious over unleashed dogs'. Meanwhile, officials in the Cotswolds said they were dedicated to changing its provision in an attempt to reach 'the widest demographic'. In its own management plan, the Malvern Hills National Landscape said: 'Many minority peoples have no connection to nature in the UK because their parents and their grandparents did not feel safe enough to take them or had other survival preoccupations. This breaks down the oral traditions for learning. While most white English users value the solitude and contemplative activities which the countryside affords, the tendency for ethnic minority people is to prefer social company (family, friends, schools).' Nidderdale National Landscape in North Yorkshire had 'concerns' about how ethnic minority communities would 'be received when visiting an unfamiliar place' in the countryside. Surrey Hills management found that 'some demographics are still underrepresented in our countryside'. The 2019 Defra commissioned report on the countryside, overseen by author Julian Glover, stated: 'We are all paying for national landscapes through our taxes, and yet sometimes on our visits it has felt as if National Parks are an exclusive, mainly white, mainly middle class club. Many communities in modern Britain feel that these landscapes hold no relevance for them. The countryside is seen by both black, Asian and minority ethnic groups and white people as very much a white environment. If that is true today, then the divide is only going to widen as society changes. Our countryside will end up being irrelevant to the country that actually exists.' After it was published, the Conservative government at the time said it would 'expand community engagement, including with reference to increasing the ethnic and socioeconomic diversity of visitors'. Defra went on to produce a second report in 2022, titled Improving The Ethnic Diversity Of Visitors To England's Protected Landscapes. It found ethnic minorities associate visiting countryside landscapes with 'white culture' and see 'the English countryside as a white space, to which they did not belong'. Another concern raised was that rural facilities mainly 'cater to white English culture'. It said: 'Protected landscapes were closely associated with traditional pubs, which have limited food options and cater to people who have a drinking culture. Accordingly, Muslims from the Pakistani and Bangladeshi group said this contributed to a feeling of being unwelcome.' The Labor Government revealed its own targets for access to the countryside in 2025. A Defra spokesman said at the time: 'We will work with government, public bodies, businesses, civil society and communities to support people engaging with nature in their own ways and encourage them to do this safely and appropriately through continued promotion of the countryside code. We want to equip communities with the resources, knowledge and skills so they can respond to societal and environmental issues in their neighborhoods.' " (British Countryside Branded 'Too White And Middle Class' As Officials Target Diversity Drive by Frankie Elliott). Britan Today. The establishment proclaims that the countryside represents white capitalist values and is irrelevant to twenty first century black Marxist, Muslim British society. Traditional centers of natural beauty, inspiring the greatest composers in history, and providing free people with the peace of solitude and contemplation, are the voices of white culture, and must be surrendered to Marxist and Muslim hordes promoting regimes of fear and control. The countryside must become a center of leftwing, multiculturalist politics. It must become a rural base for radical upheaval. It must be purged of whites and freedom lovers and reflect a growing demographic of black Marxists and Muslims dedicated to the overthrow of liberal democracy: "New countryside management plans are moving to make England’s most famed and picturesque rural areas more diverse lest they become 'irrelevant' to the rapidly emerging new Britain, a report states. National Landscapes, a group of government designated areas of outstanding natural beauty are being targeted with diversity plans because they are perceived as being a 'white environment'. According to a report by The Daily Telegraph, a proposal for diversification in one of these Landscapes, the Malvern Hills—the beauty of which is well known to have inspired the great compose Sir Edward Elgar—bluntly states that the area has to change because it suits white people who value solitude and contemplation. Although it is well understood that Britain's Labor government is already engaged in an only barely disguised campaign of hostility against the countryside, the foundational work for the new Defra plans started long before the left wing party came into power. The Telegraph reports the new plans lean on reports published from 2019 when the Conservative Party were in power—a party that once relied heavily on its traditional rural voter base—on making the countryside multicultural." (UK Government Pushes Multiculturalism On 'Irrelevant' British Countryside: Report by Oliver JJ Lane). Britain Today. The attack on the countryside was a key component of communist strategy. The years of countryside terror in the Communist Bloc saw land confiscation, rural collectivization, planned famine and starvation, the waging of a "people's war" against property owners, the mass killing of farmers by "Supreme Courts of Poor and Lower Middle Peasants", and the liquidation of kulaks or well off farmers as "class enemies", which policies, one and all, resulted in the enslavement and death of tens of millions of people. In the twenty first century, the spirit of Soviet Russia, Maoist China and the Khmer Rouge has invaded the British countryside and brought down an eternal night of revolution on one thousand years of freedom and tranquility.

OUTLAW APPOINTED HISTORY CHAIR AT HARVARD

She was the face of sadism. Her nicknames are as horrifying as her crimes: The Beast of Buchenwald, the Queen of Buchenwald, the Red Witch of Buchenwald, the Butcher Widow and the Kommandeuse of Buchenwald. Margarete Ilse Koch, born September 22, 1906, died September 1, 1967, strutting through the alleys of Buchenwald torturing pieces of life waiting for death, prisoner number 297340 at the American Military Court at Dachau, has risen from the grave six decades after her death at Aichach women's prison. She resides now in a land 6000 kilometers away from Germany, a land where she has continued her mission of hate and violence. Her flags and uniforms have changed; she promotes the cause of Marxism in place of fascism, and breathes the flames of a multitribe, multigorgon Marxist monster called Gender, Race, Class, Culture, Ethnicity and Sexual Orientation Politics; but she is the same Margarete Ilse Koch as in yesteryear, and she is as determined as ever to lower the curtain on liberal democracy. She has a new name, a new look, a new status and a new profession, but her soul is the old soul occupying the annals of infamy under the heading of Buchenwald Commandant Karl-Otto Koch's wife. Her new name is Maya Jasanoff. She is the Coolidge Professor of History at Harvard University, recipient of a Guggenheim Fellowship and Windham-Campbell Literature Prize, author of Edge of Empire and Liberty's Exiles, and slated to become chairman of the History Department at Harvard. Maya Jasanoff. Professor Jasanoff proclaims that a progressive university is an antiIsrael university building Gaza encampments for the supporters of Hamas terror and giving them food and sustenance. It supports the September 11 terror attacks against America. It condemns America as a terror state because it seeks to defend the cause of freedom throughout the world. It condemns Donald Trump as a murderer, a lunatic, a liar, a narcissist, a white supremacist and a danger to society because he opposes global Marxism, global Islam, the political indoctrination of students, the transgenderist denial of sex chromosomes, and racist and sexist policies of discrimination paraded under the banners of diversity, equity and inclusion, and seeks to reestablish America's borders and deport illegal aliens. A progressive university hires professors on the basis of race and sex and seeks to replace merit selected faculties with a United Nations of race and gender politics. It condemns merit based selection and policies of nondiscrimination as weapons of white male supremacy. It lowers standards to employ more women faculty and excludes white male applicants for schools. It hires professors and admits students on the basis of race, color, religion, sex or national origin. It proiclaims that it has a right to receive taxpayer dollars to subsidize Marxist professors and their indoctrination of students. It rejects traditional academic scholarship in favor of Marxist activism. It promotes antisemitism in the name of democracy and liberal society, and condemns Donald Trump's efforts to combat its spread in universities. It condemns Israel's use of explosive pagers against Hezbollah terrorists as the killing of innocent Lebanese people. It defends Muslim, Arab and proPalestinian students in their campaigns of Jew hatred and assaults on Jewish students. It promotes academic boycotts of Israel for its crime of being the only free democratic nation in the Middle East. It supports Palestinian terror leader Mahmoud Khalil, organizer of Columbia University's Apartheid Divest campaign against Israel. It is a Marxist and Muslim association of professors and administrations. It condemns the deportation of illegal aliens and noncitizens supporting Palestinian terror. It condemns capitalism as a regime of mass incarceration. It supports mass asylum for terrorists and drug traffickers on the grounds of immigrant justice. It proclaims that the notion of objective truth is a white, bourgeois, Enlightenment fiction, that there are no right or wrong answers in history, and that all condemnations of Communist Bloc terror, purges, dictatorships, genocides and crimes against humanity are products of white, capitalist supremacy. It proclaims that courses in Western history and European history are weapons of white, capitalist supremacy. It rejects modern scientific, industrial and technological civilization and advocates a return to uncultivated plains, caveman existence and the rule of wild animals. It rejects freedom of speech in favor of Marxist ideological lockstep. It rejects academic research in favor of partisan politics, and is a campus of fear and control programming students for war and revolution: "Harvard is poised to name as the next chair of the history department a professor who said she brought oranges and bananas to the antiIsrael protesters who erected an encampment in Harvard Yard in violation of university policies. The professor also marked the anniversary of the September 11 terrorist attack by 'reflecting on the terror this country wrought on others', and she called for President Donald Trump to be subjected to 'prosecution for negligent homicide and reckless endangerment.' The professor, |Maya Jasanoff, is on leave for the 2025-2026 academic year, but a Harvard source told the Washington Free Beacon that she is expected to take over as the department chair on July 1 from Daniel Smail, who has been serving as the interim chair. In November 2020, Jasanoff greeted the election results by posting an image of a sign that said, 'America's nightmare is over. The narcissist white supremacist habitual liar lunatic LOST. It's a beautiful day!' She also posted that she had 'stayed offline' until she was alerted by 'cheers on the streets', and included emojis of a bottle of champagne and a toast '#finally Stayed offline until cheers on the street alerted me!' The previous chair, Sidney Chalhoub, recently boasted of having transformed the department from what he inaccurately described as a 'white male affinity group' into a veritable United Nations, with 'faculty native to more than fifteen countries around the world.' A current faculty member, James Hankins, is leaving for the University of Florida. Hankins explained his departure in an article, Why I'm Leaving Harvard, that described how his colleagues had lowered standards to hire more women and how he'd been told in 2021 that he could not admit a white male graduate student. Personnel choices have been a tension point between Harvard and the Trump administration. The federal government demanded in April that Harvard commit to 'reducing the power held by faculty (whether tenured or untenured) and administrators more committed to activism than scholarship' and that Harvard 'adopt and implement merit based hiring policies, and cease all preferences based on race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.' Harvard responded by filing a lawsuit against the government, denouncing what Harvard called 'assertions of power, unmoored from the law, to control teaching and learning at Harvard and to dictate how we operate.' In the conflict between the federal government and the Trump administration, Jasanoff has been dismissive of concerns about Harvard's antisemitism. In a May television appearance, Jasanoff said, 'what we are seeing from the Trump administration is a wholesale attack to try to knock down this bulwark of American democracy, of American liberal society.' When an MS Now personality asked Jasanoff about what he called Israel's use of pagers against 'innocent Lebanese people'—the pagers actually targeted Hezbollah terrorists—Jasanoff replied, 'I very much appreciate your question', and denounced 'the way in which antisemitism was instantly wielded as a charge against these protesters.' She defended the antiIsrael protesters, saying, 'It must be noted that they themselves were victimized by all kinds of doxxing and other assaults on their freedom.' Not only Jewish students, but of course Muslim students, Arab students, proPalestinian students were also being thrown into positions of great politicized persecution in the wake of the October 7th attacks.' Jasanoff is a member of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP), a group that in 2024 reversed its longstanding position and endorsed the use of academic boycotts as a weapon against Israel. As an AAUP member, she participated in a 2025 lawsuit on behalf of who served as a lead negotiator with Columbia during the illegal 2024 encampments. 'The ideological deportation policy has harmed Jasanoff's ability to hear from her noncitizen colleagues and students. She has recently observed that noncitizen colleagues and students are reluctant to speak publicly about politics and world affairs out of concern that they will be targeted for ideological deportation', the suit claimed. The Spring 2026 Harvard history course catalog lists classes about 'the rise of mass incarceration' and 'systemic problems of capitalist society', along with an 'immigrant justice lab' devoted to training and supporting 'teams of undergraduates to contribute research and writing for asylum applicants.' It also includes a class in which students contribute to 'a ten year urban rewilding plan for Harvard.' There's no course offered on the American Revolution. In 2024, Jasanoff was involved in an effort to resurrect an introductory history survey course, History 10. The Harvard Crimson quoted her at the time as saying, 'One of the fundamental things about history as well is there's no right answer, and there’s no single answer.' The Crimson also quoted her as saying, 'The idea that we would require everyone to do a European history survey just seems like a thing very much of an earlier generation. So that went away.' " (Meet The Next Chair Of The Harvard History Dept, Who Called Trump 'Narcissist White Supremacist Habitual Liar Lunatic' by Ira Stoll). Maya Jasanoff. On September 1, 1967, Ilse Koch hanged herself with a bed sheet in her prison cell. She had become delusional and believed that her victims at Buchenwald would come after her and avenge their suffering. "There is no other way. Death for me is a release", she wrote in her suicide note. In the twenty first century, at the oldest and most prestigious university in America, at an Ivy League icon founded in 1636 with the motto Truth, Ilse Koch has received a new lease on life. Committed to Marxist agitprop, Jew hatred, Israel hatred, America hatred and antiEnlightenment rabble rousing, and unmoored to truth, Maya Jasanoff is channeling the spirit of a figure of darkness.

REDS BAN FREE SPEECH

They had the power to initiate, investigate and try cases of heresy and deviation. Members of state organized tribunals, they employed violence, isolation, torture or its threat to extract confessions and denunciations. Commencing their fearsome activities in France in the twelfth century, they were in session until the early seventeenth century, and their condemnation of Galileo was a monument to the nightmare world they had brought down. In 1616, they proclaimed that Galileo's empirically based defense of the doctrine that the earth moves around the sun was heresy: "It is foolish and absurd in philosophy and heretical since it explicitly contradicts the sense of Holy Scripture. The idea of the earth's movement receives the same judgment in philosophy, and in regard to theological truth, it is erroneous." (History Of Astronomy. Lecture Notes. Texts From The Galileo Affair. A Documentary History. West Chester University). They ordered Galileo to renounce his doctrine that the earth moves: "He was ordered to abandon completely the opinion that the sun stands still at the center of the world and the earth moves, and henceforth not to hold, teach, or defend it in any way whatever, either orally or in writing." (Galileo by J. L. Heilbron). In 1633, they sentenced Galileo to lifetime house arrest and banned all his books. Confronting his persecuters, he uttered a phrase heard around the world, inspiring the voices of truth and calling them to arms against the strongholds of fear and supersitition. Galileo uttered to the judges of the Catholic Inquisition who had tyrannized Europe for centuries: And yet it moves. The Catholic Inquisition was the preeminent voice of the Dark Ages which marked the advent of a new Western Culture on the ruins of the Classical, Apollonian world, a world which exalted the empirical method and never knew such a thing as the enforcement of religious dogma. In the nineteenth century, the Christian Church was joined by another church which led a mass movement to enforce its own dogmas and stamp out empirically derived truth. It worshiped a god called the Collective and the Dictatorship of the Proletariat over the Individual, which took the place of the Christian god as the source of dogmas, as the crushing mechanism against human freedom, and as the collector of human sacrifices. Proclaiming that morality is social and not otherworldly, and is never any such thing as individual, this new religious movement was founded by Karl Marx, and his movement of Marxism would become the official religion of an empire in the twentieth century spanning Central and Eastern Europe, Asia, Africa, and Latin America, spanning China, Vietnam, North Korea, Mongolia, Cuba, Angola, Ethiopia and Mozambique, and enslaving at its height one third of humanity. This slave empire was called the Communist Bloc, and its Marxist base is, along with Christianity, Islam and fascism, among the preeminent religions ruling the world today. In the twenty first century, this Marxist member of the four horsemen of the apocalypse has become an integral part of the Western cultural and political establishment and the attitudes of the neighbors next door, and has formed the basis of a global antifree speech movement which is writing the final lines of civilization. In the twenty first century, a multitribe, multigorgon, Marxist monster called Gender, Race, Class, Culture, Ethnicity and Sexual Orientation Politics is banning all thoughts and opinions opposed to its dogmas, and hurling the ideals of the Enlightenment into the dustbin of history. Look at the West today and see the return of the spirit of the Dark Ages and the Communist Bloc, and see a shadow lengthen across the founding documents of freedom which for centuries had shined a light into the darkest places in the world. The West Today. The Western establishment proclaims that a progressive society arrests people for expressing opinions at variance with the latest Marxist party line. It arrests people for expressing opinions which are politically incorrect. It arrests people for speaking their minds, telling the truth, and identifying migrants as generally shiftless and indolent. It classifies antiMarxist speech as illegal speech. It demands total silence from opponents of Marxism. It classifies antiMarxist speech as hate speech. It classifies people who hear antiMarxist opinions as victims of crimes. It classifies antiMarxist speech as terrorist content. It classifies antiMarxist speech as disinformation. It levies massive fines on social media platforms which allow the expression antiMarxist opinions. It criminalizes conversations in homes among family members which involve the expression of politically incorrect opinions. It criminalizes parents' speech to children condemning overconsumption of alcohol and junk food, and financial irresponsibility, and criminalizes childrens' speech to parents condemning long parental absences. It is an authoritarian regime run by the jackboots of Marxist speech enforcement. It is a dictatorship in the hands of the majority repealing the traditions and institutions of Western liberal civilization: "Imagine this: You have a group of friends over for dinner. You are sitting around the table having a nice conversation about current events. You mention that you don’t like it when immigrants take advantage of social welfare instead of getting a job; you explain that your taxes would be lower if immigrants weren’t so lazy. Now imagine this: Your teenage daughter has found herself a boyfriend, and you sit her down to have a conversation about the potential consequences of being intimate with him. Your daughter dismisses your concerns by saying that she can always get an abortion, whereupon you reply that abortions are immoral. Would you be surprised if, in either of these cases, the police came to your house and arrested you for illegal speech? For those of us who live in a country where freedom of speech is sacrosanct, the very idea of being arrested for speaking your mind is absurd. Yet, the creeping expansion of free speech restrictions in many other countries is bringing the Western world closer to a point where—as the Swedish saying goes—speaking is silver, but silence is gold. The attacks on free speech generally follow two tracks, one where government directly imposes speech bans and one where it invents a new category of crime victims. The latter is better known as ‘hate speech’ legislation and seems to be the preferred path for mission creep encroachments on freedom of expression. In a report from 2023 titled The Free Speech Recession Hits Home, the American think tank Future of Free Speech notes that the 'landscape for freedom of expression' is facing 'severe challenges' globally: 'Even open democracies have implemented restrictive measures. The European Union’s Digital Services Act (DSA) exemplifies this trend, the European Commission’s aggressive enforcement of which has raised concerns among rights groups. The Commission demands the removal of content classified as 'hate speech,' 'terrorist content', 'disinformation' from major social media platforms, threatening significant fines for noncompliance. Things do not look much better at the national level. Using Britain as an example, the report points to the Online Safety Act, which 'has raised alarms about potential censorship. The Act’s stringent regulations and substantial financial penalties for not removing illegal content could inadvertently lead to the suppression of lawful speech.' Considering the long and constitutionally deeply established history of liberty in the United States, it is particularly troubling to watch Canada go the opposite way. According to website LifeSiteNews, the federal government in Ottawa is hoping to pass two legislative bills, designated C-9 and C-16, into law. Together, these two bills would allow the government to narrow the path for Canadians to express their faith; the explicit purpose is to 'remove the religious exemption for prosecutable hate speech; [Member of Parliament] Marc Miller specifically cited Bible passages as examples. With Bill C-16, they could open the door to criminalizing conversations between family members after the fact.' The bill also proposes a drastic expansion of the definition of 'coercive or controlling conduct' under federal Canadian law. That expansion would apply to 'nonviolent behaviors' that are otherwise not criminal. LifeSiteNews quotes MP Leslyn Lewis as she explains what this means: 'It criminalizes a pattern of otherwise lawful and often common behavior that may later be perceived as threatening by an intimate partner', Lewis continued. 'That means ordinary family interactions could be reinterpreted as criminal after the fact.' On her X page, MP Lewis exemplifies the kind of speech in the private home of a family that could fall under C-16: questions for a spouse about where he or she has been when coming home late; concerns about overconsumption of alcohol; disagreements over finances or junk food; concerns about parental absence; normal parental boundaries and expectations of their children. This latest Canadian aggression against free speech is concentrated on the hate speech track of government encroachments. This track is the most nefarious of the two, but the other one is not exactly child’s play either: again, it is focused on using buzzwords like ‘disinformation’ and ‘terroristic content’ to outright ban speech. By openly making some speech illegal—and by gradually expanding the realm of illegal speech—government charts a course right into open dictatorship." (How Hate Speech Laws Destroy The West by Sven Larson). The West Today. The imposition of dogma and the suppression of dissent are among the hallmarks of Marxist rule. In the Communist Bloc during the time of Stalin, the dogma of Trofim Lysenko that genes do not exist was enforced as official state orthodoxy. The existence of genes was denied on the grounds that it is incompatible with the world view of dialectical materialism, which posits reality as a whirling, Hegelian flux in which nothing is, everything becomes, and there are no stable things such as genes. Lysenko proclaimed that the notion of a gene, an "eternal substance of heredity" and a "clearly defined species" is a "bourgeois invention", and nothing in reality is as it is. Stalin ordered that the science of genetics be banned. Silenced by the imposition of Lysenkoism and dialectical materialism, 3000 biologists who recognized the existence of genes were dismissed, imprisoned, executed or sent to slave labor camps. Invented by the West and unknown in Classical times which worshiped reason, science and sanity, the darkness of religious imposition has been a shadow across the West and in the twenty first century, it is taking the West back to Galileo's inquisitors.

SA MANN MERZ

December 11, 1941. The Reichstag, Berlin, Germany. Adolf Hitler announces Germany's declaration of war against America, made four days after Japan's attack on America at Pearl Harbor. In his declaration, Hitler describes Germany's leadership of the Axis Powers and their international struggle to destroy freedom and overthrow the West: "I can only be grateful to Providence that it entrusted me with the leadership in this historic struggle which, for the next five hundred or a thousand years, will be described as decisive, not only for the history of Germany, but for the whole of Europe and indeed the whole world." Soon after the Third Reich crashed into the smoke and ruins of total surrender, the spirit of Germany's erstwhile tyrant and war monger in chief returned and reoccupied the position and office of the nation's chancellor. In the decades following the collapse of Hitler's nightmare regime, Germany has astounded the naive by learning nothing about liberal values, the Western Enlightenment and the centrality of free speech in a civilized society. Germany has astounded the naive because students of the German national character know that the Third Reich proceeded from the well springs of the German soul, worshipping at the dark altars of statism and collectivism, that the Third Reich had thousands of years of history behind it, a record of infamy passing through Hegel and Marx and paving the way for it, and that the Third Reich could never disappear in spirit but would always remain to haunt the nation, as ghosts in horror literature linger in graveyards. The terrifying, ineradicable character of Germans, giving rise to the totalitaranism of the Third Reich and the Communist Bloc, is described by William Shirer in his classic work The Rise And Fall Of The Third Reich: "The course of German history made blind obedience to temporal rulers the highest virtue of German man and put a premium on servility." The terrifying, ineradicable character of Germans has occupied every government in postwar Germany and filled the national air with the heel clicks and goose steps of creeds of control, crushing the individual. On February 13, 2026, at the Hotel Bayerischer Hof in Munich, the 62nd Munich Security Conference commenced, and the German national character was on full display. It was on full display in the person of Chancellor Friedrich Merz and the naive were astounded, but students of German history were not, at his declaration of war against free speech. Listen to his words and hear thousands of years of German history and the thunder of Germany's totalitarian fuhrer on full display. Provoking wild applause and standing ovations from the statists in the audience, Chancellor Merz delivered Hitler's creed to the world: The culture war of the MAGA [Make America Great Again] movement is not ours. Freedom of speech ends here with us when that speech is directed against human dignity and the Basic Law. Look at Germany today and see a political and cultural establishment censor unpopular speech, politically incorrect speech and speech of which the majority disapproves on the grounds that it is an affront to human dignity and the Basic Law. Germany Today. Look at Germany today and see the operation of a censorship regime directed against speech opposed to the far left. See the government violate social platform users' privacy and freedom of expression in order to maintain a far left monopoly on expression. See a nation lead the European Union in demands for data on online opponents of the far left. See the government censor speech criticizing mass, unvetted migration and the settlement of Muslim enemies of the West. See the censorship of speech advocating for an Enlightenment based constitutional order guaranteeing freedom of speech, on the grounds that such is a dangerous, radical right wing fantasy opposed to the people's democracy. See the government proclaim that free speech does not mean free speech, and that speech critical of the far left must be censored on the grounds that it is hate speech and fake news. See the police raid the homes of critics of the far left and throw them into jail on the grounds that they are purveyors of racism, lies and malicious gossip. See the government attack the foundational principles of the West guaranteeing freedom of the mind, and signal Germany's intransigent devotion to the creed of statism: "Elon Musk’s X social media firm announced it has launched legal cases in Germany against government 'overreach' against the platform’s users’ privacy and freedom of expression. Amid increasing scrutiny of the censorship regime in Germany in the wake of US Vice President JD Vance's speech at the Munich Security Conference, the Global Government Affairs division of X said on Monday that it has filed lawsuits in courts across the country to challenge the lawfulness of censorship demands. In a statement, the American tech giant claimed that Germany subunits the 'highest number of legal demands for user data to X within the European Union'. The Global Government Affairs team went on to assert that 87 per cent of these demands came in the form of 'speech related offenses'. 'X believes that these legal demands for user data are unlawful and has taken cases in both German federal and state courts challenging the lawfulness of the government's overreach into our users' privacy and freedom of expression', they said. Musk and his platform have increasingly become targets for the German political establishment for lifting many speech restrictions that came to define the end of the old Twitter management and for expressing his personal support for the antimass migration Alternative for Germany (AfD) party in the upcoming federal elections. In the final town hall event before voters head to the polls on Sunday, Green Party chancellor candidate and current finance minister, Robert Habeck, called for creating a European based and controlled social media platform within the next two years. Habeck claimed that 'Chinese algorithms and Elon Musk's right wing radical fantasies' were impacting the 'opinion formation' and thereby influencing 'our democracy'. Thus, the Green politician called for increased regulation on Chinese and American tech companies in Germany. Perhaps more concerningly for the Tesla chief, the likely next chancellor of Germany, Freidrich Merz, who now leads the formerly Merkel run Christian Democratic Union, has suggested that American entrepreneur's companies may face 'legal' repercussions following this week's elections. Despite attempting to put himself forward as a conservative candidate, the CDU leader has proudly defended Germany's censorship regime. Mimicking the left wing position at the Munich Security Conference, Merz said: 'We respect the elections in the United States and expect the same in return. We abide by the rules of our democratic institutions. Freedom of speech remains freedom of speech, but fake news and hate speech are subject to legal restrictions and independent courts.' The comments came in response to a speech from U.S. Vice President JD Vance on Friday, in which Trump's deputy chastised European nations, including Germany, for failing to live up to foundational Western principles such as freedom of expression. While the political establishment in Berlin reacted with histrionics to Vance's critiques, he was shortly vindicated as American broadcaster CBS aired footage of predawn armed police raids in Germany over a supposedly 'racist' meme posted on the internet. Local prosecutors explained that posting 'lies', 'malicious gossip', and even reposting socalled fake news could lead to jail time in the supposedly democratic nation." (German Government Sued By Elon Musk's X Over 'Unlawful' Censorship Demands, Privacy Infringements by Kurt Zindulka). Germany Today. Look at Germany today and see police raid homes enforcing a category of crime promoted by the far left, a category of noncrimes called speech crimes. See the German national character bulldoze the Western houses of liberty. See armed police officers conduct searches and seizures of homes, laptops and mobile phones of critics of the far left. See criticisms of the far left censored on the grounds of being racist hate speech. See police task forces throughout the nation handle thousands of speech cases every year and censor the German web for antiMarxist thought, condemned as hate speech. See police, prosecutors and judges throughout the nation secure thousands of speech crimes convictions every year, place the ideals of the Enlightenment protecting human liberty in the prisoner's dock, find them guilty of protecting antiMarxist speech, march them up to the gallows, and hurl them into the dustbin of history: "American broadcaster CBS followed German police as they raided homes for speech crimes, such as posting a 'racist cartoon' on the internet, which prosecutors in the country defended as a supposedly necessary safeguard to protect democracy. Just days after U.S. Vice President JD Vance lambasted Germany and other European states for failing to live up to Western ideals of liberty, particularly on the issue of free speech, CBS's 60 Minutes news magazine broadcast footage of police raids over social media posts and interviews with prosecutors defending the draconian practice. 'It's 6:01 on a Tuesday morning, and we were with state police as they raided this apartment in Northwest Germany. Inside six armed officers searched a suspect's home, then seized his laptop and cellphone. Prosecutors say those electronics may have been used to commit a crime. The crime: posting a racist cartoon online', 60 Minutes anchor Sharyn Alfonsi described. Unlike the United States, where the First Amendment protects citizens from being arrested over socalled 'hate speech', it is a very different story in Germany." (Vance Vindicated: CBS Follows German Police On Raid Over 'Racist Cartoon' Posted Online by Kurt Zindulka). Germany Today. In 1919, Adolf Hitler joined the German Workers' Party and was the fifth member. The party numbered his membership at 555 to fabricate a much larger party. In 1920, the party changed it name to the National Socialist German Workers' Party to widen its appeal. The party's membership soon grew by leaps and bounds. When it came to power in 1933, it had over two million members. By 1939, the membership had risen to 5.3 million, and by 1945, membership had risen to eight million. On May 6, 2025, Friedrich Merz was elected chancellor of Germany. ## FEMINIST FUHRERS ON HATEMONGER HILL

Upton Hill Regional Park is located in Arlington, Virginia. Featuring a waterfall, picnic areas, nine baseball batting cages and a miniature golf course, it is the mark of joy and sunshine. Used as a Union Army command during the Civil War, this storied park descended into darkness in the 1960s. During this time, it was the headquarters of the American Nazi Party. It was the scene of swastikas, stormtroopers' barracks, and armed guards keeping out everybody except party members. Run by the infamous George Lincoln Rockwell, the party proudly called Upton Regional Park Hatemongers' Hill. During the 1960s, the spirit of Rockwell's park was everywhere and informed mass movements of all stripes and varieties. Like Hatemonger Hill's national socialism, these movements were derived from Marxism, and peddled hate under the banners of a multitribe, multigorgon, Marxist monster called Gender, Race, Class, Culture, Ethnicity and Sexual Orientation Politics. Invented by Karl Marx in the nineteenth century, the original creed of the dictatorship of the proletariat produced offshoots and derivatives in the twentieth century, and Hitler's dictatorship of the Aryan race would be joined in the 1960s by a host of dictatorships, each inspired by Marx's method of rejecting individual existence and viewing society through the dark lens of mystical tribes. Thus was born the neoMarxist creed of radical feminism, the dictatorship of women over men, and thus commenced a campaign to smash the liberal legal system, predicated on fundamental fairness and due process of law, with the raised fists of a new feminist will to power. In the twenty first century, radical feminism is alive and well and stronger than ever, its institutionalization of judicial unfairness creating a movement called MeToo. Founded in 2017, the MeToo movement advocates the abolition of fundamental fairness and due process of law for men accused of sex crimes in the name of fighting sexual abuse, sexual harassment and rape culture. It proclaims that the notions of fundamental fairness and due process of law are products of patriarchy and the male point of view, and must be banished from a progressive legal system seeking justice and empowerment for women. It proclaims that women who make sexual assault allegations should be believed in the absence of corroboration, that accusations are themselves forms of evidence and a mass of accusations constitutes a mass of evidence against the accused, and that there are no such things as false accusations or false reports of sexual assault. It proclaims that women should be allowed to wait decades and decades before making sexual assault allegations. It proclaims that women who have been sexually touched, not beaten or raped, without their consent are victims of sexual assault. The MeToo movement was founded in response to allegations of sexual assault made against film producer Harvey Weinstein, and the case against Weinstein remains the preeminent symbol of the radical feminist will to power and its rampage against Enlightenment jurisprudence. Look at the case against Weinstein and see the Marxist gender gorgon in action as it has never been in action before, and see an assault against fundamental fairness and due process of law in the West as they have never been assaulted before. Radical Feminism. Radical feminism proclaims that men accused of sexual assault should be convicted even though the allegations are false, absurd, bizarre and distorted. Men can be convicted of sexual assault without proof beyond a reasonable doubt and without proof of any kind. Men charged with sexual assault are guilty as charged. Women who admit to having had consensual sex with the men they have accused of sexual assault after the alleged assaults, and have bragged about the consensual sexual encounters, have no credibility problems. Women exhibiting depression, suicidal ideation, self harm, panic attacks, uncontrolled anger and borderline personality disorder should be excused from all responsibility to prove sexual assault allegations. Women who have had consensual sex with men out of compassion, or with men they viewed as father figures or to advance their own careers, can still be considered as victims of sexual assault. Women can be considered as victims of sexual assault in the absence of sexual assault, in the absence of force, violence and nonconsent, on the doctrine of an invisible gun pointed at them. Men accused of sexual assault can be convicted on the basis of uncharged accusations. Women who make sexual assault allegations should not be expected to behave in any manner whatever as actual victims of sexual assault. Men can be convicted of sexual assault on the basis of popular agitation and pressure politics. Men accused of sexual assault should be deprived of all ability to defend themselves. Lawyers who defend men accused of sexual assault should be disbarred and dismissed from academic positions they may hold. Men accused of sexual assault should be isolated, vilified, demonized and drummed out of the human race. Sexual assault trials should resemble the fact free, evidence free witchcraft trials which devastated Europe and British America from 1400 to 1775, which resulted in the torture, imprisonment and execution of 100,000 people, and plunged the West into shame: "The conviction of Harvey Weinstein for rape and sexual assault is a travesty of justice and an indictment of the American justice system. The case against Weinstein didn't come close to proof beyond a reasonable doubt. Jessica Mann and Miriam Haleyi, the women Weinstein has now been convicted of raping on the basis of their memories of incidents taking place on March 18 2013, and in July 2006 respectively, both maintained friendly relations with Weinstein for years after the incidents took place: for both women, criminal sexual encounters apparently took place in the context of consensual sexual encounters. Mann's testimony was particularly bizarre. An unsuccessful actress who grew up in rural Washington State in an environment she described as a Pentecostal cult, with a history of depression, suicidal ideation and self harm, she told the jury she'd been diagnosed with panic disorder, and anxiety disorder, and acknowledged that her medical records included suggestions of Borderline Personality Disorder. At one point she broke down in tears on the stand as she described a sexual assault she may have suffered as a child. Asked by the defense if she had anger issues, she responded: 'Yes, I'm angry. Are you my psychiatrist?' Weinstein, she said, was a 'drill sergeant' and 'pseudo father' with whom she maintained a sexual relationship, despite not finding him attractive, out of a combination of compassion and self interest. 'Harvey validated me', she told the court. 'He always offered to help me in ways that my parents didn't. I felt approval to pursue the industry because he was encouraging. Harvey was my father's age and he gave me all the validation that I needed.' During the trial Weinstein's defense lawyer Donna Rotunno presented messages from Mann, telling Weinstein that she loved him, and that she considered him a blessing in her life. Following his conviction, all this had evaporated. The day my uncontrollable screams were heard from the witness room was the day my full voice came back into my power', Mann stated. Now she recounted mysteriously how Weinstein apparently had once threatened her father 'with an old school mafia bat —my father who was dying of cancer at that time. If you have any sympathy for the man you see before you—consider that Mr Weinstein took joy in beating to a pulp a dying man, a man poorer than him, a man who was an extension of me.' During the trial Rotunno had shown that Mann had reached out to Weinstein as her father was dying in search of support. Now she described an 'invisible gun to my head ready to be pulled if he felt in the mood. Invisible weapons known as abuse of power, are still a life threatening aspect a victim has to endure.' Weinstein's transgressions towards Haleyi related to menstrual taboos; she testified that Weinstein invited her to his Soho apartment on July 10, 2006, and forced oral sex on her: 'He held me down on the bed and he forced himself on me orally. I was on my period. I had a tampon in there. I was mortified. He forced himself on me orally, he put his mouth on my vagina.' According to Haleyi: 'And then I said, 'No, no,' and at that point I started realizing what was actually happening: I'm being raped.' Nonetheless, she decided to embark upon a sexual relationship with her rapist, meeting Weinstein later that month for a consensual, if unpleasant, liaison at the Tribeca Hotel. Several years later, Haleyi wrote to him: 'Just to remind you what a genius I am—didn't i tell you that was a great idea like 3 years ago at the mercer bar..hmm? Lots of Love Miriam.' Are these actions of rape victims? Apparently unconvinced that their testimony would prove sufficient, the District Attorney Cyrus Vance padded his case with four other women accusing Weinstein of similar actions, which were not themselves being litigated, in a highly dubious legal maneuver which aimed to establish a pattern of unsympathetic behavior. But his key witness was undoubtedly 'expert forensic psychiatrist' Barbara Ziv, also a witness in the Cosby trial, who testified that continuing an intimate relationship with one's assailant, or even pretending that the assault never happened, or even bragging about it, or a hundred other possible behaviors might ensue from an assault. There are, it would seem, no guidelines whatsoever concerning how one might reasonably expect rape victims to act, and consequently no way of assessing their credibility." (Weinstein-X by DC Miller). Radical Feminism. He is standing in front of a Victorian house bedecked with swastikas, armed with a rifle and keeping guard. His house is a barracks in which fifty members of the American Nazi Party live and give each other seig heil salutes. He is guarding George Lincoln Rockwell's Hatemonger Hill. Advocating trial by mob and trial by accusation of men accused of sexual assault, Rockwell's former headquarters of Hitler's national socialism is now occupied by the fuhrers of radical feminism.

DISEASE: HOMICIDAL PSYCHOSIS. ORIGIN: IMMANUEL KANT

The Massachusetts woman who allegedly stabbed another woman at a New York City Macy's Thursday had been released from a psychiatric hospital just hours before the attack. FOX News reported that 43 year old Kerri Aherne allegedly stabbed a woman–who happened to be employed by the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department–in the back. Aherne reportedly told law enforcement that 'voices in her head told her she had to kill someone, or she would be killed.' CBS News noted that the LA County Sheriff's Department employee is a 39 year old woman who was in the bathroom changing her ten month old daughter's diaper when she was stabbed. The stabbing victim's husband heard screaming and ran into the restroom, where he helped restrain and subdue Aherne, 'holding her until store security arrived.' CBS News pointed out that Aherne 'was arrested back in 2018 in Massachusetts for posting on Facebook about killing Senator Elizabeth Warren.' The LA County Sheriff's Department employee was taken to the hospital and released the next day. (Alleged Macy's Stabber Was In Psychiatric Hospital Hours Before Attack, Heard Voices In Her Head by AWK Hawkins). Voices in the head, commanding one to kill. Voices in the head, which must be obeyed come what may, without regard to consequences. Voices in the head, categorical imperatives which form the basis of all morality. The rising tide of crime sweeping the West today had a philosophic voice who wrote centuries ago. He is the most influential and discussed philosopher in modern times, and the moral system he championed set into motion a train of subjectivism which crashed in the twentieth century and has filled the present day with civilizational wreckage and sky high casualty figures. Immanuel Kant. "I have therefore found it necessary to deny knowledge in order to make room for faith," proclaims Immanuel Kant in his master work, the Critique Of Pure Reason, as he sets forth a mission of mental destruction whose brazenness is without precedent in history, and has served over the centuries as a clarion call to the psychotics of the world to rise up and storm the ramparts of civilization. To deny knowledge: to deny that when man perceives physical objects he in fact perceives physical objects, and does not perceive nothing at all. To deny knowledge: to deny that when man perceives physical objects he is not blind and he is not blind because he sees and because he has eyes. To deny knowledge: to deny that consciousness is the consciousness of something, and that the notion of consciousness which is conscious of nothing beyond itself is a contradiction in terms. Living in the Age of Enlightenment, Kant hated it, he hated its basis in science, empiricism, common sense and human sanity, and he sought to return the West, the antiClassical, antiApollonian culture which emerged in Europe in 1000 AD, back to its Germanic, Faustian, subjectivist roots. Listen to Faustian Kant deny the possibility of knowledge. Listen to him proceed on the basis of an insane premise and reach an insane conclusion. The insane premise is that all knowledge is derived from a process of witch doctor like, mental navel gazing, performed independently of all experience. The insane conclusion is that all socalled knowledge is therefore only knowledge of internal apriori forms, is knowledge of nothing in reality and is purely subjective, and consciousness creates its own objects: "Hitherto it has been assumed that all our knowledge must conform to objects. But all attempts to extend our knowledge of objects by establishing something in regard to them apriori, by means of ideas independently of all experience, have on this assumption ended in failure. We must therefore find out whether we may not have more success in the tasks of metaphysics if we suppose that objects must conform to our knowledge." (Critique Of Pure Reason). Immanuel Kant. Listen to Kant proclaim that the world of physical objects in space and time is a veil of illusion manufactured by man's perceptual faculty, and reality is itself nonspatial, nontemporal, nonphysical and supernatural: "I understand by the idealism of all appearances the doctrine that they are all together to be regarded as mere representations and not things in themselves, and accordingly that time and space are only subjective forms of perception and not determinations given for themselves or conditions of objects as things in themselves. To this idealism is opposed realism, which regards space and time as something given in themselves, independent of perception." (Critique Of Pure Reason). Immanuel Kant. On the basis of his denial of the possibility of knowledge, Kant denies the possibility of a morality based on reality. Listen to Kant proclaim that morality consists in obeying the commands of man's supernatural will, which alone is not part of the unreal, natural world. The supernatural will alone is pure, real and good, and man must obey its commands without regard to consequences, either to oneself or to others, and must do his duty or obey these commands just for the sake of doing his duty and obeying his commands, and for no other reason such as flourishing, perfecting himself or doing well in life: "It is impossible to think of anything at all in the world, or indeed even beyond it, that could be considered good without limitation except a good will. Understanding, wit, judgment and the like, whatever such talents of mind may be called, or courage, resolution and perseverance in one's plans, as qualities of temperament, are undoubtedly good and desirable for many purposes, but they can also be extremely evil and harmful if the will which is to make use of these gifts of nature, and whose distinctive constitution is therefore called character, is not good. It is the same with gifts of fortune. Power, riches, honor, even health and that complete well being and satisfaction with one's condition called happiness, produce boldness and thereby often arrogance as well unless a good will is present which corrects the influence of these on the mind and, in so doing, also corrects the whole principle of action and brings it into conformity with universal ends, not to mention that an impartial spectator can take no delight in seeing the uninterrupted prosperity of a being graced with no feature of a pure and good will, so that a good will seems to constitute the indispensable condition even of worthiness to be happy." (Groundwork Of The Metaphysics Of Morals). Immanuel Kant. Listen to Kant proclaim that morality consists on obeying the commands of the will without regard to whether they produce evil effects, bear evil fruit or add evil things to the world. Morality consists in striving with all one's effort and commitment to implement the commands of will though the monsters of terror and injustice be unleashed: "A good will is not good because of what it effects or accomplishes, because of its fitness to attain some proposed end, but only because of its volition, that is, it is good in itself and, regarded for itself, is to be valued incomparably higher than all that could merely be brought about by it in favor of some inclination and indeed, if you will, of the sum of all inclinations. Even if, by a special disfavor of fortune or by the niggardly provision of a stepmotherly nature, this will should wholly lack the capacity to carry out its purpose-if with its greatest efforts it should yet achieve nothing and only the good will were left (not, of course, as a mere wish but as the summoning of all means insofar as they are in our control) then, like a jewel, it would still shine by itself, as something that has its full worth in itself. Usefulness or fruitlessness can neither add anything to this worth nor take anything away from it. Its usefulness would be, as it were, only the setting to enable us to handle it more conveniently in ordinary commerce or to attract to it the attention of those who are not yet expert enough, but not to recommend it to experts or to determine its worth." (Groundwork Of The Metaphysics Of Morals). Immanuel Kant. Listen to Kant proclaim that morality consists in obedience to universal laws, defined as laws which must be obeyed in all situations and circumstances, without regard to consequences of any kind: "So act that the law of your action can become a universal law." Immanuel Kant. Listen to Kant proclaim that morality consists in doing one's duty which is obeying one's will, without thought of achieving external good uses or purposes, or possessing desires or inclinations to do good things in the world, or realizing spiritual benefits, such as rationally flourishing by being honest and not acquiring unearned wealth: "I here pass over all actions that are already recognized as contrary to duty, even though they may be useful for this or that purpose; for in their case the question whether they might have been done from duty never arises, since they even conflict with it. I also set aside actions that are really in conformity with duty but to which human beings have no inclination immediately and which they still perform because they are impelled to do so through another inclination. For in this case it is easy to distinguish whether an action in conformity with duty is done from duty or from a self seeking purpose. It is much more difficult to note this distinction when an action conforms with duty and the subject has, besides, an immediate inclination to it. For example, it certainly conforms with duty that a shopkeeper not overcharge an inexperienced customer, and where there is a good deal of trade a prudent merchant does not overcharge but keeps a fixed general price for everyone, so that a child can buy from him as well as everyone else. People are thus served honestly; but this is not nearly enough for us to believe that the merchant acted in this way from duty and basic principles of honesty; his advantage required it ; it cannot be assumed here that he had, besides, an immediate inclination toward his customers, so as from love, as it were, to give no one preference over another in the matter of price. Thus the action was done neither from duty nor from immediate inclination but merely for purposes of self interest." (Groundwork Of The Metaphysics Of Morals). Immanuel Kant. Common sense and human sanity answer Kant's morality of the categorical imperative and doing one's duty for duty's sake. It affirms that all moral laws have exceptions based on good reasons or rational warrants. It affirms that one should always be honest, except if one's honesty leads to the injustice of innocent people suffering, either oneself or others. It affirms that one should always keep one's promises, except if one's promise keeping leads to the injustice of innocent people suffering, either oneself or others. It affirms that one should always obey orders issued by one's superiors in an organization, except if one's obedience leads to the injustice of innocent people suffering, either oneself or others. It affirms that a morality separated from consequences is a contradiction, for it sanctions the production of immoral consequences, is a morality with morality, and is a morality made by and for psychopaths. Mass shootings. Sirens wailing. Streets submerged in rivers of blood and littered with body parts. Killings, injuries, grievous bodily harm and hospital emergency wards filled to overflowing. Obeying the commands of their will, their voices within, worshiping at the altars of their categorical imperatives and sacrificing morality and goodness on it, today's rising criminal populations represent the end of the line of the Kantian philosophic train. They have taken deep drafts of the Kantian morality of the will and the categorical imperative. They are the living dead, Kantian zombies and robots, monsters programmed to kill, the final, consistent, terrifying expressions of a formal academic doctrine called deontologism. They are citizens of the late modern age and are ringing down the curtain on civilization.

HIGH SCHOOL OF HATE IN SAN JOSE

We are bringing talented youngsters, the children of the broad mass of our population. Workers' sons, farmers' sons, whose parents could never afford to put their children through higher education. Later on, they will join the Party, they will attend the Castle Order, they will occupy the highest positions. We have a goal which may seem fantastic. We envisage a state in which each post will be held by the ablest son of our people, regardless of where he comes from. A state in which birth means nothing, but performance and ability mean everything. (Education In Nazi Germany by Lisa Pine). These were the Adolf Hitler Schools, described by Germany's fuhrer, and their aim was to indoctrine young people in an ideology of hate. Run by the SS, the Third Reich's premier paramilitary organization, these schools focused on creating religious fervor among their students in place of academic prowess, and mass producing indoctrinated young warriors ready to kill and destroy. Eighty years after the National Socialist school system was dissolved in the smoking ruins of Hitler's Germany, its ideas have found new actors to promote them, new places in which to propagate and new victims to program. One such place of darkness is located 9000 kilometers from Germany, located in a bright, sunny state in the former leader of the free world, and is among the leading high schools of hate in the nation. In the twenty first century, in San Jose California, in the United States of America, Branham High School is expressing, exemplifying and amplifying Jew hate and seeking to revive the Third Reich under new management. The new management, the new leaders of antisemitism in the West, the heirs and successors of Hitler's national socialists, is an alliance of Marxists and Muslims united in their hatred of freedom, liberalism and the Enlightenment, and hatred of Jews held to represent these ideas. This Soviet Star-Red Crescent alliance has launched a global war against Jews and is seeking to restart Hitler's gas chambers, and continue where the Third Reich left off. Branham High School Today. Look at Branham High School today and see Marxists and Muslims in charge, see them take a school, given the California Distinguished School award in the 2006-2007 school year, and render it unrecognizable. See them change the school's colors, navy blue, Columbia blue and white, to Marxist-Muslim deep blood red, and change the school's mascot, the Bruin, to an amalgam of the hammer and sickle, the swastika and the Red Crescent, spinning round and spitting out violence. Branham High School Today. Look at Branham High School today and see teachers form human swastikas with students and fill civilized people with feelings of revulsion. See teachers quote from their German fuhrer and condemn Jews as rulers of international finance capital which robs the working class and produces no wealth, and see them, Hitler style, threaten to annihilate Jews. See teachers fantasize about concentration camps, gas chambers and final solutions against Jews. See teachers transform the school into a national socialist Reichstag ablaze with the fires of hate and fanaticism. See teachers use school property to advocate violence and lawlessness against Jews. See teachers disgrace an admired, respected, tolerant, all American high school with the poison of Jew hate. See teachers deprive Jewish students of their rights, freedoms and dignity, and harass and assault them without surcease. See teachers transform a school beloved for its wholesome, holiday toy drives, student concerts and sporting events into a sewer of Marxist-Muslim agitation which decent people condemn. See Marxist-Muslim pseudorabbis wear Palestinian flags, deface the Israeli flag with a Muslim red cross, and condemn zionism for its Western liberal values. See teachers peddle Jew hate in antiliberal, antiEnlightenment ethnic studies programs. See teachers violate the state's education code and preach hate and discrimination against Jews. See teachers organize community circles igniting rings of fire around Jewish students. See teachers condemn Judaism and zionism for defending the West and opposing Arab terror and dictatorships in the Middle East. See teachers condemn Israel as a Western capitalist oppressor nation dehumanizing the Muslim, Palestinian proletariat, and depriving them of their rights, freedoms and independence. See teachers give biased, hate charged lessons supporting Hamas terror attacks on Israel, and advocating the transformation of Israel into Palestine and the launching of a second Holocaust: "In a disgusting display of how antisemitism has filtered from our universities down to our K-12 schools, a group of students from Branham High School in San Jose, California were revealed to have posed for a photo shoot using their bodies to construct a ‘human swastika’ on the school football field. The students then posted the image to social media alongside a quote from nazi leader Adolf Hitler. The photo is not subtle. It features eight students, who all appear to be male, lying on the grass of the football field. Four of their bodies are used to form the inner core of the ‘crooked cross’ while the remaining four students form the outer bent arms of the swastika. Branham High’s mascot, a bruin bear, painted in blue and white on the grass of the football field, is clearly visible just beyond the hateful symbol. It seems obvious that a good deal of forethought and planning went into executing the antisemitic stunt. The photo was then shared to Instagram with the following quote from Adolf Hitler: 'I want to be a prophet again today. If international financial Jews inside and outside Europe were to succeed in plunging nations into a world war once again, the result will not be Bolshevization of the earth and thus a victory for Judaism, but the annihilation of the Jewish race in Europe. The world may laugh at this statement; many laughed at my words back then. But time will show that there is more truth to this prophecy than today’s adversaries can admit. Nations will rise against those who push them into conflict, chaos and destruction.' The quote is taken from Hitler’s January 1939 speech before the German Reichstag in which he addressed the 'Jewish Question' and attempted to lay blame for the coming world war on the Jewish people even as Germany made plans to invade Poland later that same year. The Simon Weisenthal Center labeled this particular Hitler speech 'one of his most infamous addresses, in which he threatened the annihilation of the Jewish race in Europe'—a promise that he later attempted to fulfil through the ‘final solution’ of concentration camps and gas chambers. Branham High school administrators were first notified of the photo through an anonymous tip line on December 3, and began investigating its origins. The Instagram post and the account which had shared it were taken down two days later. 'Our message to the community is clear: this was a disturbing and unacceptable act of antisemitism. Actions that target, demean, or threaten Jewish students have no place at Branham,' commented school principal Beth Silbergeld. 'Many in our community were rightly appalled by the image. Personally, I am horrified by this act. Professionally, I am confident and hopeful that our school community can learn from this moment and emerge stronger and more united.' While refusing to identify the students involved or comment on specific disciplinary procedures, Principal Silbergeld promised 'justice.' 'We are responding in accordance with the education code and our district’s commitment to restorative justice,' she said in a statement. 'The students who were involved are committed to taking accountability for the harm that was done.' While the Branham High administration appears to be saying and doing all the right things in response to this outrageous and defiant act of Jew hatred on school property, one must question how such casual and gleeful antisemitism found its way into a prestigious Silicon Valley high school. A casual perusal of the Branham High Instagran page gives the impression of an all American multicultural experience, with posts highlighting holiday toy drives, student concerts, and sporting events. But lurking beneath this polished veneer, a disgusting well of Jew hatred has been brewing. This past April, the California Department of Education concluded that two ethnic studies teachers at Branham High violated the state’s education code and discriminated against Jewish students. In one class, the ethnic studies teacher (described as 'Teacher A' in the Department of Education’s report) led a 'community circle' during which they showed students an extremely biased video featuring Rabbi Yisroel Dovid Weiss who 'gives his explanation of the difference between Judaism and zionism and is seen wearing a Palestinian flag that says, ‘A Jew is not a zionist’ and below the Palestinian flag is an Israeli flag with a red cross over the Star of David.' Students in this same class were then treated to an electronic slide show which, among other things, quoted radical philosopher Paulo Freire, author of Pedagogy of the Oppressed, who wrote: 'But almost always, during the initial stage of the struggle, the oppressed, instead of striving for liberation, tend themselves to become oppressors, or ‘suboppressors.’ The very structure of their thought has been conditioned by the contradictions of the concrete, existential situation by which they were shaped. Their ideal is to be [human]; but for them, to be [human] is to be oppressors. This is their model of humanity. This phenomenon derives from the fact that the oppressed, at a certain moment of their existential experience, adopt an attitude of ‘adhesion’ to the oppressor.' Students were shown this quote and then asked, 'How can Paulo Freire’s theoretical approach to oppressors/oppressed, humanization and dehumanization help us understand what is going on between Israel and Palestine?' The ‘correct’ answer demanded by the biased lesson is obvious. The Jews, because they suffered oppression in the Holocaust, have now become ‘suboppressors’ of the Palestinians and are therefore at fault in the conflict in Gaza." (San Jose Students Form ‘Human Swastika’ On School Football Field by Sara Dogan). Branham High School Today. Students: Be the Fuhrer's Propagandists! Thus spoke a poster appearing in schools throughout Hitler's Germany, seeking to recruit students to the cause of national socialism, self sacrifice, totalitarian government and Jew hatred. At Branham High School in San Jose today, student recruitment by the new national socialists in charge is in high gear. They march under the flags of Marxism and Islam but the Jew hate remains the same, as does the plan to overthrow liberal democracy.

GEORGE SOROS'S RED TREASURY

In their new book Venona: Decoding Soviet Espionage in America, Harvey Klehr and John Haynes argue that of some fifty Americans known to have spied for Stalin (many more have never been identified), Harry Dexter White was probably the most important agent. The Venona intercepts revealed that at the 1945 conference in San Francisco founding the United Nations, White met with a Soviet KGB officer and informed him of the US negotiating position on a number of issues. (White’s KGB code name was at various times Lawyer, Richard, and Reed). Another KGB message noted that White was thinking of resigning his high Treasury post and entering the private sector because he needed more income to pay one of his daughter’s college tuition. White was regarded as so important to the Kremlin that his handlers proposed to pay the tuition so White could remain at Treasury. (Guilty As Charged by Arnold Beichman). Harry Dexter White. Senior American Treasury Department official who helped to establish the postwar economic order. He dominated the 1944 Bretton Woods Conference, a gathering of the forty four Allied nations in Bretton Woods, New Hamphire, which established the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund. Harry Dexter White. Soviet spy and agent of influence, who transmitted classified documents to Soviet agents, and sought to provoke an American war with Japan in order to tie up Japanese power and prevent a Japanese attack on the Soviet Eastern Front. In 1948, after evidence began mounting that he was a communist spy and agent of influence, and having been exposed as one by Soviet handler Elizabeth Bentley, he suffered several heart attacks and died. Harry Dexter White reappeared in the late twentieth century and has been active ever since. He was replicated in the person of an American-Hungarian investor, hedge fund manager and philanthopist. This person is worth over seven billion dollars and has donated over thirty two billion dollars to his Open Society Foundations in support of Marxist causes. First known as "The Man Who Broke The Bank Of England", and earning thereby over one billion dollars in profit, and described by Forbes magazine as "the world's most generous giver", George Soros has continued where Harry Dexter White left off, and for over a half a century has served as the financier for the Harry Dexter Whites of the world, supporting Marxist causes by bankrolling them by the billions. George Soros. Look at George Soros and see a gangster bankroll Marxist violence. See a billionaire control a global network of organizations campaigning for Marxist revolution. See a billionaire left wing activist bankroll efforts to establish closed Marxist societies through his Open Society Foundations. See him bankroll Marxist-Muslim organizations promoting Palestinian terror: Jewish Voice for Peace, Adelaide Justice Project, IfNotNow, Westpac Foundations and Students for Justice in Palestine. See him bankroll Marxist rights and antiprison organizations: Center for Constitutional Rights and the Mass Liberation Project. See him bankroll the Marxist Democrat Party and antiTrump organization, The Indivisible Project, which launched violent attacks on Elon Musk's Tesla dealerships in protest against Musk's DOGE efforts to reduce fraud and waste in the federal government. See him bankroll violent attacks on police training facilities. See him bankroll Marxist criminal organizations. See him bankroll Marxist rackets and mafias. See him bankroll dark money networks funding Marxist policies and programs and seeking to rig elections in favor of the Democrat Party. See him bankroll Marxist riots staged against Donald Trump and Immigration and Customs Enforcement. See him bankroll the Marxist Community Change Action organization, advocating race politics, black power, socialist redistribution, unchecked migration, the abolition of borders, the abolition of prisons and the abolition of the police. See him bankroll the Fair Immigration Reform Movement, advocating citizenship for illegal migrants, enemy aliens, members of drug gangs, foreign criminals and Muslim terrorists, and training children how to throw bombs, smash windows, riot down streets and burn down buildings: "Is George Soros a racketeer? That's the subject of the latest episode of the The Drill Down podcast, with Peter Schweizer and Eric Eggers of the Government Accountability Institute. Soros, the billionaire currency speculator who in 1992 netted $1 billion by shorting the British pound and bringing the Bank of England to its knees, controls a large network of left wing activist organizations from under the umbrella of his Open Society Foundations. 'The nonprofit Tides Foundation has given over $22 million to different causes in this area,' Schweizer says. 'Tides, of course, has received money from Soros and has worked at some level with his organizations. They gave $650,000 to the Jewish Voice for Peace, $710,000 to the Adelaide Justice Project, $86,000 to If Not Now, $38,000 to the Center for Constitutional Rights, $600,000 to the Mass Liberation Project, $132,000 to Westpac Foundations, and that includes Students for Justice in Palestine.' 'Now, some of these groups are not engaged in violent protests, but some are,' he says. He goes on to mention groups that violently protested construction of a police training facility in Georgia, and another group, called The Indivisible Project, that was reportedly involved in funding the violent attacks on Tesla dealerships as a protest against Elon Musk's DOGE efforts. Days ago, President Donald Trump threatened Soros and his son, Alex, with prosecution under the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations (RICO) Act, a 1970 law providing for extended criminal penalties against participants in ongoing criminal organizations. The law was meant to be a weapon for prosecutors against the Mafia, but it has been used in other contexts as well. Peter Schweizer highlights recent research by the Government Accountability Institute that explains the deep connections between Soros, fellow billionaire Bill Gates, and a dark money funding network advised and given operational and administrative support by Arabella Advisors. Funds that Arabella Advisors advises (eg the New Venture Fund and the Sixteen Thirty Fund) have given money to various left wing groups that have been tied to the antiICE riots in Los Angeles and the No Kings protests this summer in several cities. 'It's not illegal for Soros, or Elon Musk, to make contributions to political causes', Schweizer explains. As far as funding groups that incite violence, however, 'you don't have to prove that the head of the [funding] entity knew that they were going to engage in criminal activity. All you have to show is they should have known. So, if I as a funder said, 'you know what, I'm going to fund this group,' and I know they have a history of violent protests, and I fund them anyway, even if I never directed or was involved in making the decision to engage in violent protest, I could still be charged under RICO.' Soros gives money to Arabella managed funds. Soros, Tides and funds advised by Arabella Advisors have provided at least $5 million to two left wing nonprofits involved with protests that turned violent against immigration law enforcement in Los Angeles, according to recent financial disclosures available. One of those groups, Community Change Action, supported the LA protests and provided protest tips in Spanish. Its brainchild, the Fair Immigration Reform Movement, has trained children how to aggressively protest." (Schweizer: Is George Soros A Racketeer?, Breitbart News, September 3, 2025). George Soros. Look at George Soros and see him bankroll the Marxist magazine The Nation and its campaign condemning supporters of conservatives, libertarians and supporters of Donald Trump, such as Turning Point founder Charlie Kirk, as racists, homophobes, misogynists, national socialists and students of Joseph Goebbels. See him bankroll The Nation and its transgenderist activism proclaiming, in defiance of science, that human sex determination is unrelated to biological reality, unrelated to the DNA present in every human cell, and sex can be changed at will: "The president of a left wing magazine that tied slain conservative icon Charlie Kirk to nazis with false information denied Vice President JD Vance's accurate claims that George Soros funds the outlet. Vance's comments about radical left wing billionaire financier George Soros funding The Nation follows its publication of a column by former Gawker editor Elizabeth Spiers comparing the slain Turning Point USA founder to nazi propagandist Joseph Goebbles and labeling Kirk 'an unrepentant racist, transphobe, homophobe, and misogynist.' As Breitbart News reported, the latter name-calling appeared in the lead paragraph only of the 1000 word essay under the headline: Charlie Kirk's Legacy Deserves No Mourning. The publication is well funded by Soros to amplify radical left wing propaganda, Vance said Monday. 'The Nation isn't a fringe blog,' Vance said while guest hosting The Charlie Kirk Show. 'It's a well funded, well respected magazine whose publishing history goes back to the American Civil War. George Soros's Open Society Foundation funds this magazine.' The president of The Nation quickly disputed Vance's claim. 'I'm not sure where he's getting his information, but JD Vance is lying about The Nation magazine,' Bhaskar Sunkara, who identifies as a 'democratic socialist' in his profile, posted to X Monday. Despite Sunkara's denial, the outlet has received funding running into seven figures from Soros. Media Research Center's NewsBusters reports: ;'Up until 2019, The Nation was directly affiliated with the nonprofit media outfit The Nation Institute, which had in fact received at least 1.349 million dollars from Soros's organizations between 2004 and 2019, according to Foundation Directory Online data. In January 2019, it was announced that The Nation Institute was officially rebranding to become the Type Media Center to expand beyond its connections to the magazine." (Left Wing Magazine Calling Charlie Kirk 'Racist' Denies Soros Ties Exposed By JD Vance by Bradley Jaye). George Soros. During World War II and into the Cold War, the Soviet Union had a listening and propaganda device running in the United States Treasury Department. Its name was Harry Dexter White. Driven by passion and fervor for the cause of Marxism, White and his family were supported by the Soviets, who paid for his daughter's college tuition. His successor, Marxist billionaire treasurer George Soros, has flooded the planet with funds for world upheaval and revolution.

GLOBAL CAPITALISM UNDER ATTACK

It is composed of at least three shooters, who are commanded to fire simultaneously. To avoid disfigurement due to multiple shots to the head, the shooters are commanded to aim at the heart, and are guided by a bullseye. The prisoner is blindfolded, restrained and shot at dawn. This is execution by firing squad, and it has a long history, reaching back centuries, beginning in armies and wars. In the twenty first century, the greatest legacy of the Enlightenment is being destroyed by two shooters firing simultaneously. It is being executed by the people's court of mass politics, and the execution is happening not at first light but at the sunset of civilization, and is blasting out the final lines of the story of the West. In the twenty first century, global capitalism, the worldwide exchange of goods, services and capital, the system of worldwide market forces and pursuit of private profit, the system of worldwide human freedom and human flourishing, is under attack by two movements representing two versions of Marxism, and the prisoner is not blindfolded but sees the bullets speeding toward it, got the bullets speeding on their way, and has rejected all efforts to save itself. These two versions of the number religion of our time, the greatest galvanizer of human bacteria after Christianity and Islam, are the original nineteenth century version, and a variant which developed in the twentieth century. The original version of Marxism rejects individual rights in favor of class socialism and class war, while the later version, called fascism or national socialism, rejects individual rights in favor of race socialism and race war. These two versions are officially opposed to each other, and the first indeed condemns the second as regressive and reactionary while proclaiming itself to be progressive, but they are in fact brother doctrines united by a hatred of the Enlightenment ideas of science, empiricism, reason and freedom which, under the aegis of the British Empire, liberated distant, savage regions of the world in the nineteenth century. Both doctrines condemn the Enlightenment ideas of human universalism and essentialism, viewing mankind through the lens of groups and condemning rival groups as subhuman, and advocating their extermination. Both doctrines advocate statism, the system in which the state exercises substantial control over the individual, and differ only in respect to the specific character of the state, whether it exercises power on behalf of a class or a race, and whether its rules and regimentation are imposed on behalf of an international proletariat, or on behalf of an international race or a particular national or ethnic group. In the twenty first century, these two doctrines are ascendant over global capitalism, and their rifles are being endlessly reloaded by the masses, and are pulverizing it and hurling it into the dustbin of history. Marxism. Look at Marxists today and see the masses cheer them on when they proclaim that a progressive society is a communist totalitarian society, established democratically by majority vote. A progressive society abolishes private property, private enterprise and has seized the means of production. A progressive society hates Jews and Israel because they represent the capitalist system, and is a virus house of militant antisemitism and antizionism whose comrades seek to restart Hitler's gas chambers. A progressive society is a Students for Justice in Palestine movement which supports Palestinian terror attacks on Israel. A progressive society is a Boycott, Disinvestment and Sanctions movement which targets Israel for economic isolation, ostracism and total destruction. A progressive society is a radical society and a socialist society which has eliminated the problem of capitalism by teaching people that human freedom brings human slavery. A progressive society is a religious society which has smashed human reason, constitutional government and respect for the rights of others with the sledgehammers of communist and antisemitic ideologies, and has morally and fiscally bankrupted the nation: "A 2021 video of a virtual Youth Democratic Socialists of America meeting featuring Zohran Mamdani has recently resurfaced, revealing that despite his previous denials, the New York City mayoral nominee does, in fact, hold views that align with a universally accepted definition of communism. In the video, an interminably smiling Mamdani—oddly dressed in a tight, green spider web like sweater—spoke to what appeared to be college students submitting questions to him about how to succeed as a true socialist in the DSA. He repeatedly distanced himself from even mainstream DSA Socialists, strongly implying that they were not real ones and insisting that the true way to DSA's success would come from embracing not progressives but the idea of socialism itself. At one point, Mamdani went so far as to state that 'seizing the means of production' was the 'end goal,' evoking Karl Marx and Vladimir Lenin, both of whom famously spoke of socialism being merely a transitional phase to be used in achieving the true end goal of communism. In Marx's Critique of the Gotha Programme (1875), he explicitly described socialism as a transitional stage (the 'lower phase') of communism, when the state controls the means of production, eventually leading to a communist society (the 'higher phase'). Mamdani casually refers to his fellow Socialists as 'comrades' and boasts of numerous antisemitic affiliations and promises. He admits to his affiliation with the militant and virulent antizionist hate group Students for Justice in Palestine (SJP). The often violent or harassing group has repeatedly been banned or suspended from at least a dozen college campuses in the United States. What he doesn't reveal in the damning video is the fact that he was not merely a supporter of SJP but a cofounder of the Students for Justice in Palestine's chapter at Bowdoin College in Maine. Just as concerning for the Jewish people of New York, Mamdani promises in the clip not just that he will work to revoke the city's antiBDS executive order, but actively campaign to push active boycott policies into place. He brags about his work in pushing the BDS movement, which is widely viewed as antisemitic. The video, in which Mamdani explicitly claims that capitalism is the problem in the United States, undermines claims made by Mamdani in a Meet the Press interview on June 29, where he denied being a communist and stated that he identifies as a Democratic Socialist. The video exposes Mamdani as more radical than many worried New York voters had already thought. In it, he calls his own policies 'radical' but insists that they must be pushed and that adherence to a purely Socialist ideology must rise above the temptation for DSA candidates to remain in power. Rather, he expressed confidence that, in time, these ideals will prevail and be embraced by the general public. I would encourage readers to watch the entire 44 minute video. It is simply indisputable that many of the policies and beliefs he espoused, and many of the actions he has said that he would take in the video, are alarmingly tied to communist and antisemitic ideologies. In a June 23 editorial, the Chicago Tribune cautioned New York voters not to elect Mamdani, explaining that Mamdani was 'inarguably more radical' than Democratic Socialist Chicago Mayor Brandon Johnson, who has caused tremendous damage to that city and a high level of 'dysfunction, driven by fiscal missteps and political inexperience'. " (Video Exposes Mamdani As More Radical Than Thought by John Lax). Fascism. Look at fascists today and see the masses cheer them on when they proclaim that individual existence is an illusion and the primary reality is national identity, tradition, heritage and roots. Society must reject both liberal democracy and Marxist collectivism, and embrace another form of collectivism called race collectivism or national socialism. The only culture worth defending and deserving to survive is one which rejects both the liberal concern for individual rights and the Marxist concern for class rights, and adopts the fascist concern with race rights and national sovereignty. Society must be a mirror image of Marxism with only the flags reversed from class war to race war. A legitimate society is a New Right society which rejects both capitalism and communism, and gives cultural hegemony to an international white power movement. Society must reject both global capitalism and global Marxism and adopt a neoMarxist doctrine of global racism. Society must be a bulwark of resistance against both liberal freedom and Marxist enslavement to the proletariat, and must adopt the fascist system of enslavement to the race. Society must reject both liberalism and Marxism because they ignore racial, national and ethnic differences existing between people, and must modify Marxism and become national socialist. Society must reject Enlightenment universalism, which affirms the existence of universal truth, morality and human rights, and worship at the altars of the racial, the national and the particular, and become an engine of extermination of the enemies of the race: "In the leafy streets of Paris' Latin Quarter, where the Seine in the sun reflects the ancient buildings, a small bookshop once stood as a defiant sentinel. But La Nouvelle Librairie, at 11 Medicis Street, was no mere vendor of texts. It was a sanctuary for intellectual refugees—a place where ideas of tradition, identity, and heritage were debated, celebrated, cherished. Founded in July 2018 by the journalist Francois Bousquet—editor of the dazzling journal Éléments—the bookshop shone like a beacon for six years. In a city that prides itself on ideas—yet recoils from anyone who challenges its liberal [Marxist] left, progressive orthodoxies—it became, to its devotees, a shrine of free, heterodox thought; to its foes, a provocation. Both glimpsed a fragment of truth. Bousquet saw publishing as a metapolitical act, drawing inspiration from the New Right's adaptation of Antonio Gramsci's concept of cultural hegemony. The shop stood as a challenge to the homogenizing forces of globalism, to the intellectual conformity that stifles debate, to the erosion of the particular in favor of the universal. It was a library of resistance—a bulwark against forgetting." (La Nouvelle Librairie (2018-2024) by Mariano Navarro). Global Capitalism Under Attack. A single gunshot to the heart and the prisoner dies instantaneously. In the twenty first century, the cultural fusillading of the West by the communist and fascist armies of statism commenced a second ago in historical time, and now the West is dying a thousand deaths. It is dying from Marxist rounds engraved with messages of gender, race, class, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics, rounds officially antifascist, a multitribal monster emerging from the womb of the master's proletarian religion. It is dying from fascist rounds engraved with messages of race politics, ethnicity politics, nationalist politics, patriotic politics, rounds officially antiMarxist, rounds of neoMarxist hate. Before the execution squads armed by the masses, the West is vanishing into the shadows of failed civilizations, dead by suicide.

FROM BABY BOOMERS TO GENERATION Z: A TIMELINE OF ACCELERATING STATISM

I, (last name, first name), joining the ranks of the Vladimir Ilyich Lenin All Union Pioneer Organization, in the presence of my comrades solemnly promise: to passionately love and cherish my Motherland, to live as the great Lenin bade us to, as the Communist Party teaches us to, as require the laws of the Pioneers of the Soviet Union. Thus was the solemn promise a child recited on the day he or she joined the Vladimir Lenin All Union Pioneer Organization. Founded in 1922, the Young Pioneers was the leading youth organization of the Soviet Union, training children aged 9–14 how to be dutiful robots in the service of communism, ready to kill and destroy when the state commanded. Ready for fighting and fanaticism under the motto: Pioneer, to fight for the cause of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, be prepared! (Lenin's Children: On The Genealogy Of The Scouts And Pioneers In Russia 1908-1924 by Sebastian Waack). These boys and girls enter our organizations with their ten years of age, and often for the first time get a little fresh air. After four years of the Young Folk they go on to the Hitler Youth, where we have them for another four years. And even if they are still not complete national socialists, they go to Labor Service and are smoothed out there for another six, seven months. And whatever class consciousness or social status might still be left, the Wehrmacht will take care of that. (Life And Death In The Third Reich by Peter Fritzche). Thus spoke Adolf Hitler on the Third Reich's ability to transform civilized children into dutiful robots in the service of national socialism, ready to fight, kill and destroy with unwavering fanaticism when the state commanded. Statism is a virus which never dies but endlessly replicates among the masses during the final stages of civilization. Like Christianity, it is a religion of the human gutter and human bacteria which grows in the hothouses of the rejection of reason. In the twenty first century, it is growing at lightning speed and has infected a generation of children, the future leaders of the West, and transformed them into Manchurian Candidates waiting to be activated. Succeeding the Millenials or Generation Y, Generation Z, defined as people born between the mid 1990s and 2010, carry the torch of statism like their predecessors beginning with the Baby Boomers. From the Baby Boomers to Generation X to Generation Y to the present day Generation Z, a straight line ascending into greater and greater statism defines the late modern age and is digging the grave of the West's Enlightenment legacies. Today's Generation Z is the most statist generation in modern times, and is rendering the free world unrecognizable. Generation Z. Look at Generation Z and see it promote statism under all its names, from Mussolini's fascism to Hitler's national socialism to Marx's communism. See it defend the murder of 100 million people by the Communist Bloc in the name of the proletariat. See it promote a regime of big government and big welfare. See it promote the imposition of tyranny and the path to total enslavement in the name of the people. See it promote the statist mixed economy, the statist welfare state, statist price controls, and statist social justice peddled as the highest form of fairness. See it promote state ownership of the means of production. See it promote statist central planning and suffocating state regulations. See it promote statist wealth redistribution and the robbing of producer Peter to subsidize nonproducer Paul. See it worship a god called the Collective and reject the rights, freedoms and dignity of the individual. See it reject individual existence and worship at dark altar tables, stained with the blood of millions, marked totalitarian government: "A recent survey by the Cato Institute and YouGov paints a troubling picture: 62 percent of Americans aged 18–29 say they hold a 'favorable view' of socialism, and 34 percent say the same of communism. This is shocking given that communism is responsible for 100 million deaths worldwide and is rooted in socialism, the same philosophy that spawned both Mussolini's fascism and Hitler's national socialism. To favor socialism is to flirt with tyranny. Therefore, it is imperative that libertarians educate more Americans to recognize the socialist actions of big government and fight against them. As Friedrich

Hayek warned in The Road To Serfdom, 'the rise of fascism and Marxism was not a reaction against the socialist trends of the preceding period but a necessary outcome of those tendencies'. He also noted that both Mussolini and Hitler started out as socialists. In the March 2025 survey, Cato-YouGov asked a national sample of 2,000 Americans aged 18 and older about US fiscal policy, including the following: 'Do you have a favorable or unfavorable view of Socialism?' and 'Do you have a favorable or unfavorable view of communism?' A total of 43 percent said they have a 'favorable' view of socialism, and for those aged 18–29, 62 percent said favorable. For communism, a total of 14 percent said they have a favorable view; however, in the 18–29 group, 34 percent said favorable. That's about 18 million people. (The findings are estimates: there are an estimated 52 million Americans aged 18–29, so 34 percent is 17.68 million; 62 percent of that age group is roughly 32 million people). In other words, roughly one-third of young Americans say they're fine with an ideology that has outpaced nazism in terms of body count. (The Black Book Of Communism, Harvard University Press, documents that about 100 million people died in the 20th century because of communism). In addition to the communist fans, some 32 million young Americans are fine with socialism. The poll did not define socialism. So, it's unclear whether the respondents view it in the historical way, where the state owns the means of production, or if they see socialism as a modern day mixed economy with cradle to grave welfare, price controls, and 'fairness' enforced by the state. As Senator Rand Paul (R-KY) wrote in The Case Against Socialism (2019), young Americans who identify as socialists don't even agree on what the term means. Some want government ownership of industries and central planning, and others want heavy regulation, wealth redistribution, and a vast welfare state. However, what unites them is a disdain for capitalism and a preference for collectivism over individualism. This is innate to all forms of socialism. As Ayn Rand warned in 1944, 'Fascism, nazism, communism and socialism are only superficial variations of the same monstrous theme—collectivism'. In a 1965 essay, The New Fascism: Rule By Consensus, Rand added that socialism and fascism 'both negate individual rights and subordinate the individual to the collective, both deliver the livelihood and the lives of the citizens into the power of an omnipotent government—and the differences between them are only a matter of time, degree and superficial detail.' " (Young Americans Like Socialism Too Much—That's A Problem Libertarians Must Fix by Michael Chapman). Generation Z. Look at Generation Z and see a demographic cohort brainwashed by Marxists in control of the educational establishment, by propagandists reaching from kindergarten to college. See programmed human machines promote Muslim, Arab and Palestinian terror attacks on Israel and Jews. See them promote Hamas's mass murder of Jews. See them promote transgenderist claims, in defiance of science, that sex has nothing to do with chromosomes and can be changed at will. See them promote males who dress up as females and call themselves females. See them worship at the altars of transgender demonism, satanism, perversity and psychosis. See them reject liberal politics in favor of gay, lesbian and transgender tribal politics. See them condemn whites as a Western, privileged, capitalist oppressor class which must be exterminated. See them condemn capitalism as a regime of white racism and slaveholding. See them proclaim that blacks are victims of white capitalist oppression and deserve reparations from whites in the form of their entire wealth. See them proclaim that a progressive society is governed by critical race theory, which is critical of Enlightenment ideas and promotes black, Marxist, totalitarian dictatorship in their place. See them condemn as domestic terrorists all those opposed to critical race theory and the indoctrination of schoolchildren in it, and champion liberal democracy and academic education. See them condemn America as an evil, racist, oppressive nation because it has established liberal capitalism and constitutional rights. See them condemn Donald Trump as Hitler because he seeks to roll back radical leftism and return American politics to the center. Because he opposes racist and sexist discriminatory policies called diversity, equity and inclusion. Because he opposes illegal immigration and the mass settlement of Muslim haters of Western liberal values. Because he opposes LGBT tribal politics and promotes individual rights and equality of all before the law. Because he promotes Israel as the only free society in the Middle East, and opposes Palestinian terror attacks seeking to continue Hitler's Final Solution: "A large number–especially those attending today's radicalized far left colleges and universities– have been jubilantly demonstrating in America's streets their approval for monsters and murderers, in particular Hamas. (An August 2025 Harvard/Harris poll found that an astonishing 60% of Gen Z voters aged 18 to 24 supported Hamas over Israel). And no wonder. For in addition to their massive involvement with online influencers, the other major institution engaging–and reprogramming–Gen Z's minds is America's poisonous school system. Fact: America's entire education establishment, from K-12 public schools to college and graduate school–with precious few exceptions–is dominated by the far left. Not liberals. Radical leftists–the kind who enjoy subjecting preschoolers to 'drag queen story hour', where demonically possessed transgender men dressed up as women (and sometimes dressed up as demons, with horns protruding from their heads) read stories about heroic LGBT characters to innocent toddlers forced to sit at their feet. For children just a few years older, it's every bit as perverse: White children are exhorted to see themselves as 'white privileged' descendants of racist oppressors and slaveholders who should feel guilty over their despicable heritage." (Saving Gen Z And America, WND Staff, December 4, 2025). Generation Z. For over a half a century since the advent of the Baby Boomers, successive generations have accelerated the development of statism, each generation moving faster than its predecessor and shouting antiEnlightenment slogans more loudly. The latest generation represents the culmination of the West's late stage rejection of reason leading to statism. The symptoms are all present, expanding and increasing in virulence. The Marxist politics of gender, race, class, ethnicity, culture and sexual orientation, promoting multiculturalism, open immigration, dissolved borders and brazen tribalism at home, and Muslim terror throughout the world. The fascist politics of nationalism, ethnocentrism, trade protectionism and Hitler inspired populism. The Christian Right, condemning as murder the abortion of a prehuman, preembryonic, one celled zygote appearing at fertilization, and seeking to bring back the Dark Ages. Generation Z has widened the road to serfdom in the West.
